NEW SCHEME TO GET PEACE

RECONSTRUCTION OF HOMES PROPOSED.

Hundred Million Advocated to Re-build Europe After War.

New York, July 5.—A plan to abolish war and spend $100,000,000 in reconstructing homes, churches and business places in Europe was announced yesterday by the American Committee of the International Reconstruction League, which has its headquarters with the Committee of Mercy, the National Allied Relief Committee and other non-Teuton agencies, at No. 200 Fifth Avenue.

The news was given out by John Moffatt, Chairman of the Executive Committee, who said that some money already had been subscribed to ward the reconstruction fund, and that it is hoped to get President Wilson as Honorary Chairman of the Advisory Committee of the American Committee.

Men Backing Movement.
The present Honorary President of the committee, according to Mr. Moffatt, is President Emeritus Chas. W. Eliot of Harvard, and among those whose names appear on the letter-head of the organization are Norman Hapgood, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, Otto H. Kahn, Theodore Roosevelt Pell, Henry Watterson, Louis Wiley, Rabbi S. E. Wise, Govs. Capper of Kansas, Craig of North Carolina, Ferris of Michigan, Hunt, Arizona, and Withycombe of Oregon; Senators Hursting of Wisconsin, Norris of Nebraska, Overman of North Carolina and Tillman of South Carolina and Frederick H. Allen, Treasurer.

The aims of the league are:
"First—Immediate relief work for the suffering war victims of Europe. This work is to be continued as long as the war may last.

"Second—American aid for the stricken people of Europe when they turn from war to the task of rehabilitation.

"Third—A plan to educate public opinion as to the practicability of a world wide arrangement that will insure a lasting peace, with a view to pledging America to its support."

Purposes of the League.
Mass meetings will be held at Madison Square Garden, Mr. Moffatt said. The league, he declared, has no intention of trying to end the present war, but has the following program for the future:

"The United States, on condition that the other great states pledge themselves to an equivalent participation, is to pledge herself to support any plan of world government or order which includes any or all of the following: A code of international law; a world court of justice and international commission of inquiry for non-justiciable matters; the obligation of all signatory powers to pledge their economic and military resources for the execution of the court's or commission's decisions; limitation of armament and its international control."

The league wants $1200 to equip and maintain a border hospital at Brownsville, Tex.

Funds for Relief Work.
The Committee of Mercy Fund for war sufferers, of which August Belmont, No. 200 Fifth Avenue, is Chairman, yesterday reached $1,137,801.

The International Reconstruction League has acknowledged, during the last week, $2,220.

The fund of the Armenian Committee for Armenian and Syrian relief now totals $794,635.

The War Relief Commission of the Rockefeller Foundation has appropriated more than $3,000,000 in the six months ended yesterday, of which $2,159,985 has been spent. Of this sum, $1,290,292 went for relief in Belgium; $1,000,000 to Armenian and Syrian relief, and $145,894 for Serbian relief. Approximately $1,000,000 is yet to be spent in Poland, Serbia, Montenegro and Albania.

TO THE PIONEERS.

Your thoughts today are far from here, you see

The campfires gleaming by the dusty way

The long, white train of wagons, and the fire

And piercing 'ell of coyotes' midnight bay

Along the trail lie waste and ruins of death

Still on it leads into the virgin west. The weary ones have yielded up their breath

They, honored, lie in their eternal rest

The memory of those sorrowing days will go

Not from your minds and hearts until the day

The trail ends here on earth, yet onward flows

These noble souls into a spacious way

Your labors almost over, loved and honored

Are ye who fought and won the untamed west

Your history, we into our hearts have garnered

Walk on; fear not, for with the night comes rest

Through many years of change you are with us yet

Though some have passed into that spirit land

Where campfires gleam and friends do not forget

Where no one parts and pioneers never disband

Wants Schools to Teach Respect.

New York, July 7.—The Gary plan of school administration, the obligation of educational systems to union labor and peace had their innings in the discussions of the National Education association meeting here today. William A. Wirt, superintendent of the city schools of Gary, Ind., discussed the Gary plan as organized in his home city and as administered in twelve of the leading public schools in the Bronx, New York City. The Gary plan, he declared, has extended in some form or other to most of the leading city school systems in the country. Samuel Gompers, president of the American federation of labor, advocated training in the schools for efficient work and the teaching in the schools of the doctrine of respect for the rights of the man who carries a dinner-pail. Dr. John Dewey, professor of education Columbia university, addressed the association on "Nationalizing Education." Simon D. Fess, member of Congress from Ohio, advocated the establishment of a national university at Washington. One of the really brilliant meetings is the meeting of the American school peace league. Fanny Fern Andrews, secretary of the league, insists that public school training must finally make for peace at any price. Delegates to the peace league and prominent educators who are guests at the annual banquet in the Hotel Astor differ as to the educational program to best lead to the establishment of peace with honor.

"The formation of an effective world peace court, so nearly accomplished at the second Hague Conference, declared Miss Fern Andrews, "should be emphasized as an ideal for which the world has hoped and wanted."

Loggers Remove Tree Tops With Dynamite.

Portland, July 6.—That dynamite is used to remove the tops from trees selected as spar trees for the skyline logging rig of the Manley-Moore Lumber company camp at Fairfax, Wash., is reported by Forest Officer L. A. Nelson, who has just returned from a visit to this camp.

Instead of using a saw or an axe, the headrigger puts on a pair of long-spurred climbing irons and ascends the tree to a height of from 100 to 150 feet. He carries with him several sticks of dynamite tied together, end to end, like a string of sausages. This he puts around the tree trunk, which is usually about 32 inches in diameter at the point where he wishes to take off the top, tying the powder securely in place. A detonating cap, to which a long piece of fuse is attached, is inserted in one of the sticks of dynamite. The rigger descends 20 feet or so, lights the fuse and makes his way to a safe place on the ground some distance from the tree. After a few minutes the powder explodes, the tree top leaps into the air and comes crashing down. The limbs are removed from the trunk before the top is shot out, so that after the explosion the stub is ready for attaching the blocks of the overhead logging system.

This method of getting the tops off, which is only experimental at present, is expected to prove safer and more economical than sawing or chopping off the top, which makes it necessary for the faller to remain in the tree until the top has fallen.

The Manley-Moore Lumber company, which is testing this method, has a five-year contract with the Forest Service and is cutting Government timber on the Rainier National Forest at an elevation of 4,000 feet above sea level, the highest elevation of any logging works operating in western Washington. Two years ago attention was called to their operations when they installed an inclined railway over a mile long, and so arranged that a carload of logs coming down hauls an empty car up. On the maximum grade of this incline, the track rises 57 feet in going forward 100. It has been a successful operation for two years.
