JAG PRODUCED BY EXTRACTS
Offender, on Being Arrested, Wants to Fight Grand Jury

Hood River, Or., March 10.—Hood River's record of not a single drunk for the year has been broken. George Martin, who owns a ranch near Mitchell's point, appeared in town the first of the week, purchased 11 bottles of flavoring extracts from one grocery concern and three from others and proceeded to get on a jag that will not soon be forgotten by those with whom he came in contact. Martin was taken into custody at a local hotel, where he had a room, by City Marshal J. K. Carson.

Officer Carson escorted the man before the grand jury, which was in session at the time. Martin, it is said, made a dramatic entrance into the jury room, where he placed himself against the closed door and offered to fight the jurymen one by one or en masse. He was ordered led away to the city prison. After he had become sobered the city marshal ordered him to leave town post haste and not to return, even to attend to shopping, if he would avoid arrest. Martin is an old offender.

Mayor H. L. Dumble says that he will interview all grocers and warn them against selling flavoring extracts unless they are sure they will not be used to produce jags.
