perhaps more so, for what looks like leather often proves to be a "horse of another color." For this very reason we are overly particular about our shoes. Above all else, sound and solid leather must enter into the making of every pair. Let this be your shoe store in the future and you will always be satisfied.

SHERRY'S

James J. Corbett, "Pompador Jim," is the attraction today in the stirring melodrama "The Burglar and the Lady," and judging from advance notices the play has as much "punch" as Jim had when he won his way to the championship of the world. He can be seen today only as tomorrow he will be followed by the master of rough and tumble fighters, William Farnum in the "Battle of the Hearts."

"THE LAST ACT" HAS PLAY WITHIN A PLAY

Newest Triangle Drama, With Bessie Barriscale, Shows Actress Playing an Actress

A play within a play is the dramatic medium through which Thomas H. Ince helps to develop logically the plot upon which he has built his newest Triangle play, "The Last Act," in which Bessie Barriscale is starred, and which comes to the Arcade Thursday only.

Miss Barriscale is an actress who obtains a good part when she needs it most and thereby gains great success and attendant social recognition. Into her life comes a prosperous lawyer, whose wife neglects him for her charities. It is by reproducing part of the play in which his star appears that Ince reveals to her the folly and consequences of permitting a continuation of her relations with the lawyer.

Her faithful maid knows them and warns the wife of the lawyer. The latter comes to see the actress, who recognizes her as a woman who had previously befriended her. She is moved to give up her admirer in a spirit of sacrifice but hesitates until through her mind passes the great climax of her play. She sees what happens to the triangle in that make-believe world and hesitates no longer. She even goes so far as to show the wife how easy it is to regain her husband's love; less time given to outside charities and more to making a happy home and congenial companion for her husband.

Donkey Balks at Yiddish.

Philadelphia, July 31.—Accustomed to obey orders given in a broad Irish brogue, a jackass owned by a South-street tailor recently resented commands given in Yiddish. As a result 10 seamen on the British steamship Ascot, lying at Girard Point, nearly lost their best suits of clothing.

Joe Wanger, who conducts a tailor shop in South street, and whose store is largely patronized by seagoing men, recently decided to advertise his business more widely. He concluded to buy a pack mule to transport his wares to steamships and to swing signs on each side of the mule. Two or three days ago he learned that at Friedman's livery stables, in Bainbridge street, there were two or three jackasses for sale cheap and he decided to buy a jackass instead of a pack mule. These jackasses were sold to Friedman by an Irish contractor.

Wanger sent his agent, Asher Wenkos, to Girard Point for orders from men on the Ascot. Wenkos was ordered to ride the jackass. Before leaving the store Wanger saw that his signs hung suspended on either side of the beast. The little animal leisurely made his way to Girard Point. On the return trip Wenkos, eager to make better time, in excited Yiddish ordered the beast to hit up a more lively gait. When the animal refused to step faster Wenkos gave him a jab in the ribs with his heel. This caused the signs to strike on the donkey's legs "fore and aft." In less time than it takes to narrate what followed Wenkos was lying on the asphalt some 20 feet from his mount and 10 suits of clothes were scattered over the immediate landscape.

Wenkos was discovered lying alongside the road with his ankle broken by Thomas Grace, master stevedore at Girard Point. Grace placed Wenkos in his automobile and took him home. Wenkos says that Wanger must get rid of the jackass or there will be a vacancy for a tailor's agent at the South-street establishment.

CAMPAIGN LAID OUT.

Rev. W. O. Shank Arranging for Billy Sunday's Talk.

Although his annual vacation commences next month, the Rev. William O. Shank, of the East Side Baptist church, is devoting the greater part of his energies in arranging plans for the Billy Sunday anti-brewery law amendment meeting which is scheduled for August 8 at the White Temple. Mr. Shank is presiding officer of the Portland Ministerial Federation, and vice-president of the organization which will have direct control of the big rally, remarks the Oregonian.

"The meeting on August 8 will mark the opening of the campaign to defeat the proposed amendment to the prohibition law, allowing brewers to manufacture beer in the state of Oregon," he said, "and we expect an enormous crowd present to register a protest against this attempt to enter an opening wedge for the defeat of the law which has made this state dry."

"I have positive assurance that the Rev. Billy Sunday will be here to make the principal argument protesting against the adoption of the proposed amendment, and he will undoubtedly talk in his usual characteristic manner. Commencing August 8, a most vigorous campaign will be waged throughout the state against the measure, and it will be conducted with unabated vigor until the day of election."

After the Billy Sunday meeting on August 8, Mr. and Mrs. Shank will enjoy a short outing. Upon their return, Mr. Shank will enter actively into the work of fighting the proposed amendment.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
