OUR MARINE CORPS.

Its Status in the Military Organization of the Nation.
The United States marine corps was first called into existence by an act of the Continental congress of Nov. 10, 1775, and gallantly served throughout the Revolutionary war. It was disbanded at the close of the war, April 11, 1782, but was reorganized and permanently established July 11, 1798. From that day to this its officers and men have been zealous participants in every expedition in which the navy has engaged, and in many trying campaigns they have won distinction with their brethren of the army.
It is the gallant little corps that has so ably assisted in fighting America's battles in every corner of the globe for more than a century. Its members are the first men on the ground in case of trouble with a foreign power and the first men into battle in case of hostilities. They have at all times served their country faithfully both in peace and war and have reflected great credit upon themselves as a corps and on the nation which they represent. Ever have they lived up to the motto of the corps, "Semper fidelis." Marines serve on both land and sea, but are trained, clothed and equipped very much as are soldiers of the land forces.
The military and naval services of the United States are divided into three separate and distinct branches—the army with its duties on land, the navy at sea and the marine corps, which serves both on land and sea. The marine corps is a separate organization entirely and is under the direct supervision of the secretary of the navy and usually serves with the navy. In time of war or other public necessity the president is empowered to detach the marines for service with the army.

Right, but Wrong.
The late Professor Thomas R. Lounsbury of Yale, speaking at Cambridge, England, on the proper use of English, according to the Philadelphia Bulletin, said:
"But precision can be carried too far. The ultra precise, even when logically right, are really wrong.
"An ultra precise professor went into a hardware shop and said, 'Show me a shears, please.'
"'You mean a pair of shears, don't you?' said the dealer.
"'No,' said the professor; 'I mean what I say. I mean a shears.'
"The dealer took down a box of shears.
"'Look here, professor,' he said, 'aren't there two blades here? And don't two make a pair?
"'Well, you've got two legs. Does that make you a pair of men? And the professor smiled at the dealer triumphantly through his spectacles.
"'He was logically right," said Professor Lounsbury, "but really he was wrong."

Beauty Fills the House.
"Is she pretty?"
"Pretty? Why, that girl is so pretty that plenty of fellows are glad to fall on her father and mother."—Pittsburgh Post.
True courage is not incompatible with nervousness, and heroism does not mean the absence of fear, but the conquest of it.
