THE FORUM

UNDERCHARGES CALLED NUI-SANCE.

Salem, Oregon, June 29.—(To the Editor Observer)—I am enclosing copy of letter I have written to our Representative in Congress, Mr. N.
J. Sinnott, and if the suggestion contained therein meets with your approval I shall be glad to have the cooperation of the local merchants toward correcting this abuse with which practically every merchant is familiar.

The matter of presenting bills for undercharges long after the merchants' goods have been disposed of has proved a source of great annoyance and loss to them of vast sums of money in the aggregate.

A letter to Mr. Sinnott by those interested would assist materially.

Yours truly,
H. H. COREY.

Hon. N. J. Sinnott, M. C., Washington, D. C.—Dear Sir: "It is a poor rule that does not work both ways" is an axiom.

Section 16 of the Interstate Commerce Law provides a limit of two years after which an overcharge cannot be collected from a railroad but no such limitation against a railroad collecting an undercharge from a shipper. If an error in a freight bill is discovered any time after shipment is delivered the railroad must under the law, if it is an undercharge, exhaust its legal remedies to collect it.
As an illustration of the many complaints brought before this Commission, aggregating large sums of money, an Oregon firm was asked the other day to pay $20 undercharged on a carload of fruit shipped in 1909.

The law as it has been interpreted by the courts and the Interstate Commerce Commission holds that published tariffs speak with equal authority to the shipper and the carrier and that both are equally chargeable with notice and knowledge of the rates. Insofar as it intends to prevent indirect rebates and discrimination it is, of course, commendable, but could not such prohibition be accomplished by holding the carriers to strict accountability for failure to adhere to the published tariffs? A law prescribing a suitable penalty for negligent or willful failure on the part of the carrier would fully meet the demands and safeguard the interests of the public.

The average merchant has neither the time nor the opportunity to acquire a proficient knowledge of the tariffs that affect his business. Many tariffs are so complex and technical that even traffic experts fail to correctly interpret them. This being true, it is unjust and unreasonable that the merchant should be held responsible for the application of erroneous rates.

The local agent of the company is presumed to be conversant with tariff and rate matters. The auditor's office has a force of trained experts whose duty it is to check the billing, detect and correct any errors that may have been made by the local agent. With proper attention this should be done within two or three weeks after delivery. Therefore, I am of the opinion that carriers should be required to demand at the time of delivery all charges due for the transportation of property and that they should be estopped from collecting any sum for which demand has not been made within a period of ninety days after delivery.

I believe that one of the bills now pending before Congress should be so amended as to definitely prescribe the duty of the carrier in this respect and fix the time limit of ninety days in which demands for undercharges may be made.

Very truly,
H. H. COREY.
