

MISS DONNA VICKROY, AND EL MER H. FRUHLING. WITH THE MAJESTIC COMEDY AND NOVELTY COMPANY AT ARCADE TO NIGHT

SKOVGAARD THRILLS OGDEN

How Axel Skovgaard, the Danish violinist who heads the New York Metropolitan company which comes to a Grande Friday evening, is entrancing and captivating Western audiences, is told in a graphic way by newspaper clippings coming forward. However he and his great company, success is attained, and compliments paid the famous Dane are most of use.

While there are four other very efficient stars in the troupe, probably the most interesting in the attraction is the coming of Skovgaard. Ogdén, critical Ogdén, which boasts more music and more musicians, than in musical Salt Lake, was enraptured with the company due here to-morrow. Says an Ogdén paper:

Violin music, the like of which has been heard in Ogdén, was heard to last night at Tabernacle by enraptured audience. The player, Axel Skovgaard, the Danish violinist and his appearance, with the New York Metropolitan company, can be recorded in local annals of music as one of the most important staged in the city. The engagement of the noted musician and his latest artists was due to the enterprise of the Weber academy lecture course committee and the audience was enthusiastically appreciative.

Impressive in appearance, being almost a giant in stature, Skovgaard (Show-gor) possesses the bigness of personality that is an attribute of the truly great in art, and this he allows full reign in a generous program. His program last night was of wonderful music, wonderfully played. The first number was Mendelssohn's "Concerto, E. Major—allegro molto appassionato, andante and allegro molto vivace." Before he was well into the first movement, the audience was convinced of his genius and, as he continued, surmounting the intricacies of the composition with faultless technique and tone coloring, interest deepened. The conclusion of each movement brought a hearty round of applause and when the Concerto was completed there were several recalls.

Later in the evening Skovgaard was heard in two groups of lighter numbers, each distinctive in theme and the highest type of music, running the gamut of emotions. The large audience was held virtually spellbound by the wonderful playing of each number.
