MARY PICKFORD APPEARS IN ROLE FALSELY

Picture Falsifies—It Isn't Mary At All, You See

By one of those strange combinations by which the motion picture camera occasionally performs extraordinary "stunts," Mae Murray before the camera became Mary Pickford, when the picture was projected on the screen. If it seems like an impossible coincidence the accompanying photograph tells the story.

During the making of the Lasky photoplay, "The Dream Girl," for the Paramount Program, Cecil B. DeMille, the director, assembled a group of girls in the playground of a Los Angeles School. The scene was to represent the young women of an orphanage, and, lo, Mae Murray was placed on the outside, fourth from the front.

The Lasky star wore her curls and her cutest expression, and her costume was of a forlorn little orphan whom nobody loved.

When the film was ready for presentation the special audience gasped in amazement. For all the world Mae looked like Mary.

Donald Brian, celebrated comedian and matinee idol left wing of the inimitable "Donald and Julia and Joe" trio in the current stage success, "Sybil" is to be starred by the Famous Players in a modern smuggling story which will be released on the Paramount Program within the next few weeks.

Mr. Brian is one of the best known and most popular figures on the stage.

Captain Marguerite Clark, the diminutive star in the Famous Players production of Paramount Pictures who "commands" the interest of an army of millions of photo play fans, will be a real captain in the picture "Silks and Satins."

INTERESTING CHAT.

Louise Huff, who is being featured by the Famous Players in "Destiny's Love" is not crazy about taking running leaps into moving freight cars, but you would never know it if you were to judge by the way she does it in the Paramount picture. One would suspect her of having been a tomboy in her not distant past, although she is the quietest and most sedate sort of a young person today.

When the rehearsals for the new Ziegfeld "Follies" began, Ann Pennington was all at sea. The diminutive dancer had been working in the Famous Players studio on "Susie Snowflake," a Paramount picture in which she makes her screen debut, and had just become sufficiently accustomed to the way things are done

Notice to School Directors

It will soon be time for school to take up. Has the building in your district been renovated and made as clean and attractive as paint, wall paper, varnish and kalsomine can make it? In no building is sanitation and attractiveness so important as the school building.

Don't delay about this work longer but get busy right away. You can find just the right materials here and if you desire we can send first-class men to do the work.

Marie Doro Takes a Close-up of Blanche Sweet.

BLANCHE SWEET AND MARIE DORO, LASKY-PARAMOUNT STARS.

Marie Doro was the hostess recently to one of the most representative gatherings of motion picture stars and directors at her new California villa. The occasion was a house warming, and Miss Doro and her husband, Elliott Dexter, welcomed the guests.

Following the supper Miss Doro made a short speech, followed by speeches by Douglas Fairbanks, Blanche Sweet and other stars. Then Charlie Chaplin, holding a large box in his hand, rose and presented the box to Miss Doro. It was a motion picture camera, which Mr. Chaplin had had made for the hostess.

Nothing would apprise the guests until Mr. Dexter sent a chauffeur to the Lasky studio to "borrow" a few big artificial lights. The drawing room of Miss Doro's house was immediately turned into a studio and motion pictures of the guests were taken. Doctor Trabulsi, Lasky photodramatist, improvised a short play. It was estimated that the combined salaries of the stars who appeared in it reached a figure well over $1,250,000.

Colorado Emulates Oregon

Denver, Colo., July 29.—An amendment to the prohibition law and six other measures will be referred to the voters of Colorado at the November election.

The bill initiated by the brewers to permit of the sale of Colorado made beer in the state is easily attracting the most attention. The other six include the medical examination and license act passed by the legislature but opposed by the chiropractors and other recent schools of drugless medicine.

Better facilities for the treatment of the state's insane, abolition of the state tax commission and extension of civil service are proposed. The use of state school funds for farm loans and a proposal relating to the running of cattle on the range are the two remaining measures to be voted on.

The Estate of Robert Hoe has been estimated at $9,833,730. Hoe's greatest presses revolutionized the printing business—but evidently the inventions were also a good thing for the Hoe family. Mr. Hoe loved art, and made a great collection of etchings, engravings, prints, paintings, pottery, etc.

Pauline Frederick as Spanish Dancer

PAULINE FREDERICK, FAMOUS PLAYERS-PARAMOUNT STAR.

Though beautiful Pauline Frederick has played many striking roles in Famous Players productions on the Paramount Program, there is none which is more powerful than that of Myra in "The World's Great Square," an adaptation of the well known novel of the same name by E. Phillips Oppenheim. This particular pose is peculiarly appropriate to Miss Frederick, for it was in musical comedy that this distinguished actress first made her mark on the stage.
