Coffee

We point to the choosing—blending—roasting—grinding—freeing from chaff-of Schilling's Best, and say, "All necessary in developing its smooth rich flavor."

But of the airtight tins, we say, "These alone get credit for carrying the fine flavor safe to you. Without them, you could not get such coffee."

These tins mean economy—they save all the flavor for your coffee-cup.

Strange climatic freaks prevail in Eastern Oregon. Yesterday morning when the mercury was near record minimum here, it was real pleasant at the intake at the Beaver Creek dam, many hundred feet higher than La Grande. Ordinarily it is very cold there, and snow even now is four feet deep on the level. Yesterday morning it was 10 above early in the day and remained around 18 and 20 all day. This morning at 9 o'clock it was 22 above zero at the intake. During the time that it was so extremely cold elsewhere in Eastern Oregon, it was snowing at the intake, with moderate temperature.

Come in and hear the new Victor and Edison records just received.—Newlin Book & Stationery Co.—Adv. 1-18-1t

Fire Chief Benham is today repairing a badly twisted fender on the fire truck as the result of a clash with a Ford automobile. Yesterday while en route to the fire at the Power station, Sam Andrews was driving in the same direction with his Ford. The truck bumped the Ford, tossing it aside with some little damage to it, and a badly twisted fender on the truck. No one was injured.
