PRESENT HOUR TRIFLE COMPARED TO ONE IN 1884-5

This is not the only snow blockade the railroad has experienced, by any means. The worst tie-up, outside of the A. R. U. strike in 1894, was in the winter of 1884-5. There was just as much, and perhaps more of a snowfall than there is now, although at the earlier date the snow fall may have been longer in coming. When the trains were finally balked there was not a wheel moved for about a month.

But the conditions for railroad operating were much different from the present. The rails reached La Grande in June 1884. Then the track was pushed on to Baker and finally to Huntington that same year. The road was new and there were no rotary plows in those days. Snow was bucked from the track by means of an engine rigged with a "plow" in front and with several engines coupled on behind to do most of the pushing. There was no mail from any direction and no railroad traffic of any kind, but the people had scarcely become so accustomed to depending on the railroad and the inconvenience on account of the blockade was not particularly noticeable.

News of Twenty-four Years Ago
John Daly, the contractor, has finished plans and estimates for A. G. Huntington's new building on Adams avenue.

A fire was discovered in the basement of the new high school building Tuesday. Help immediately arrived and the flames were extinguished without much damage. The fire is supposed to have been started by some one of the young pupils. (The "high school building" was the old white structure long since abandoned for school purposes.)

La Grande has a new club the "welcome." It's object is to enable the old pioneers and those who have arrived more recently to become acquainted with each other and to promote a better and more social state of society. Association does more to make men better and broader than anything else.

Mrs. Lon Cleaver entertained members of the Whist club at her residence Tuesday evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. McComas, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Crain, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper H. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pennel, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Borie, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Berry and Mrs. G. W. Webb.

DECREE SET ASIDE

Divorce Granted to Baker Fugitive Is Rescinded

Baker Feb. 4.—Circuit Judge Anderson yesterday on petition of Mrs. Carrie Burford set aside the decree of divorce granted to Arthur Burford from the petitioner on Jan. 8 of this year. Attached to the petition was an affidavit by Mrs. Burford showing the intent of her husband to secure a divorce and marry Georgia Lawrence at Caldwell, which shows that he committed perjury in swearing that he had never been married before.

The order setting aside the divorce also gives Mrs. Burford possession of certain checks and money received in the mail addressed to her husband after he left Baker.

Idle Horses in Winter

At this time of the year, practically all heavy work on most farms has been finished, and with the approach of winter, horses are more or less idle. Since idle horses give no return in labor performed, the feeding should be as economical as possible, and proper care should be taken of horses in tin condition in order that they may be in the best possible condition for work in the early spring.

Horses should not be confined to the barn during the winter, on a liberal supply of grain. It is far better to "rough" them through the cold months. They should be given the run of the lot or yard during the day. This should be provided with a protected shed, one that is thoroughly dry and well provided with bedding. While nature does her part and protects the horse with a heavy coat of hair during the cold months, the shed is necessary in order to afford the necessary shelter and protection against rains, snow and cold winds. Winter winds come mostly from the northwest, and the shed should be so situated and constructed as to give the proper protection from this quarter.

In the feeding of idle horses, the high-priced feeds should be avoided, in order to keep them in proper condition at the lowest cost. It has been found that idle horses do very well on a winter feed consisting of all the hay, oat straw, cornstalks, or sorghums they will consume, so that little grain is necessary. Idleness also permits of a more thorough mastication of the feed, thus insuring proper digestion. From six to eight weeks before the spring work is started, the horses should be put at light work and started on a small grain ration, in order that they may be in proper condition for the work required of them. The grain ration may then be gradually be increased until the regular allowance has been reached for the working season.

Growing colts require considerable protein. They should be so fed as to secure proper development and at a minimum cost. Rough feed such as clean mixed hay, alfalfa, or clover may be fed along with a mixture of bran, oats, and corn.—United States Department of Agriculture.
