SHERRY'S

ARCADE

"Shoes" at Sherry's Tomorrow Only.
Daughter of a lazy, good for nothing novel reading "can rushing" father, she toiled, half-slave, behind the counter of a five and ten cent store for five dollars a week. Her shoes so full of holes that she picked up splinters in the bottom of her feet from the rough boards of the floor where she stood behind the counter—so rotten with age and wearing that they were ready to fall from the lashes that bound them around her ankles. Every Saturday she took her unopened pay-envelope home to her mother—victim of a husband's laziness and compelled to take in washing that he might lie abed, drink beer, smoke his pipe and read novels. For three weeks her mother had promised the shoppirl that she should have money to buy shoes—three times the excuse of house rent, the butcher's bill and groceries to be paid for denied the fulfillment of the promise. Finally unable longer to quiet the surge of resentment that overwhelmed her repugnance, the shop girl—procured her own shoes and in the understanding tears of her mother the child's sins were washed away. Behold in "Shoes" the Bluebird photoplay to be exhibited at the Sherry theatre on tomorrow only the greatest sociological problem picture ever screened.

"The Evil Thereof" a Powerful Screen Drama.

One more unfortunate,
Wearily of breath,
Rashly importunate,
Gone to her death,
Take her up tenderly,
Lift her with care;
Fashioned so slenderly—
Young, and so fair.

Alas for the rarity
Of Christian charity.

In these immortal lines from Thomas Hood's great poem, "The Bridge of Sighs," can be found the basis for the Famous Players Film company's elaborate screen morality drama, "The Evil Thereof," which is the current attraction on the Paramount program at the Arcade theatre. The story is one of the most intensely dramatic that the Famous Players company, in all its long and illustrious career as photoplay producers, has ever presented.

"The Evil Thereof" is a screen philippic against the evils of money that is spent only for self-gratification, regardless of the human cost at which it is bought. The photoplay traces the history of three hundred-dollar bills, which are obtained by crime, by suffering, and by the sweat of the brow, and which find their way to a gay and reckless member of the idle rich, who gives the bills to some guest at a risqué party in the form of souvenirs. As each guest picks up the bill, its history is depicted on the screen. One of these little human histories involves a guest at the party, and as the picture fades into the scene of the party, showing her with the bill in her hand which had cost her so much sorrow and so much pain, given to her so carelessly by her host, as though it meant only a scrap of paper to him, something departs from her soul, and, snatching a knife from the table, she plunges it into the heart of the man whose selfishness had brought so much misery to her and to many others.

It will remain at the Arcade until Tuesday night.
