AT THE MOVIES

AT SHERRY'S.

Tomorrow Only.
Little Mary Miles Minter, the "flower of the screen," will be seen in the stellar role of "Lovely Mary," a five part Metro wonderplay, which will be presented here at the Sherry theatre tomorrow only. Miss Minter will have a strong supporting cast including Thomas J. Carrigan, her new leading man.

"Lovely Mary" is a story of the Southland, with a beautiful love story in a novel setting and background. There are scores of excellent photographs made in the picturesque localities of Florida. Many historic buildings and locations are seen in the production, besides the State prison camps around which the story was written.

Miss Minter has never had a better role in her long career on the speaking stage or screen. She was last seen on the Metro program in "Dimples," "Emmy of Stork's Nest," "Always in the Way" and "Barbara Freitche."

Mr. Carrigan also is provided with a strong role in keeping with his distinctive talents. He was seen with Miss Minter in "Dimples."

one day's doings at Edendale, where the Keystone studios are located.

Mr. Arbuckle, as Fatty, is the sweeper out of the establishment. After encounters with divers and sundry members of the company, he dreams a dream and in it imagines he has become a great motion picture actor and won the hand of the fair leading lady, Ivy Crosthwaite. In the dream there is a big thriller, a fire, in which Arbuckle rescues Mack Sennett and half dozen others. Then the sweeper wakes and finds that he is "fired."

Messrs. Collier, Sennett, Weber and Fields, Sam Bernard and the rest willingly consented to take the roles of stars under rehearsal in this comic dream play. Particularly the work of Messrs. Collier and Bernard is of such high excellence that their first regular Keystone releases are keenly awaited.

NOTES FROM FILMDOM.

Why is it that people get angry when an usher requests them to move over to allow some one to pass them?
Try your luck at writing slogans.

There is going to be war in La Grande soon. Watch the paper.

After seeing a war film at one of the local houses a fan applied at the box office next day for a job helping remove the dead and wounded.

The Battle Cry of Peace was booked in a near-by town and the competitor wired his exchange: Send me film to back Battle Cry of Peace. The answer: "No such film made, you'll have to take your medicine."

The gentleman who said the Battle Cry of Peace was an advertising scheme of Maxims must have been out the night before and carried a grouch. Cheer up, friend, maybe Henry Ford will be President—Not.

Dustin and Billy Farnum are very devoted to each other. Neither want the credit of being a better actor nor of being more popular than the other.

The Nevr Do Well played here this week to record-breaking crowds. A nice clean show.

The heroine stood in the rain And she was in a pickle; Searched all through her pocketbook But couldn't find a nickel. The smirking villain sidled up And proffered his umbrella— 'Tis tale will be continued in "The Perils of Prunella."

Vera Pearce, of Metro, trains cats for a hobby. She has several which will "roll over dead" when she tells them to. We have tried, with every known missile, to make the cats of our neighborhood do this trick, but they seem to belong to the wrong variety of cat.

"Lawmakers Juggling Act Will Be Filmed"—Headline. It will be worth going miles to see a body of lawmakers in a "silent" drama.

A Subscriber—The film "The Birth of a Nation" was first shown in Los Angeles in the fall of 1913 in 20 reels to newspapermen, under the name of "The Clansman." The picture, cut to 12 reels, became "The Birth of a Nation" and was first exhibited under that name at the Liberty Theater, New York City, in February of 1914.

"They will soon be selling gasoline on a doctor's prescription, with the warning, 'Not to be refilled,' if the price continues to go up," said Ormi Hawley, one of the Fox stars, who runs her own motorcar.

Yes, Lionel Barrymore is a brother of Ethel Barrymore, and both are Metro stars. John Barrymore is also a brother. Ethel has two children, and her married name is Coit.

James Young, husband of Clara Kimball Young, and for several months a Lasky director, has resigned from that company. Clara has sued James for divorce, as well as for many thousand dollars, and the case is still pending.

The Paramount Pictographs are being used in the Better Bodies, campaign.

Despite the effort of the gurney experts, the movie kissing average is being maintained.

A string of a dozen box cars, recently purchased for a filming of several of the scenes of "Whispering Smith," are now located on a siding of the Southern Pacific Railroad at Los Angeles. All 12 cars are to be used in a wreck scene, following which the junkmen will be asked to pick up the debris.

When Lionel Barrymore isn't being filmed, he whittles. His only dissipation.

Howard Hickman, Kay-Bee, modestly refers to himself as the "he-vampire."

A MEMORIAL DAY OFFERING
Many the years that have come and gone
Since up from the South the war cloud rolled
That darkened freedom's glorious dawn
Till our flag's bright stars gleamed pale and cold.

We have no battle scarred homestead here—
Memorials sad of wars behest—
No traces of warfare far or near,
On flowery plain or green hills crest.

This story tells us of those dark days—
Those days of sorrow and fear and dread,
And we read the tale on grass-grown graves
Where dreamlessly sleep our Honored Dead.

And in the faces of gray-haired men
Who wore thru the war the coat of Blue,
We read the story over again—
The story of men to their country true.

Soon will these comrades their last trust keep,
Soon will they rest—our veteran bands—
In that silent camp where many sleep
But never a watchful sentry stands.

Wherever the old flag waves today
These men are held as a sacred trust.
They swept from its folds all stains away,
And forever more those stars are dust.

With greater love as the years go by
May our children hold this sacred day,
And over the graves where these soldiers lie,
Ever shower the blossoms of May.

Suffs Sell Flowers on Fifth Avenue
New York, May 27.—Hundreds of yellow peach basket hats, with the cutest little blue roses perked snuggly upon them bobbed merrily along Broadway and Fifth Avenue today. The hats, designed by Mrs. Frank A. Vandrelip, were worn by New York suffragists who heard that Englishwomen got $1,000,000 selling artificial flowers on the streets of England one day last year, and decided to try it themselves. Mrs. Thompson Seton and Mrs. John Flagler of Greenwich, Conn., were among the flower girls.
