SPECIAL WILL LEAVE EARLY

GREAT CROWD AT GIBBON ANTICIPATED.

Stephen A. Lowell of Pendleton to Make Principal Address.

Tomorrow morning at 7:30 the O.-W. Employees' special train pulls out of La Grande for Gibbon for an all-day picnic for employes and their friends.

La Grande, along with Pendleton, Baker and other larger cities, is sending large crowds of citizens not connected with railroading who go to take advantage of the opportunity to spend a day in the mountains where will be assembled great numbers of people. A special leaves Reith at the same time that one leaves La Grande and both trains will leave Gibbon on the return at the same hour, namely, 7:30 p. m.

Accommodations to handle in the vicinity of 1000 people out of La Grande have been made by the railroad company, and the attendance from the west will be correspondingly big. Committees have been out among merchants feeling out the pulse, and they report that practically every business house is going to send at least one representative.

High railroad officials, including President Farrell, are expected to be on hand for the big time tomorrow.

After the train reaches Gibbon, A. W. Perley will deliver a welcome address, and Judge Stephen A. Lowell of Pendleton will make the principal address of the day.

The Kaiser Says History Will Clear Him of Blame for War.

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily News today printed a Berne dispatch quoting the kaiser as saying:

"I don't envy the men having the responsibility of this war on his conscience. I, at least, am not that man. I believe history will clear me of the charge although I do not suppose history will hold me faultless. In a sense every civilized man in Europe must share the responsibility. The higher his position the larger his responsibility. I admit that, yet claim I acted in good faith throughout and strove for peace although war was inevitable."

The News said the kaiser made the statement to a prominent neutral visiting Berlin.

RIVERSIDE PARK POPULAR.

Many Gatherings Slated for La Grande's Place for Recreation.

That Riverside park is rapidly repaying in every way all the money and trouble that has been bestowed upon it is plainly apparent. The park has become the natural rallying place for picnics, societies, churches and all organized civic divisions all the way from the small, individual citizen who likes to wade or swim or shoot the chutes, the equally rollicksome devotees of the dance and the "winnie" feasts up to the matured ones who like a place of quiet meeting. The park is the common gathering place for all.

Just recently in a small section in a corner of the park grounds adjoining the river auto tourists are allowed "camping" privileges. This is a veritable boon to the country's new brigade of tramps who hail all the way from New York to Texas and back again. This is a good advertisement for La Grande. Those who are doing the country by the gasoline mode are entitled to such privileges. They will spend enough anyway to make up the difference in having a free spot to allow their outfits to cool.

Locally, it is difficult to imagine what La Grande would do without Riverside park. And it is getting better every year. The park, its facilities and surroundings are improving every day. The park booth now has regular supplies of refreshments, lunch goods, etc., the same as in the times of the big annual gatherings. There is in fact not much that is needed for the comfort and enjoyment of visitors to the park that is not now supplied. There is just the one drawback and that is that it may not be long until it is found that the park is not big enough.

Detroit—Political Battle Ground

Detroit, Aug. 16.—Detroit—political battle ground of the nation! Such it is today. For the first time in its history the issues of a great campaign are being fought out by the leaders in this city of the middle west. Roosevelt started the tide of battle Detroitward when he came here to preach preparedness. President Wilson selected the City of the Straights for his most important address of the pre-campaign period. Charles Evans Hughes launched his campaign for the Presidency August 7. Ask Michigan politicians why and the answer almost invariably is: "Ford." Roosevelt came to fight the anti-militaristic movement that crystallized following Henry Ford's unexpected appearance in the results of the Presidential primaries. Wilson picked Detroit as the place for his address on Mexican relations. (Politicians believe that the selection of Detroit was because he recognized it as a representative industrial center. Then came Hughes, selecting Detroit as the scene of his first offensive move in the actual campaign. The motive of the Republican nominee in picking the automobile city was practical politics. Michigan was the first state in the union to declare definitely for the justice. A battle royal for Michigan's immense Progressive vote also is indicated by the actions of the two nominees. Normally Michigan is Republican by 50,000, but four years ago the Progressives received the popular verdict, polling more than 213,000 votes, or nearly 39 per cent of the total. The fight for control of this Progressive element promises to develop into one of the feature rounds of the campaign.
