Three Performances Each Night if Necessary Says Manager.

Appurtenances necessary to run "Avengeing Conscience" the so-called biggest film picture ever sent into an Oregon town, arrived today and the first run of the big picture was made at the Arcade this afternoon. The film remains until tomorrow night and if necessary three runs will be made each evening. The first begins at the usual hour and two are guaranteed and a third will be put on if the crowd is there to demand it. So much has been said of the film, and its merits so well known that there remains but little more to be said today. Those who saw the picture this afternoon are live boosters for it; magnificent, grand and stupendous are some of the things it has been called. Sol Baum, is in charge of the picture.

PREACHER IN DISGUISE

Author "Servant in the House" Has Varied Literary Life.

The Servant in the House is based on the ideal toward which the world is slowly moving, universal love and truth.

Charles Rann Kennedy, the author of "The Servant in the House," comes of a famous English family of scholars, preachers and educationalists. The family includes the dramatist's grandfather, Charles Rann Kennedy the elder, whose studies in Demosthenes are well known in this country; Dr. Benjamin Hall Kennedy, the late Regius Professor of Greek in the University of Cambridge, England; and Sir William Rann Kennedy, the present Lord Justice of Appeals.

Mr. Kennedy's great grandfather, Rann Kennedy, a noted cleric and classical scholar in his day, was an intimate friend of Washington Irving, who wrote portions of his "Sketch Book" in the old Kennedy parsonage at Acocks Green in Warwickshire. His father dying young, Charles Rann Kennedy has earned his own living since the age of thirteen.

In his time he has played many parts—office-boy, lawyer's clerk, telegraphist, socialist organizer, magazine writer, lecturer, theatrical business manager, actor, producer and dramatist. In addition to the above, he at one time studied for Hold Orders, and as he playfully confesses himself, he is "even now, only a clergyman in disguise!"

This, the greatest play in the English language, will be presented in the high school auditorium Saturday, January 15, at 9 p. m. Seat reservations can be secured at Van Buren's.

Harvest Plant Refuses War Contracts

Moscow, Idaho, Jan. 10.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Idaho national harvester company today contracts tendered for the manufacture of the war munitions were rejected. The company declined to convert its harvester plant to turn out shrapnel, torpedo caps and other war accessories.

The Idaho national harvester company is the largest exclusively combine harvester plant in the world. The machine is an Idaho product invented by Idaho men and financed principally by State Senator Jerome J. Day of Moscow, one of the owners of the Hercules lead-silver mine and the Tamarac-Suster mine in the Coeur D'Alene district of Idaho; head of the new smelter being rebuilt at Northport, Wn., and of the refining and reduction works just purchased at Pittsburgh Pa.

The Idaho plant's product is designed for harvesting grain on side-hills as well as level ground; one operation cutting, threshing and sacking the grain. Two men and eight horses operate the machine at an expense of $1 an acre.

CHIEF JUSTICE IS A CANDIDATE

CHIEF JUSTICE FRANK A. MOORE.

Distinguished Jurist Who Today Announced Candidacy for Re-nomination.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 12.—(Special) Chief Justice Frank A. Moore, of St. Helena, today announced his intention to seek re-nomination for Supreme Judge at the Republican primaries.

Justice Moore has been on the supreme bench of Oregon for 24 years, and during that time he has served as chief justice four times.

Excellent health and a strong physique have discounted the years that have passed over Justice Moore for he is hale and hearty and a vigorous worker.

His re-nomination is generally conceded and endorsed by all, and so well is he liked by men of all parties in the state it is doubtful if the Democrats will oppose him at the election.

CARMEN FILM HAS ARRIVED

SHERRY'S TO RUN THEDA BARA PICTURE.

Two Days' Run Begins Tomorrow of Well Known Story.

Wonder follows wonder in the transcendental William Fox production of "Carmen." Edward Velasquez, noted Spanish artist, was brought from Seville to supervise the technical and architectural details of the Spanish cities which Mr. Fox created at his studios. The film begins a two-day run at Sherry's tomorrow.

Colonel Antonio Bravo of the Spanish army drilled the battalions of picturesque dragoons. The bull-ring is an exact replica of the famous El Toro of Seville. The streets, houses, cathedrals, plazas and castles of the studio Seville and Cordova covered a score of acres. Five thousand persons participate in festa scene.

Theda Bara as Carmen, the gypsy flirt, rises to histrionic heights never attained in any previous triumph. Her immediate supporting company is composed of the pick and pride of

ENGLISH ANXIOUS FOR A FINISH FIGHT.

Submarine Scare Has Abated—Missed Zeppelin Raids Each Time.

Baker, Jan. 12.—Although the English people as a whole are anxious for peace to be concluded, they are just as anxious that the war be fought out to a finish, eliminating the resumption of later hostilities, according to Fred Swinger, son of Charles Swinger, formerly of this city, who returned last night from a two years' mission in the British Isles for the L. D. S. church.

"A small faction in Ireland assert they would just as soon live under the Kaiser as under the King's rule," Mr. Swinger said today, "but on the whole, the people are intensely loyal."

"When I left conscription was being awaited by a large number of citizens who believe that if the country really needs them, drafting will be resorted to. The common people are optimistic, but since the barriers of censorship have broken down, they realize to the full the seriousness of the situation."

"I saw trainloads of wounded and other trainloads being rushed to seaports to go to the front and fill the gaps left in the ranks by those retired for injuries, or killed. Several times, I was in London, but each time missed a Zeppelin raid. Except for the incessant plan of searchlights in the heavens, the cities of England are absolutely darkened at night. Often I was stopped by police officials and asked to show my papers to prove that I was not a German spy."

Mr. Swinger declared that the submarine situation has ceased to cause fear in England, but emphasized the heavy strain which enlistment is making on the nation. "Everywhere women are beginning to fill positions once only open to men," he said.

ANIMAL LIFE IMPROVES.

Government Points to Improvements in Warring Disease.

Washington, Jan. 11.—(Special)—The annual report of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the department, which has just been published, states that satisfactory progress was made during the year in the work eradicating a number of animal diseases. In addition to stamping out the foot-and-mouth disease, much was done in the South toward the elimination of the cattle tick, and in the West the eradication of scabies of sheep and cattle has been brought nearer to completion.

In regard to the eradication of the cattle tick, the report states that as the work proceeds and its benefits become more apparent it is being more heartily supported and pushed by the people. In the territory already freed of ticks, which, including the area freed since the beginning of the current fiscal year, is now more than one-third of that formerly quarantined, work is being done for the building up of the beef-cattle and dairy industries. Effective cooperation, it is said, has come from transportation companies, commercial clubs, bankers and other business men who were farsighted enough to realize that the eradication of the cattle tick and the subsequent development of the livestock industry means an increase of business for all interests concerned. The work of eradication is being done in cooperation with State authorities and is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible with the means at hand.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, nearly 10,000 square miles in the State of Utah were released from quarantine on account of sheep scabies. Nearly 4,000,000 sheep were dipped in this quarantined area during the fiscal year in cooperation with State officials. A total of 74,200 square miles was also released from quarantine on account of cattle scabies. Good progress is also reported in the eradication of dourine in horses.

Progress has been made also in the treatment of anthrax. Experiments on both large and small animals have proved the effectiveness of simultaneous injections of an immunizing serum and a spore vaccine. Several outbreaks of the disease furnished an opportunity to test this method in actual practice. In Mississippi, where a considerable number of animals have been lost in the part from anthrax, no deaths resulted among those which were immunized by the simultaneous method. An outbreak among hogs in Maryland was checked by the same means. In connection with this work attention is called to the curative effect of the serum as well as to its immunizing value.

Hog-cholera work has been continued, the report says, and now consists of investigations into the possibilities of county control, educational work designed to secure the aid of the farmers, and the enforcement of the virus-serum-toxin law. The results of the work show, the report says, that losses from hog cholera can be reduced to a minimum and the industry of hog raising increased in any given area. At the present time, however, a country-wide campaign for the eradication of hog cholera is regarded as ill-advised. As a preliminary to such a campaign, the various States should have more effective laws for dealing with diseases of livestock and more effective legislation for the enforcement of the laws. Although some States are well equipped in these respects, the eradication of hog cholera within their limits would still leave them exposed to the risk of reinfection from other States. Until the country is prepared, therefore, to undertake a real campaign for permanent control, it is recommended that the function of the Federal Government should be to a large extent confined to assisting the States in organizing stable organizations among farmers and in securing a proper distribution and administration of potent hog-cholera serum. The nature of hog cholera, the ways in which it is spread, and the best methods of combating it should also be made plain to farmers through lectures, demonstrations, and printed articles. Each farmer of the State should be acquainted with the location of the nearest serum depot, and hog-cholera serum should be made as readily available as possible.

In connection with the problems of production, the report calls attention to the value of the boys' and girls' pig clubs and poultry clubs. The pig clubs now have 9,000 members and the poultry clubs nearly 4,000. Livestock demonstration work in areas freed of ticks has been carried on in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, and Arkansas in cooperation with the State agricultural colleges. Definite demonstrations with livestock have been conducted and registered beef cattle and hogs introduced for breeding purposes. Improvement in the quality of market milk is also noticeable as a result of the efforts of the department and various other agencies. Furthermore, by means of cow-testing associations, the milk yield of many dairy herds is being increased and the cost reduced. The report also calls attention to the increasing extent of the meat-inspection service, more than 58,000,000 animals having been slaughtered under Federal inspection during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915. Over seven and a half million pounds of meat and meat food products were prepared under federal inspection. The danger from pork in products that are customarily eaten without cooking has been minimized by the discovery of a new method of destroying trichinae. This consists in storing the meat at a temperature no higher than 5 degrees F. for a period of 20 days. This is sufficient to destroy the trichina parasite and renders unnecessary the expensive and unsatisfactory microscopic inspection which is still used in some countries.
