DRY IS CLAIM.

Congress Has Remarkable Bill Before it Concerning Wash. D. C.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Washington man who keeps bay rum for his hair and the housewife who puts vanilla in the angel cake are both likely to be visited by the Metropolitan police if Senator Sheppard's prohibition bill for the District of Columbia becomes a law.

The bill now before the senate is regarded by dry authorities as the most thorough, comprehensive, iron bound, steel riveted lid ever devised. The residents of the District have no vote or say as to whether they wish to venture upon so complete a drought. It's all up to Congress.

The bill not only prohibits the manufacture, sale or giving away of liquor, but it provides that the mere possession of liquor shall be deemed sufficient evidence to convict a person of selling it.

Search of any premises may be made upon an informal complaint. Discovery of liquor on the premises will void the lease and give the owner the right to eject the occupant. Common carriers are prohibited from bringing alcoholic beverages into the district. Any scheme or device to evade the law shall be regarded the same as the sale of liquor. The keeper of liquor may be retained as a common nuisance according to the proposed regulation.

Five wholesale druggists only are to be allowed to sell wood, grain or dematured alcohol. Anyone buying it must make an affidavit that he is twenty-one, not of intemperate habits and not addicted to the use of narcotic drugs.

To obtain wine for sacramental purposes priests and ministers are required to make application to the District Commissioners, specifying for what sacramental purposes the wine is necessary, and how long the quantity applied for will last.

The commissioners, before granting a permit, which will cost 25 cents, must satisfy themselves that the facts are correct. Such wine will then be allowed to be imported, but must be delivered at the church between 6 in the morning and 5 in the evening.

The sale of any liquor containing more than 1-2 of 1 per cent of alcohol is forbidden and subject to all the other restrictions of the bill. This is understood to include perfumery, flacons, prescriptions and similar preparations containing more than this amount of alcohol.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK.

And the Lesson the Small Investor Needs to Learn.

The advice of one of the large banks of the country is that every one should invest his surplus, whether large or small, in dividend securities of the best class, whether railroad, real estate or farm mortgages or public utilities, for "To keep money idle is a costly operation."

Let every reader of this article remember that with as little as $5 or $10 he can make first payment on the purchase of a first class $100 bond. Let every reader who has a few hundred dollars to spare put it in a good $500 or $1,000 bond on the partial payment plan, and let it earn something. Five hundred dollars invested in a 6 per cent bond (with the income deposited in a savings bank at 4 per cent) will double itself in twelve years—that is, the $500 will have become $1,000 in that time. This $1,000 at 6 per cent will earn $60 a year or over $1 a week for its possessor. Even at 5 per cent it will double in fifteen years and at 4 per cent in eighteen years.

The lesson the small investor wants to learn is that his money is just as good as that of the larger investor. The former has greater need of being careful because he has less to spare. Learn to be a careful investor. The first thing the careful buyer does if he wants to buy a horse, a cow, a house or a farm, a bond or a share of stock is to make a careful investigation. Schoolboys may swap the jackknives they hold in their closed hands, but grownup men ought to know better. The humblest investor can buy with as great safety as the proudest, for both can deal with the same bankers or brokers in these days when small lots are popular with firms of established character.—Leslie's Weekly.

BIRD ROOSTS.

Safety First as It is Practiced by the Feathered Tribes.

One of the best ways to prepare for a long journey is to make a short one. So we find that many birds, before they embark on their great air voyage which is to take them from their summer to their winter home, first make daily trips between their sleeping quarters and their feeding grounds.

This is the habit of our robin. Robins raise two and sometimes three families in one season. When the first family leaves the nest early in June it is taken by the father robin to some dense, leafy growth of young trees to pass the night. To this place they return every night. Many other robins, sometimes thousands of them, come to the same woods. Such resorts are known as robin roosts. In flying to and from them the young birds learn how to find their way.

Meanwhile mother robin is patiently sitting on her blue eggs, from which in about two weeks' time another little family will appear. In two weeks more they also will be large enough to leave the nest and can join their brothers and sisters in the roost.

Grackles, or crow blackbirds, have the same habit. But since they have only one family or brood both the parent birds go to the roost with their young.

Sometimes the robins are joined by the grackles and both by the European starlings, which, brought to this country and released in Central park, New York, in 1890, have since become one of the most abundant birds in our middle Atlantic states. Such a roost is visited nightly by many thousands of birds.—Frank M. Chapman in St. Nicholas.

Hungarian Faces.

I have never seen such interesting photographer's show windows as there are in Budapest. Partly this is because the photographers are good, but partly it must lie in the Hungarians themselves—such vivid, interesting, unconventional faces. These people look as if they ought to do the acting and write the music and novels and plays and paint the pictures for all the rest of the world. If they haven't done so it must be because, along with their natural talent, they have this indolence and tendency to flop and not push things through.—Arthur Ruhe in Collier's Weekly.

London's Big Bell.

"Big Ben," the bell in Westminster clock tower, London, is known the world over, but it is incorrectly named. Sir Benjamin Hall, the first commissioner of works, during whose tenure of office the clock was erected, had far less to do with it than Lord Grimthorpe, who designed it and was the moving spirit in its erection. In justice to him it should be known as "Old Grim."—London Mirror.

No Novelty to Her.

Miss Gigglegum (single and romantic)—The shower of soot and ashes from Vesuvius must be an awe inspiring sight. Would you not like to witness it? Mrs. Pottson Pans (married and prosaic)—Oh, I don't know! I've seen my husband take down a stovepipe.—Judge.

Going Down.

Redd—He started out with a $6,000 automobile.
Greene—And what car is he using now?
"A street car."—Yonkers Statesman.

Liked Variety.

Judge—No two of the witnesses tell the same story. Lawyer—I arranged it that way, your honor. I didn't want the trial to be too monotonous for you.—Boston Transcript.

However mean your life is, meet it and live it, not shun it and call it bad names.—Thoreau.

VIOLATORS OF DRY LAW

One Clatskaine Pays One Hundred Dollars

St. Helens, Or. Feb. 7.—During the past week two violations of the prohibition law were tried in the justice court here. A man charged with giving intoxicating liquor to a girl admitted his guilt and was fined $100 and costs. The second case of a young man at Globe charged with maintaining a nuisance resulted in a plea of guilty and a fine of $50. The sheriff poured into the Columbia river about 10 gallons of whisky and wines confiscated in the raid.

North Bend Paper is Closed

Marshfield, Feb. 7.—Seven months after the Pacific Coast Daily Tide started business in North Bend the constable placed an attachment on the door of the office and put the key in his pocket. Action was brought by the Western Union Telegraph company against the paper for the collection of about $170 claimed to be due for transmitting telegraphic news. B. B. Weldy, the editor and publisher, came here from Montana, where he had published two papers. Garnishment of 16 advertisers by the telegraph company realized only $20. The plant is covered by a chattel mortgage.

Loading Lumber is Slow Work

St. Helens, Or. Feb. 7.—The steamer Cello, owing to weather conditions will remain in the Columbia river this time longer than on any trip since she was built and began operating between California and the River. The snow and ice make the loading of the vessel very difficult and she is only half loaded though she has been working cargo for the past three days. Ordinarily it takes three days to load her cargo of 1,000,000 feet of lumber.
