Hill's Department Store

Find Benzoic Acid Adulterated.

Washington, D. C., July 25.—Recent examinations by the chemists engaged in the enforcement of the Food and Drugs act of shipments of benzoic acid offered for entry into the United States have revealed that much of it is adulterated with boric acid. This adulteration is probably due to the high price which benzoic acid now commands owing to its scarcity. It is quoted at about eleven dollars per pound, while the price of high grade boric acid is only twenty to twenty-five cents per pound. As some of the shipments of benzoic acid have been found to contain as much as thirty per cent boric acid, the enormous profit in this form of adulteration is apparent.

The officials in charge of the enforcement of the Food and Drug act are of the opinion that benzoic acid containing boric acid is adulterated, and that shipments of such a mixture offered for entry into the United States should be denied admission under the Food and Drugs act.

Three hundred and thirty million feet of government timber on the Oregon National forest was today put up for bids by District Forester George H. Cecil. This is the largest single body of timber that the Forest Service has ever advertised for sale in District 6, which comprises Oregon, Washington and Alaska.

The area designated for cutting embraces about 7,020 acres in Township 1 south, Ranges 8, 81-2 and 9 east, W. M., on the West Fork Hood River watershed. Approximately 72 per cent of the timber is Douglas fir, Western hemlock, amabilis fir, western red cedar, noble fir, and western white pine make up the remainder of the stand.

The minimum stumpage prices that will be considered are $1.20 per M for Douglas fir, western red cedar and noble fir; $2.50 per M for western white pine, and 50 cents per M for all other species.

The district forester states that provisions have been made to protect the scenic and other recreation features of the West Fork Hood River region by reserving a strip of timber along the route of the proposed road from Dee to Lost Lake and Lolo Pass where it crosses the sale area. The final location of this road will be made before any timber is cut on this sale. The location of the sale area and the method of cutting will give ample protection to the water resources of the Hood River region. It is felt by the Forest Service that this sale represents a happy combination of the uses of National Forests, in that it devotes an area to timber utilization and growth without interfering with the recreational use of nearby areas, such as that in the vicinity of Lost Lake.

Traffic Court Accepts no Excuses.

New York, July 28.—The first official report of New York's new Traffic court, available today, shows that no excuses are accepted, every autoist or other person arrested for violation of traffic regulations being fined. During the first thirteen days the court was in session 129 persons were sent to jail because they didn't pay their fines. Most of them still are there and others are following them every day. Before the Traffic court started, about one-fifth of all traffic violation fines were suspended. Now they must all be paid. The first thirteen days of Traffic court netted the city $11,303 cash in fines. There were 300 cases of speed limit violation in the 13 days, 20 chauffeurs were convicted of driving cars without numbers, three persons for driving cars while intoxicated and six for failing to stop after an accident, which is a felony. Two drivers' licenses were revoked and one owner's number suspended. Court officials say conditions are much better in the streets since the new court has taken such vigorous action against violators of traffic regulations. "Other cities in the United States would do well to follow suit," said Clerk of the Court Rowland J. Sheridan, today.

One-Cent Postage Near, is Belief.

Washington, July 24.—Prospects of one-cent postage were outlined by Postmaster General Burleson in an address today to the National Association of Postmasters.

He said that should second class mail rates be increased and "useless extravagance" in rural carriage eliminated initial steps could be taken next year toward reduction of the letter rate.

References to partisan politics were made by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Blaklee and Postmaster Weaver of Oklahoma City. Mr. Weaver concluded his speech saying:

"Go home, my fellow postmasters, and remember that the great good to all the people of all the nations of this earth is the re-election, thank God, of Woodrow Wilson." The postmasters, virtually all appointed by Mr. Wilson, cheered.

SHERRY'S

Stuart Holmes Rewarded for Being a "Good" Villain in Fox Films.

(Sherry's, last day today.)

Virtue may be its own reward in the very best copybook fashion, but villainy also has its reward, as Stuart Holmes will be able to tell you if you ask him.

Mr. Holmes has been a good villain. He has been so perfectly despicable, so Machiavellian in his meannesses, so triumphant in his social wrongdoings that William Fox is now ready to star him because of his popular unpopularity.

None of the foregoing has been written with the idea of making the story complex or intricate. Stuart Holmes has "made good" in the movies as a villain, and now he may be seen in the star part of "Sins of Men," a new feature film, and will divide the billboard honors equally with lovely Dorothy Bernard, who came hurrying back from the Pacific Coast studios to share fifty-fifty in the honors.

If you have seen the Mantell-Hamper pictures produced by Fox you gained a lasting impression of Stuart Holmes. He was in all of them, and evoked the hisses that used to be launched at the melodramatic villains by the gallery gods. He possesses all of the sartorial splendor that a villain from the city is supposed to have; his waxed mustache tapers to the finest of upturned points at the ends, and his eyebrows can assume sardonic expressions independent of his eyes and lips.

For the last five months Holmes has been working in Jamaica. On his return he brought with him his French-speaking parrot, his baby Jamaican wildcat and a parting glance of thankfulness over his departure from little Jane Lee, who plays in the same pictures with Holmes but takes his movie villainies quite seriously indeed.

Constipation and Indigestion.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets and must say they are the best I have ever used for constipation and indigestion. My wife also used them for indigestion and they did her good," writes Eugene S. Knight, Wilmington, N. C. Chamberlain's Tablets are mild and gentle in their action. Give them a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the agreeable laxative effect which they produce. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Joseph News Items.

(From the Herald.)

Bert Kelsey, one of the pioneers of eastern Oregon, passed away Tuesday morning at Ritter Hot Springs, Grant county, from infirmities incident upon old age. Mrs. Polk Mays, a daughter, was notified by wire and left Tuesday for the family home at Fossil, where the funeral will occur. The old gentleman had reached the ripe old age of 84 years.

Miss Claire Leslie returned home Monday from La Grande where she recently submitted to an operation for the removal of her appendix. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is convalescing in a satisfactory manner and will soon be enjoying her normal good health.

Local business men familiar with conditions generally forecast one of the best periods this fall and winter in the history of Joseph. With the ranges in splendid condition, farm crops up to average and new enterprises projected it must seem that the introduction of new wealth into the local marts is assured in unusual volume.

ARCADE

"Pasquale" at Arcade.

Those who go to see Morosco's latest feature photoplay "Pasquale" released on the Paramount program at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow will see a very unusual and remarkable production.

George Behan in the starring role of "Pasquale," which by the way, is his own writing, creates a part, that is his greatest triumph.

The story is about two Italians, the poor grocer, who are drawn together one a rich banker and the other a while back fighting as soldiers for Italy. Their manner of living before the call to arms reaches them at a time when each is passing through great sorrow is an interesting insight into Italian life.

The absorbing interest and fascination created is held until the last scene at the end of the picture fades into oblivion.
