TWO COLLEGES WANT UNITY

AMALGAMATION OF SCHOOLS SOUGHT.

Dental and Eye-Glass Institutions Want to Join U. of O. This Year.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Jan. 21.—Still further development of the State University's rapid expansion in professional education may come next June when additions of two schools will be acted upon by the board of regents. One is a school of optometry, for which the optometrists of the state have petitioned. The other is the North Pacific College of Dentistry, at Portland, which has petitioned for affiliation.

The creation of a school of optometry and the admission of the North Pacific Dental College were put up to the board of regents at its meeting Tuesday. The board elevated the department of journalism into a school and the department of architecture into a school. This gives the state university the following professional schools at this time: Journalism, medicine, law, education, commerce, architecture and music. Professor Eric W. Allen, head of the department of journalism, thus became a dean, as did Professor Ellis F. Lawrence, head of the department of architecture.

The regents also created the University's extension and correspondence-study work into a school with Dr. Joseph Schafer as dean.

A new idea in education was presented by President P. L. Campbell to the regents Tuesday. It is an idea that for the present is perhaps original with Oregon. President Campbell in his report expressed it this way:

"The last generation saw the democratization of public school education. This generation is seeing the democratization of high school education; for example, in Portland 69 per cent and in Eugene 97 per cent of last year's eighth grade graduates entered high schools. The next generation will see the democratization of University education.

"Such democratization is to be sought fully as vigorously as the democratization of elementary education. The modern university aims to make effective workers as well as clear thinkers of its students. The old ideal of university education for a few picked leaders has given place to the broader conception of higher education made universal."

President Campbell then explains that the University faculty plans during the coming year to inaugurate a much more inexpensive living for State University students. It is hoped that the present average cost of a year at the University may be nearly cut in two for those for whom strict economy is necessary.

The regents authorized a $40,000 building to house the school of education, the work of which has troubled during the last two or three years. The students trained in this school of education are now doing work in nearly every standard high school of the state.

The graduating class of 1916 will show an increase of 25 per cent over that of last year.

The creation of a professorship of Spanish and of new positions in education, architecture, law, commercial and industrial service, commerce, sociology, printing, rhetoric, public speaking and music were recommended and will be up for final action in June.

Only three salaries were increased. The regents approved the plan of an all-Oregon historical pageant to be given in commencement week in June.

SOME IMPORTED WORDS.

Their Use Here and Their Meanings in Their Native Land.

You are so familiar with those three imported words, chauffeur, tonneau and limousine, that it would never occur to you to ask whether they really apply to the objects which they have been made to describe.

You know that a chauffeur is the man who is hired to drive a motorcar. The mere driving of the car is not the thing which gives the name its significance, for it does not apply to the owner of the car when he drives. In like manner you know that the tonneau is the part of the machine which is behind the driver's seat and accommodates three or five persons. When the possessor of an automobile is sufficiently opulent he has a limousine body for winter use, and probably it is electric heated and has a bunch of fresh flowers in the wall vase every morning. To these three vocables, with their smell of greenbacks and their rattle of silks, we might add another, even more suggestive of the expenditure of money, the word "hangar," which was dragged into the language when the glided youth wearied of sixty horsepower speed and took to the air.

Would you be shocked to learn that a hangar, in rural France, where aeroplanes are almost unknown, is nothing but a shed for the farm cart? And what of the chauffeur? The high school girl was horrified to find, by consulting her dictionary, that he was either a fireman or a braggart. Almost as disconcerting was the revelation that a "tonneau" was nothing but a vat or tub. But the cruelest blow of all fell when the limousine was shown up as rough goatskin, worn by peasants near Limoges.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HOLLAND'S SUBMARINE.

The Motive That Is Said to Have Inspired the Inventor.

John P. Holland, the inventor of the modern submarine, was an ardent advocate of freedom for Ireland, says a writer in World's Work. With this end in view, he allied himself with the Fenian movement in America and designed for it a type of vessel with which he hoped to destroy England's fleet. The Fenians financed the scheme, and Holland designed a boat which for several months entertained the people on the waters around New York.

The Fenians had done everything they could to keep the thing a secret, though rumors of the usual "British spies" were numerous. Occasionally an excursion boat or a tug would be amazed to see a peculiar contrivance suddenly stick its head out of the waters. There were stories that it was a sea serpent, or a whale, or a derelict. When the conning tower opened, however, and Holland's good natured Irish face suddenly peered out on the outside world the mystery was explained.

The inventor had no difficulty in operating in all the waters about New York. His boat handled easily, deftly and safely, the only trouble being, as always, with the engine. The newspapers, which devoted columns to his under water voyages, dubbed the vessel the Fenian Ram, a name more picturesque than descriptive, as it was not a ram at all, but a torpedo boat.

An Impartial Student.

We were walking through the apartments of his excellency Mr. Samarth, the prime minister of the gawkwar of Baroda, about two years ago, and noticed an open Bible on a table at the head of the prime minister's bed. I asked why he, a devout Hindu, was interested in the Bible. He replied: "I spend a half hour each day reading this book along with the sacred book of Hinduism. I have found it one of the greatest influences in developing my intellectual as well as my spiritual life. You may be interested to know," he continued, "that the educated men of India know the Bible, as a rule, quite as well as they know any one of their own sacred classics."—Christian Herald.

A Famous Compliment.

Of famous compliments paid to the fair sex the supply is so large and dazzling that it is a matter of no small difficulty to pick out the brightest gems, but if the following was overlooked for it certainly deserves a place among the best: Fontenelle when ninety years old passed before Mme. Helvetius without noticing her.

"Ah," said the lady, "that is your gallantry, then! To pass before me without ever looking at me!" "If I had looked at you, madam," replied the old beau, "I never could have passed you at all."

Obviously Incompetent.

"Did old Dr. Gruffer seem to understand your complaint?" "No; the man's an ignoramus. I explained to him I wanted to be advised to take perfect rest and a trip, and he said what I needed was to skip rope and stop thinking up imaginary troubles.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Bad Habits.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.

SUDDEN DEATH

Caused by Disease of the Kidneys.

The close connection which exists between the heart and the kidneys is well known nowadays. As soon as kidneys are diseased, arterial tension is increased and the heart functions are attacked. When the kidneys no longer pour forth waste, uremic poisoning occurs and the person dies, and the cause is often given as heart disease, or disease of brain or lungs.

WORRY, DESPONDENCY.

Kidney Disease is suspected by medical men when patients complain of backache or suffer with irregular urination, disturbed, too frequent, scanty or painful passage. The general symptoms are rheumatic pains or neuralgia, headaches, dizzy spells, irritability, despondency, weakness and general misery. Worry is a frequent cause and sometimes a symptom of kidney disease. Thousands have testified to immediate relief from these symptoms after using Dr. Pierce's Auric Tablets.
