HERO PROMOTED

Vice Admiral Mayo's part in the Tampico affair during the critical days of the struggle with Huerta had placed the officer's star under a cloud. But Admiral Fletcher proved a strong friend for Vice Admiral Mayo, and when the Atlantic Fleet was organized, with Admiral Fletcher in command, Rear Admiral Mayo received command of the battleship squadron and of the first division, with the rank of vice admiral. Vice Admiral Mayo comes to fleet command at the age of 56, retiring in December, 1918. His recent duties have been as commandant of the Mare Island Navy Yard, aid for personnel, and division commander in the Atlantic fleet.

Horses Praised.

Union, June 19.—(To the Editor)—Mr. Murray of Illinois and myself, of Indiana, wish to congratulate Union county on two horses in parades seen at Union last week, the one, Black

Morgan, shown as a single driver, and another bay shown as a race horse to cart. Both of these are perfect in their class and are fit to show anywhere in these classes.

T. H. KELLY.

Back in His Office

After a protracted stay in the east and midwest where he availed himself of the opportunity to visit and study surgical clinics, Dr. R. E. L. Holt is back in his office today. He reports business generally good, and politics at high tide. In a surgical way he purchased new equipment and apparatus for use in the Grande Ronde hospital.

SPY ON TRIAL.

Former M. P., Self-Confessed Spy, Being Tried for Forgery Too.

London, June 19.—Ignatius Lincoln, a former member of a parliament and self confessed spy, was held to trial on a charge of forgery today.

WILL TRY "HIGHBROW" MUSIC IN VAUDEVILLE

FRANZISKA HEINRICH

Fraulein Heinrich, prominent European concert pianist, has come to the United States to try to make vaudeville audiences like "high brow" music. Her specialties are Liszt, Goria and Tschalkowsky. She expects to make a hit in vaudeville with music of that type.

BULWER-LYTTON.

His Dandified Dress, Mobile Face and Piercing Eyes.

In his book, "Forty Years of Spy," Leslie Ward, the artist, recalls that Bulwer-Lytton "had a remarkably narrow face with a high forehead. His nose was piercingly aquiline and seemed to swoop down between his closely set blue eyes, which changed in expression as his interest waxed and waned. When he was interestedly questioning his neighbor he became almost satanic looking, and his glance grew so keenly inquisitive as to give the appearance of a 'cast' in his eyes.

"Carefully curled hair crowned his forehead, and his bushy eyebrows, beard and mustache gave a curious expression to his face, which was rather pale, except in the evening, when he slightly 'touched up,' as the dandies of his day were in the habit of doing. His beard ideal was D'Orsay, and he showed the nicest care in the choice of his clothes. His trousers were buggy as they tapered downward and rather suggested a sailor's in the way they widened toward the feet.

"I can see him now standing on the hearth rug awaiting the announcement of dinner dressed 'up to the eyes' and listening with bent, attentive head to his guests. It was typical of Lord Lytton that he listened to the most insignificant of his guests with all the deference that he would have shown to the greatest. Replacing his hookah (for he smoked opium), he would be silent for a considerable time, watching us out of his odd eyes, and when he spoke it was in a soft voice, which he never raised above a low tone. He told many stories of 'Disraeli,' whose name he pronounced with a slow deliberation."

Orders of British Knighthood.

The titles of the different orders of knighthood are all of a most high and mighty description. The Garter is "most noble," the Thistle "most ancient and most noble" and St. Patrick "most illustrious." The Knights of the Bath are officially "most honorable," the Star of India is "the most exalted," St. Michael and St. George is "the most distinguished," the Order of the Indian Empire is "the most eminent."—London Globe.

National Anthem.

By law there is no such thing as a "national anthem" in this country. Congress has never voted upon that subject. But by popular acceptance the "Star Spangled Banner" has become to all intents and purposes the national anthem. "America" is also very close to the hearts of all real Americans and may well be called the national hymn.—New York American.

Not the Right Brand.

"I must request the congregation to contribute generously this morning," said the Rev. Mr. Smallfree sadly. "My stipend is eight months in arrears, and my creditors are pressing. I, of course, work largely for love, and love, equally of course, is tender, but it isn't legal tender."—London Telegraph.

The Astor Fountain.

Baron Astor has made a name for himself in the world of art. One of the evidences of his cultured taste is the fountain at Cliveden, designed by Stoney, in which seventy-five tons of pink marble were used in making the great shell.—London Standard.

It Depended.

Young Aspirant—I called, sir, to see if I may count on your supporting me. Practical Citizen—That depends, young man. Are you running for office or do you want to marry my daughter?—Boston Transcript.

His Own Fault.

"Did the deacon die from infirmities of old age?" "So the chauffeur said who ran over him. He couldn't seem to hear, see or jump."—Puck.

A Greater Need.

Hob—I'm trying to invent a new range finder. Wife—For mercy sake, make it a cook finder. We have a range and can't find a cook to run it.—Boston Transcript.

Chicago social workers demand $2,000,000 for a new jail. The idea is a good one although it must be confessed that the present establishment shows no falling off in patronage.—Chicago Herald.

Rains Prove Beneficial

Saturday's heat wave was broken as predicted, with a slow and soaking rain over an enormous area of Oregon. Union county, dry and suffering from drought, has been very thoroughly soaked. In Umatilla county the rain was quite general too.

Pioneer of 1847 Dies

Salem, Or., June 16.—After an illness of more than a year, Mrs. Ellen Savage, a pioneer of the state, coming here in 1847, died last night. She was born in Missouri in 1843, and crossed the plains with her parents when four years old. She was married in 1861 to M. L. Savage, who died several years ago. She was living here with her two sons, Robert H. and Lute Savage, and three daughters, Miss Gertrude, Mrs. Ralph Me-

Adams and Mrs. A. C. Reilly, all of Salem, except the latter, who resides in New York.
