ARCADE

COMING TO THE ARCADE THEATRE

AT THE ARCADE.

FUNNIEST ADE'S PLAY.

Uproarious Comedy Is Billed for Today and Tomorrow.

"Father and the Boy" Will Be at the Arcade Soon.

In "He Was Only a Bathing Suit Salesman," Harry Myers has produced a comedy which is distinctively out of the ordinary. First of all, it is an artistic triumph for Mr. Myers, from subtleties to locations. The action is fast and furious and it is staged in unusual surroundings.

America's foremost humorist, George Ade, wrote "Father and the Boys," the five-reel Universal photoplay which comes to the Arcade soon.
Digby Bell, who plays the leading role in the production, has been known to theatergoers as a polished comedianian since 1870. To those who decry the old school of acting his work in "Father and the Boys" is a revelation.

The comedy is not confined to park benches or backeyed backgrounds but in its three reels takes us from Washington to Baltimore, to Philadelphia, and then back to New York.

"Father and the Boys" is George Ade's funniest play. It was directed by Joseph De Grasse at Universal City, California, the only actually incorporated moving picture municipality in the world.—Adv.

Some of the scenes are staged with the White House as a setting, others with the Capitol in the background, while others show us the streets of the Monument City, where visitors are led around the fire area, to Poe's grave and to the hallowed spot where the last Democratic convention was held. Then we are whisked into Phillis, the home of "Home Run" Baker, Connie Mack and the Liberty Bell—when the latter is at home. We accompany a fickle traveling salesman on his peregrinations around the circle and we meet all the young ladies whom a progressive traveling salesman is wont to meet. We see him conducting a school of diving girls, are permitted to enter the pool and demonstrating parlor where exceedingly buxom blondes and slyph-like nymphs try on bathing suits, and we are admitted to a view of the salesman's home life.

The Habit of Taking Cold.

With many people taking cold is a habit, but fortunately one that is easily broken. Take a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get out of bed—not ice water, but a temperature of about 90 degrees F. Also sleep with your window up. Do this and you will seldom take cold. When you do take cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of it as quickly as possible. Obtainable everywhere.

At the Arcade today and tomorrow.

Today's Oddest Story

Jacksonville, Fla. Jan. 19.— Five hundred and eighty one mayors of southern cities have been invited and more than half of them are expected to come here today to discuss the perplexing municipal problem of the traveling pauper, thousands of whom talk city administrations out of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of transportation every year.

Nothing but an American.

When I look back on the shifting scenes of my life, if I am not that altogether deplorable creature, a man without a country, I am, when it comes to pull and prestige, almost equally bereft, as I am a man without a state.
I was born in Indiana. I grew up in Illinois. I was educated in Rhode Island, and it is no blame to that scholarly community that I know so little. I learned my law in Springfield and my politics in Washington, my diplomacy in Europe, Asia and Africa. I have a farm in New Hampshire and desk room in the District of Columbia.

When I look to the springs from which my blood descends the first ancestors I ever heard of were a Scotchman who was half English and a German woman who was half French. Of my immediate progenitors my mother was from New England and my father was from the south. In this bewilderment of origin and experience I can only put on an aspect of deep humility in any gathering of favorite sons and confess that I am nothing but an American.—From "The Life and Letters of John Hay" in Harper's Magazine.

Edison's Incandescent.

According to a friend, Thomas A.
Edison is of the opinion that it was anger that first turned him toward inventing the incandescent light, reports the Newark News. How it happened is related by the friend, who says:

"That was, of course, in the early days, and Mr. Edison was then quite the inventor that one reads of—poor, enthusiastic, never sleeping. He lived in a small house, innocent of anything approaching a laboratory. Scientific devices were in every room, and all the money went for experiments.
Then one day came the crisis in the guise of the collector for the gas company. He had been in the house often, but Edison, hardly heeding his calls, had waved him away, saying, 'Don't bother me!'"

"On this last call the collector's instructions were peremptory. He must turn off the gas. He did so, and that act started Edison on the road to the incandescent light."

Thumbail Fairy Tale.

"No doubt," we said to the plumber, "you'll have to dig the entire street up before you can fix that leak in the bathtub."

"Shucks, no," replied the plumber;
"it won't take a minute. It only needs a new washer, and I wouldn't charge you anything for a little job like that."
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Heavy Returns.

"What business brings the heaviest returns?" asked the man who wanted to know.
"The literary business," sighed the struggling author as he opened a two pound rejected book manuscript.—Philadelphia Record.

The Cost of Fame.

"Why do you work for money instead of fame?"
"I want to get the money first. My observation teaches me that fame is a most expensive luxury that the rich only can afford to live up to."—Detroit Free Press.
