ARCADE

"Heart of Paula" a Mexican Play. The atmosphere of warm flower-scented nights; of tinkling music; of deeds of daring to win a lady's glance; scenes of intense hate and strong passion are all blended in a fascination that entrances in the coming Pallas picture released on the Paramount program and to be seen at the Arcade theatre for two days only starting tomorrow.

This story of the burning love of a Spanish maid for a handsome American, stars Lenore Ulrich who is entrancingly beautiful as the high-born Castilian made poor by the unsettled times.

The strong action and many scenes of daily life in this exotic country with its ever present blend of romance and squalor give this strange picture a charm very unusual.

Lowell's Dread of Old Age.
 I have said that Lowell was the youngest man I ever knew. It is also true that I never knew any other man who had a greater dread of growing old than he. He would sometimes say to me (I was twenty-five years the younger), "Oh, you'll begin to feel it pretty soon."
 The last time I saw him he gave me a curious and somewhat pathetic indication of his interest in this subject. I happened to be in Boston for a day and went out to see him in the teeth of a terrible March blizzard. I thought he seemed rather lonely. He told me that Hoppla had called upon him not long before. He said that he looked well and seemed to be in good health, but he noticed that when he went out he was a little awkward in getting down the front steps. When I left Lowell came to the door with me and stood there, evidently waiting to see how I negotiated the front steps. At the age at which I then was there was no reason why there should be anything the matter with my action. But the incident was characteristic of Lowell and of his intense interest in the subject of youth and age.—E. S. Nadal in Harper's Magazine.

Clever Amateurs.
 Dozens of old graduates were back, and they talked a lot about themselves and a lot more about others not so fortunate as to attend.
 "Most of our old crowd are married and happy," said one.
 "Married, anyhow," said another, with the grin that always accompanies this silly joke.
 "I accept the amendment," returned the first speaker, "but chiefly on account of poor Billy Tompkins. He had an unfortunate marital experience."
 We hadn't heard of it and begged for particulars.
 "Why, the girl he married turned out to be a professional pickpocket."
 The men who had first spoken sighed, but his eye twinkled.
 "Well," he observed, "I guess the rest of us drew some pretty clever amateurs—what?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Killed Evzone.
 The Greek soldier may present to some a highly humorous picture in his ballet skirts and tunic. Despite his peculiarities of dress—which, by the way, are scarcely more peculiar than those of some other nations—he is an excellent fighting man.
 The evzone, as he is called, would no more abandon the skirt than would a Scot his kilt. It is a part of his national honor, a part of his personal being. It is a right handed down to him from ancient times. A bas relief of the soldier who fought at Marathon shows him in similar costume. His costume is no ephemeral piece of clothing, for it is worn with the dignity of ages behind it. The evzones are ignorant of fear, and if they look anything but soldierly their appearance is belied by their ability to fight under extraordinary conditions.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

Puzzle of the Eagle and the Whale.
 There are two animals that puzzle naturalists more than any others. They are nature's submarine and aeroplane, the whale and the eagle. It is known that whales occasionally descend as much as 3,000 feet below the surface of the sea. Why they are not injured scientists have yet to discover. It is this pressure which prevents a modern submarine descending even 300 feet, let alone 3,000.
 Eagles have been seen through telescopes to fly with apparent ease from 30,000 to 40,000 feet above sea level. At that height no human being can live owing to the rarefaction of the air. How the birds live and fly at far greater heights than man can endure for long is a question still to be answered.—Pearson's Weekly.

Percentage.
 "That's some hat you've got there. Bill. It must have set you back all of $10."
 "It did, but I figure I'm saving money on it at that."
 "How do you make that out?"
 "Well, when I wore a two dollar hat I had to give up 5 per cent of its value every time I checked it in a fashionable restaurant. With this one it costs me only 1 per cent."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Saving Labor.
 "This agricultural journal states that apple trees ought to be planted on a slope."
 "What's the idea?"
 "So when the apples ripen and drop off they will roll down to the farmer's doorstep. I suppose."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Ugly.
 "What an ugly disposition he has!"
 "Yes. You remember how cross your husband is the first week of every year when he gives up smoking?"
 "Yes."
 "Well, he's that way all the time."—Detroit Free Press.

Voice of the Bells.
 R. L. Stevenson said that "there is so often a threatening note, something blatant and metallic, in the voice of bells that we have fully more pain than pleasure in hearing them."

No Chance For Him.
