Subscribed and sworn to before me this 13 day of July, 1916. SAMUEL G. WHITE, Notary Public. My commission expires Oct. 19, 1919. GIFT TO SON ABSOLUTE. Father Cannot Change His Mind Afterwards, Says Court. Philadelphia, June 26.—That a parent cannot recover a gift to his child, even if the child fails in its filial duty, was decided recently in the Common Pleas, when Judge Wessel filed an opinion holding that Alexander Turkington, a dealer in real estate, cannot compel his son, Joseph C. Turkington, to reconvey a house which he had given to Joseph and another son. The decision dismisses a bill in equity filed by the father. Owing to marital difficulties with his wife, the complainant purchased a three-story dwelling at Front street and Lehigh avenue in the names of his sons, Joseph and Thomas J. Turkington, with the understanding that the property was to be a homestead and that it was to be theirs absolutely subject to his right to purchase as long as he might live. In the meantime Turkington was divorced and had a quarrel with his son Thomas. The father demanded that the boy convey his right in the property to him, and the son, thinking that it was a duty he owed to his parent, did so. Later a quarrel arose with Joseph, and the same demand was made. The latter, however, refused, and the suit was brought. Judge Wessel, in deciding the dispute, points out that the deeds to the two sons vest an absolute title in them to the property. After a review of the evidence, the court says: "While there is a presumption of ownership in favor of the person who actually pays the consideration for real estate, nevertheless a parent may present gifts to his children and be bound by such act, even if the child thereafter fails in its filial duty. Those delinquencies are punishable in a form different from that constituted by the constitution and laws of this state."

Spruce Going to Europe. Grays Harbor mills are shipping about 40 carloads of clear spruce monthly to the East for transport to Europe. The lumber is known as aeroplane stock, although little of it probably gets into flying machines.

Choral Society Active. Under the direction of George Andrews, former member of the Andrews Opera company, Medford, has a choral society which promises to take a prominent part in the musical activities of Southern Oregon.

Stolen Flag Recovered. The Governor Moody flag, which was presented to Gov. Moody more than 30 years ago and which was stolen from its staff at The Dalles, July 5, has been found in the rear of a residence. Shipments Show Increase. Beginning with 95 shipments of liquor in January, there has been a steady increase in Linn county. There were 507 shipments this past month.

Rich Ore Reported. Ore running as high as $500 to the ton in value is reported to have been struck at the Sanger mine about 30 miles from Baker. Balm Creek Dam Work Resumed. Contractor J. A. Hoskins has again resumed work on raising the dam at the Balm creek reservoir of the Thief valley irrigation project to the 50-foot level, supplementing the work started last fall. When finished the Thief valley project will water 77,000 acres. Postal Receipts Increase. A gain of $643.67 has been made in the postal receipts in Albany the last year.
