

BUG DOOM

This is the time of the year when a vigorous warfare should be waged against those insects which, in spite of all vigilance, are apt to get into a home. By destroying them now a later crop of the pests is prevented. The best preparation to use is our

Lake Claims Life of Boy
Troutlake, Wash., July 7.—Richard Sickafoose, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sickafoose, of this place, aged 2½ years, was drowned in Trout Lake Wednesday. He was playing near the lake and must have slipped in, as fishermen who were near the spot heard no splash and no struggle in the water, which was not deep at that point. The boy had been away from his home near by for only 15 minutes when a search was made for him. W. S. Roberts, of Portland, who is spending his vacation here, and was fishing in the lake, found the child's body floating in the water two hours after the drowning. The parents of the child formerly lived in Portland.

Ladd Canyon road to stop free view of the races. Dozens of cars were lined up on the road yesterday, and though some $15.00 were collected, it is estimated about $200.00 were lost. The people outside were largely towns people. Many pictures were taken of the string of cars.

It would be expedient to oil the road immediately outside the main entrance to remove the only dust about the field. There is none on the track. The announcing system must be improved with addition of telephone stations to the region where parked autos stand.

In spite of the big attendance yesterday the grand stand was ample to handle all. Last year the hotels were entirely inadequate to handle the crowds and this year the citizens will be asked to throw open their homes.

A ticket seller should be stationed near the highway so that autos going directly to the grounds need not unload one to procure tickets, and furthermore, they should be on sale up town more liberally. Other lessons learned yesterday include numerous hints here and there which the management has taken keenly to heart and when the big races occur there will be extremely little to detract from the events, and comfort of patrons is to be the uppermost aim of all concerned. Starters, scorers, announcers, Red Cross and all the many appurtenances required to stage a big event like the one proposed, each got his cue to better his department.

The fact that the racer is visible every minute about the tremendous oval, and that there is a place to sit down were outstanding features. After all is said and done there remains not a word of criticism at the show today other than the transportation end which is the subject of much discussion, but a feasible and satisfactory solution will be worked out. There remains comparatively little to do now except these details and they will get attention.

Speed 'Em Up fever is running loose and for two weeks the inhabitants of these parts will be keyed up to make a united, cooperative show that will spell credit to the city and not leave a single bad taste when it is over.

Tuttle-Shirley.

At the parsonage of the First M. E. church, at Walla Walla Washington, Saturday, June 24, 1916, Rev. A. H. Lathrop officiating, occurred the marriage of Lee B. Tuttle, of Elgin, and Miss Mary Fay Shirley, of Enterprise, says the Elgin Recorder.

While it was no secret that these two young people contemplated "committing matrimony" the exact date of the wedding was known to but two or three of their friends, but they concluded to see if it was possible to "slip one over" on the people of Elgin and Enterprise and show that it was possible to get married, have the event published in a newspaper and keep the matter quiet in these two towns for a week. It had been their intention all along to announce the wedding at Wallowa Lake on their arrival there on Monday, and though a Walla Walla paper containing an account of the wedding did appear in Elgin on Sunday last, "the bund" did not believe it and thought that some one was simply trying to "job" Lee. The groom needs no introduction to Elgin people. He has spent most of his life here and has a host of warm friends. He is a newspaper man of unusual ability and for years has had no small part in making The Elgin Recorder one of the best weekly papers in Eastern Oregon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Shirley, of Enterprise, where she is extremely popular and already has many friends in Elgin, and will have more as soon as she becomes better acquainted here.

rough riding contest in which the performers rode across the virgin sod and looked like jackrabbits clearing up sage brush as they came across the field. Hollister won, Ruby was second and Leo Hanson third.

The smoothness with which the events moved off and the general satisfaction of the races, is to a large degree responsible to the efficient work of Race Manager Neal and the program committee.
