Ere a week of liberal entertainment has passed, invitations are out for several important card parties next week. Mrs. William Bollins, Miss Bollins, and Mrs. L. A. McAllister entertain at Honan hall at Bridge early in the week, followed by a two-day event at the A. A. Wenzel home with Mrs. Wenzel and Mrs. G. L. Larison as hostesses. At the latter party Five Hundred and Bridge will be in vogue.

Seldom have so many ladies attended a card party as responded to invitations from Mrs. Ellis E. Kirtley and Mrs. W. J. Church to play five hundred Thursday and bridge Friday afternoons at Honan hall. The first day saw guests for 17 tables present at one of the largest, and also one of the most unique formal card functions in a long time. Facilities at Honan hall were utilized to the fullest extent. In the main corridors and parlors of the spacious building the guests each day enjoyed themselves at cards in a decided manner. The hall was a pretty bower, beautiful with lilacs in profusion. When the guests had finished play they were ushered to the large basement where numerous snowy white tables had been arranged and to these the guests were seated for dainty refreshments. Each table carried a centerpiece of red carnations and ice cream of tints harmonious to the general color scheme, cakes and coffee were served. Similar service was presented each day of the two-day party. On the initial day, highest score was won by Miss Zoe Bragg, second high by Mrs. L. M. Hoyt and consolation by Mrs. F. E. Stillwell.

On Friday afternoon an event fully as auspicious, marked play at bridge by 18 tables. Generally the same scheme of decorations prevailed on that occasion and again, after cards had occupied the afternoon, the handsomely gowned women were conveyed to the basement where refreshments were served a second time. At bridge high score was won by Mrs. F. S. Ivanhoe, second by Mrs. R. W. Laughlin and consolation by Mrs. A. V. Andrews.

Out of town guests in attendance at the popular function which was the week's chief affair, included Mrs. Grace Foye of Medical Springs. There was an attendance of 300 at Riverside Park last Saturday, the occasion being the annual stake field day of the M. I. A. Considering the condition of the weather the attendance and the enthusiasm were remarkable. In the parking awards were made at the park as follows: Senior public speaking—George A. Chadwick, Mt. Glenn. Ladies' quartet—Gladys Black, Jeanette Stoddard, Louise Mattice and Blanche Black, all of La Grande. There were no male quartet contestants represented. At the evening field day ball at

Rex hall the following stake pennants were awarded:

Special activities, won by Imbler. Young ladies' quartet, La Grande. Second young ladies' quartet, Union.

Senior public speaking, Mt. Glenn. Domestic art, La Grande. Basketball trophy cup, La Grande, M. I. A.

On account of the severe weather the field contests were postponed to some future date.

The dance Saturday evening was an exceptionally fine affair, much to the credit of the committee and guests.

The Parkdale club had a very interesting meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Garret Taal, north of La Grande. The hostess was assisted in the reception by Mrs. George Ryneanson and besides a good representation of the club's membership, Mrs. B. F. Owsley and Mrs. Jack Hillary, of La Grande, were special guests. There was the usual tempting line of refreshments. The next meeting will be a week from Wednesday at the home of Mrs. "Tap" Thomas at Riverside Park and Mrs. Phil Thompson, of Fruitdale, will assist in the entertaining.

Saturday afternoon, May 6th, at the home of C. L. Howard a party was given in honor of their daughter Arlene's seventh birthday. There were present Miss Edith Ebell, Dorothy Knowles, Gene McShain, Conny Reise, Virginia and Louise Wetzel, Inis and Iria Hughes, Agnes O'Brien, Arlene Howard; Masters Paul Bull, Jack Bellinger, Wallace and Dwight Mahoney, Franklin Bramwell, "Buster" Howard; Mesdames L. Wetzel, J. L. Ruby, Mrs. D. C. Mahoney, Miss Eva Ruby and Mrs. C. L. Howard looked after the little folks and ice cream and cake was served. A very pleasant time was enjoyed.

Wednesday afternoon was a day extraordinary for the afternoon section of the Kaffeeklatch. Instead of meeting on Friday, the usual date, and devoting themselves to needlework, as is the custom, guests were entertained by Mrs. F. L. Meyers and Miss Margaret Newlin at bridge. At cards Mrs. Jay Van Buren scored highest and Mrs. Vincent Palmer was awarded consolation. At the conclusion of play, the hostesses seated the guests for refreshments at the table whereupon were laid plates for 16. A centerpiece of pink graced the table.

Two very enjoyable house dances were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Siegrist when their dance room was used to pleasant advantage. Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Will R. Rinehart entertained in a very pleasant way to a group of friends. Refreshments were served and the evening devoted to dancing. Wednesday evening Gale Sturdevant and Elizabeth Donnelly entertained at the same home, also at dancing. Again the spacious dance floor was utilized to good advantage by the dancers until a late hour. Both events were largely attended and immensely enjoyed.

Mrs. J. G. Snodgrass arranged an informal afternoon Wednesday complimentary to Mrs. H. E. Schute of Hillstoro who is a house guest at the Herman Siegrist home. Sewing and crocheting occupied the afternoon and to close the informal affair Mrs. Snodgrass served delicious refreshments. The guests were largely Billikin club members with a few special guests for the occasion invited in to enjoy what proved to be a pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. W. H. Bohnenkamp was a charming hostess to the Thursday Bridge club this week, at her home on Second street. Mrs. M. B. Donohue scored highest at cards. Mrs. Bohnenkamp served refreshments of a delicious sort, and the afternoon was generously enjoyed.

Mrs. A. V. Andrews will be the hostess next week to the afternoon division of the Wednesday Bridge club.

Mrs. F. E. Stillwell has been delegated to entertain the social club of the Eastern Star at its meeting next Tuesday.

New York Parade

New York, May 13.—Beginning at 9:30 this morning and ending at ten o'clock tonight, New York today is staging one of the most extraordinary parades in history. Between the hours named, 150,000 business and professional men and women marching in a parade to show their interest and to stir up the interest of New Yorkers in better military, naval and industrial preparedness in this country. From the time the first delegation of marchers is sent on its way at 9:30 until the National Guardsmen complete their march at 10 o'clock at night, marchers will be on the streets, the different delegations being sent at intervals. Representatives of sixty-six trades and professions will be in the parade. Roger W. Allen, the Secretary of the committee, estimates that there will be at least 25,000 women in line. The women parade in the evening. Calcium lights will be used from the tops of buildings along the line of march to light up the way for the women and soldiers. Colonel Charles H. Sherrill, formerly United States Minister to the Argentine Republic, is the Grand Marshal, with major Alfred R. Whitney as chief of the Staff, and Colonel Arthur F. Schermerhorn and Captain Latham G. Reed as Chief of Aids. The program calls for the passing of 11,000 marchers by a given point every hour of the ten. Electric light corporations will add to the illumination of the Fifth Avenue by the installation of powerful searchlights at short intervals. The National Guard will be the only marchers in uniform. No signs or banners other than to designate the various divisions are permitted. Only two vehicles will be in line. These will head the parade. One will be occupied by Major Mitchell and the other by Major Gen Wood, commanding the Department of the East of the United States army. The line of march is from Bowling Green up Broadway and Fifth Avenue to Fortieth Street.

Sixteen hundred women will sit for preparedness. The twenty thousand marchers will represent working women, professional women and women of leisure, such as Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. Borden Harriman and debutantes and young matrons. The sixteen hundred women who will sit are mostly members of the preparedness section of the National Civic Federation. This section took a vote on the question of marching and Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Lincoln Bates, Miss Hauke Wetmore and all the officers save one were against it. They said there wasn't time to get out a representative division and they could make a much more impressive showing by building a stand and watching the parade. Accordingly the stand was erected at Twenty-Fourth street, just across Fifth avenue from the main reviewing stand. They will keep the stand full from 9:30 a. m. until the hour in the evening when it ends. They will serve in three hour shifts, Miss Morgan heading the first relay. Col. Charles H. Sherrill never thought of asking the women. But a young bride, whose husband was at Plattsburg, went to Col. Sherrill about it, and he told her that if she could pledge 200 women to go ahead. The next day she was back with 200 names. Col. Sherrill put the women off to the very end of the day. The first female section will leave Washington Square at 5 p. m. From there until 8 they will swing out from the arch in sections at intervals of ten minutes apart. The late hour is a good thing for the working women who want to march. Financial and business interests in lower Manhattan contributed 7,000 marchers. Five bands of forty pieces each have already been engaged. Members of the Cotton, Produce and Coffee exchanges also are largely represented. Precedent was disregarded and the high hat was thrown into the discard as a distinguishing mark for public officials when the Board of Aldermen decided to march in a body wearing derbies.

South American Stock Show

The oldest paper in South America the Standard of Buenos Ayres, asks United States papers to urge farmers and breeders in the United States to send the finest and most representative strains of native-bred North American live stock to the cattle show in connection with the Argentine centenary of national independence.

Why shouldn't Ed Coles of Haines or some of the leading Union County stockmen interest themselves in the appeal. J. W. Chandler and others who deal in cattle would no doubt be able to seize some of this South American prize money.

"All the world," writes the editor of the Standard, "has set its fine stock before the Argentine breeder, that is all except the United States breeder."

Our stock raisers do not know what economy means when they see what they need, and, since the Argentine breeder pays gilt-edge prices for fancy foreign stock, the British and other fine stock producers see that he gets their best.

"In less than twenty years the finest examples of cattle ever bred, from every renowned establishment the world over—except the United States—have found their way here," this editor writes, "until to-day the Argentine Republic is the market for fine stock, par excellence. Only the American breeder yet remains to discover the Argentine Republic."

"Does the American breeder realize," he asks, "what it is to have besides his own folk as customers, a country like Argentina, with over 30,000,000 head of cattle and 50,000,000 sheep, whose owners are keen to improve them?"

$40,000 For One Bull
In writing this note the editor points out that the champion native Argentine shorthorn bull sold at Buenos Ayres in 1914 for $40,000, the mother of the animal having been bought from a Yankee. No wonder Union county shippers and stockmen are keeping an eye on South America. Among the strains of the cattle in the United States desired in Argentina are Hereford and Polled Angus. British, French and Spanish breeders will be represented at the show.

The Buenos Ayres editor says that national tastes for meat are so peculiar that a North American, for instance, will like Argentine beef the more it is bred with North American fine stock, so as to infuse the "native flavor" of the United States beef into Argentine beef.

The Argentine country is largely made up of pampas or plain lying in a temperate region, quite like the Western cattle ranges in the United States. The first imported cattle there were small and rough in appearance, and the meat was tough and dark. Over $500,000 has been spent by Argentine breeders for the finest blooded stock from Great Britain, Holland, Denmark, France and Spain. Some fine examples of Texas longhorn cattle have been sent to South America to improve the stock there.

The Chicago packers have got partial control of the South American meat trade and they have put up two of the largest packing plants in the world at or near Buenos Ayres.

Argentina can afford to pay gilt edge prices for gilt edge cattle for breeding purposes, inasmuch as that country is now becoming the supplier of the United States as well as Europe.

The Argentine sheep raisers too have been making improvements in their stock by costly importations of prize animals from England, Australia and New Zealand.

In Argentine the exports of chilled and frozen beef have increased tremendously in the last ten years. The total value of the meat products sent overseas in 1915 exceeded $211,000,000, as against $1,500,000 so disposed of by Brazil.

It is on her meat and wheat exports that Argentina has got a favorable trade balance of more than $200,000,000 since the war in Europe began.

NEWARK MISSES WILSON

President Unable to Attend 250th Anniversary Function

Newark, N. J. May 13.—Much regret was expressed today in Newark because President Wilson would not be able to come to the city to open formally the industrial exposition in connection with the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Newark by Robert Treat. Secretary Joseph P. Tumulty announced at the White House that owing to the present state of international affairs the President would be compelled to cancel all engagements. Extraordinary preparations had been made in Newark for the reception of President and Mrs. Wilson.

WIDOW PLEDS FOR TREE

Injunction Suit Against Neighbors Sought To Halt Death Of Oak

Minneapolis, May 13.—The Hennepin County District Court was asked to save an oak tree.

The appeal was made by Mrs. Carrie E. Stover, who said a beautiful oak with large spreading limbs is threatened with destruction by Ralph and Charles Shaw, who plan to fell the tree to make room for a retaining wall.

"An act of vandalism," Mrs. Stover calls it. She insists that the retaining wall can be built around the oak and offers to bear a part of the expense if the tree may be saved.

It has a circumference of more than seven feet, she says, is partly on her land, is a thing of beauty, and its spreading branches extending more than 30 feet over her lot give a comfortable shade.

Thrice the Shaws have attempted to fell the giant, the court papers relate, once being repulsed by Mr Stover and since his death on April 1 the widow and her neighbors have

The tree stands on the division line between the Stover and Shaw lots on Chicago Avenue. There has been some controversy between the owners as to the line, but last Fall, after a survey, both accepted a line running through the oak, about one-sixth of which is alleged to be on the Stover lot.
The Shaws maintain the oak has outlived its usefulness and ought to come down. It is also alleged that the tree is so old that it might blow down and injure someone.

Music of high quality will be on taps at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church when the Methodist orchestra of about two dozen pieces presents a vesper recital, similar, but of higher standard, than the one given Easter to an appreciative audience.

The program is slightly changed this time, running more to solos, duets and quartets, but still retains a liberal sprinkling of ensembles. Ralph Henline, the director, affirms that the group of musicians, many of whom have been whipped into shape this winter from absolute beginners, are in better condition musically to render a program now than at Easter time. This will be the last recital this orchestra will give the present school year. At the various functions it has appeared at, noticeable improvement has been seen, until now the big organization is really a credit to any institution.

Mr. Harte, well known flutist, will appear in splendid work. Mrs. W. A. Winters will render an organ number, and Mrs. George Huntington Currey will sing, as special numbers. The program in full follows with attention called to the standard of the grade to be played:

- (a) March Militaire Op. 51 No. 1 ..... F. Schubert
- (b) The Approach of Spring-Waltzes ..... Zickoff
- Orchestra
- Vocal Solo "Resignation" ..... Caro Roma
- Mrs. George Huntington Currey
- (a) Sextet, From "Lucia Di Lammermoor" ..... Domizetti
- (b) The Commander March ..... R. B. Hall
- Orchestra
- Duet, Cornet and Trombone ..... Selected
- Messrs. Johnson and Knautz
- (a) The Glad Girl and Idyl ..... J. Bodewalt Lampe
- (b) Golden Spur March ..... Earnest Weber
- Orchestra
- Pipe Organ Solo, "Allegretto in E Flat" ..... Edward Read
- Mrs. Winters
- (a) Spirit of the Winds Overture ..... C. W. Bennet
- (b) Der Abendstille Reverie ..... Albert Kussner
- Orchestra
- Flute Solo, "Heimweh" Op. 230 No. 9. .... Jungman
- Mr. Harte
- (a) Meditation ..... C. S. Morrison
- (b) Songs of the Nation Selection ..... J. Bodewalt Lampe
- Orchestra

The performers in the orchestra in-clude the following:

- Solo Violins ..... First Cornets
- Mrs. R. G. Henline, Miss Belle Dillstrom ..... Earnest Lewis, Bernard Johnson
- Second Cornets
- Florence Lynch, John O'Connell, Olaf Annes ..... Leslie Thompson, Fred Knautz
- Second Violins ..... Trombones
