AT THE MOVIES

AT ARCADE.

Fannie Ward, the distinguished American star, who scored such a triumph in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Marriage of Kitty" and "The Cheat" will be seen as "Tennessee" at the Arcade tonight and tomorrow.

According to those who have seen the picture, it is the best work of her entire career. It is a Paramount picture.

The Lasky company have been able to maintain the wonderful atmosphere and spirit of the early Western days throughout the picture. Most of the scenes were taken in, or near, the little towns where the author laid the scenes of his story. The old stage coach in which "Tennessee" makes her journey to her supposed "Daddy" is one of the few relics of pioneer methods of transportation left in this country and was found, after a diligent search, in an out of the way stable in one of the abandoned towns in Nevada.

The cast supporting Miss Ward is one of unusual excellence and consists of such well known artists as Jack Dean, Charles Clary, Jessie Arnold, Raymond Hatton and others. From a photographic standpoint the production is said to be unusual, the company spending many days in the rugged Sierras for the filming of the beautiful exterior scenes. The Lasky company considers "Tennessee's Partner" one of its best productions.

AT SHERRY'S—LAST DAY.

"Merely Mary Ann"

One can get real enjoyment from "Merely Mary Ann," a Fox picture in five reels by Israel Zangwill. Merely Mary Ann is quite a compelling young miss of 17. And as the pretty young actress, Vivian Martin, sets her forth, she has such a wholesome atmosphere of sentiment that is sincere affection, of capacity for gladness and of innocence about her, that bravely buckling down to the hard jibs of a slavey in a lodging house, she seems like a golden ray of Fairyland shining through to a hard world. The effect is often poetical to a degree. It is a picture that will do credit to any exhibitor.

The story, not sensationally novel, is fresh with many a bit of humanity that has never been shown before and this is all that the producer desired. It is a picture that merely uses life; it doesn't set out to draw things as they are, but to draw a contrast between things as they are, and in, Merely Mary Ann, just there and nowhere else, just in her own corner of the picture, things as we would like to think they are. And the ending is as happy as that of "Cinderella." No matter what the world really is or what it may become, the happy ending will always remain legitimate as long as humans are born young and have to grow up. Folks look at this kind of a picture until they forget they, too, were once young, and grew up.

TWO BIG TREATS.

Bill of Exceptional Merit at Arcade Sunday.

Judging from advance notices received from various sources throughout the country, the film fans of La Grande are to be congratulated upon the opportunity offered them to see two Triangle productions that far surpass anything shown here recently. "Old Heidelberg," the new five part feature supervised by D. W. Griffith for the Triangle program was made famous in this country by the stellar appearances in it of Richard Mansfield and Aubrey Boucicault. In the original German it enjoyed extraordinary popularity on the other side, and that popularity has been duplicated here. "Old Heidelberg" in its plot is just a simple little story of love and war characterized by the quaint German atmosphere of university court and palace with Dorothy Gish and Wallace Reid heading the cast.

Following this feature comes the big treat for the children and all lovers of clean wholesome fun. Eddie Foy, the prince of stage pierrots, who has made more fun with his clowning and his acrobatics than any other comedian of the present day, together with his entire family of seven little Foy's will be seen in the Keystone farce "A Favorite Pool" a dramatization of circus life similar to some of the stage plays in which Mr. Foy was so popular.

Fined for Keeping Open After 12.
Hillsboro, Or., April 18.—Gus Vujgas, the Greek proprietor of a confectionery store at Forest Grove, was arrested yesterday upon a warrant issued out of the justice court here, and fined $5 and costs upon a charge of keeping his store open for trade on Sunday. The claim was made that he kept the store open after midnight on Saturday night and sold merchandise. Defendant admitted running over the closing time but claimed that he gave away the ice cream and milk shakes served to customers. He entered a plea of guilty, however, and received the minimum penalty.
