Our Coal Creed

We believe in good coal, in clean coal, in coal that looks good, burns better and heats best of all.

We believe in a business policy of fair prices, square dealing and liberal treatment of customers, great and small.

We believe in a discriminating public that knows what it wants and knows where to buy it.

We believe in ourselves and the goods we sell.

We believe that we have the most desirable stock of coal to be found in La Grande.

FEW PORKERS IN VICINITY

DOLLAR WHEAT WILL REDUCE EVEN MORE. Buyers Say Consumption Is Light at the Present Time.

Throughout Union county there is somewhat of a scarcity of hogs for the market. Warren Chandler, one of the biggest buyers of stock in the county, can see little relief either.

"Dollar wheat isn't good hog feed" declared Mr. Chandler yesterday evening in discussing the hog situation. "There are few hogs in the valley now and I believe there will be even less next year."

Consumption of pork is light everywhere and Union county is no exception. This is blamed to summer weather, a period in which meats are not in demand like they are in the late fall and winter.

In view of the scarcity of hogs however, this condition is not effecting the trade much but when fall comes meat consumption will probably pick up and then farmers will have more time and facilities to fatten hogs for the market so that the general tenor of things will continue, supply and demand more or less equal.

Mr. Chandler is to all appearances right. Hogs are rapidly being cast aside as a by-product of the small farm. For the past year the price of feed has been a problem, and in numerous instances small ranchers especially have cut loose entirely from the hog business.

This, for one thing, is causing the shortage of supply for buyers to choose from. Trading Commonplace.

Portland, Aug. 28.—Generally strong to firm tone is showing in the sheep and lamb trade at North Portland. Receipts continue below general requirements and the demand for stockers and feeders is exceptionally good at extreme prices.

Hog market at North Portland clearly showed the effects of the improvement in demand. At the start of the week's trading prices advanced 10 above the extreme figures of Saturday at $9.85, which is but a nickel below what one load sold for about a week ago.

Trade in the cattle market at North Portland is generally considered steady with the inward movement not as heavy as expected. There was quite a fair volume of business early at former quotations, but prices were about unchanged.

$100 Reward, $100 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Savages and Place Names. It is very rare that savages give names to extensive lands as a whole, and at first sight this seems surprising.

Yet when we reflect that the average savage rarely travels more than 100 miles from his birthplace it is quite natural he should know nothing beyond his personal knowledge.

If savages live on a very large island they are acquainted with only a small part of it and give names only to those portions with which they are familiar.

The largest islands of the Pacific have no native names. No name for the continent of Africa is known among its savage tribes. When told that they live in Africa a common response is that they never heard of such a country.

As a rule, Pacific explorers were careful to retain native names if they could ascertain them. Cook was particularly desirous to retain native names for all his greater discoveries because he could find no other appellations.—Exchange.

Danced in Court. An unusual scene was once witnessed in a French law court, the civil tribunal at Nantes. The proprietor of a local theater had engaged a young lady dancer, whose performances at rehearsals did not come up to his expectations. He therefore would not let her appear, and the fair dancer took action against him for breach of contract.

The defendant alleged that she had not even learned the first steps of her art, and, here being a plain issue, the judge determined to decide for himself. A space was accordingly forthwith cleared on the floor of the court, and in these unusual surroundings the young lady duly went through her steps and prouettings. In the result the judge felt justified in certifying that she was quite an expert dancer and decided the case in her favor. Henceforth she advertised herself as the only dancer in the country with a legal certificate of proficiency.

How Leap Year Started. Hampson in his "Medii Oevi Kalendarium" quotes the following quaint tradition from an old Saxon treatise: "Some assert that the bissextus or leap day comes through this, that Joshua prayed to God that the sun might stand still for one day's length that he might sweep the heathen from the land that God had granted him and his followers. It is true that the sun did stand still for one day's length over the city of Gabaon, but the day went forward in the same manner as other days. And the bissextus is not through that, as some do think."

In France and some parts of Spain and Portugal there exists a tradition known as "the ghost of leap year." Believers in this say that a marvelous monster annually appears on leap day and disarranges human affairs for the remainder of the year.

Bells in Ireland. A peculiar interest attaches to the bells which tourists and collectors find in Ireland. It is said that it was St. Patrick who taught the monks and craftsmen how to make bells after he had gone to the Emerald Isle in 440. Many of the early bells remain and are examples of exquisite decoration. A copy of the bell cover of St. Patrick is now in the South Kensington museum and is a perfect example of Celtic art, while the silver bell of St. Mora, in the Wallace collection, is hardly less interesting. It is of a unique style, with its filigreed ornaments plaited and twisted and interlaced.—Exchange.

Rebuked. The persevering landscape painter knew that he had an observer looking over his shoulder at the easel. He knew from the rustle of skirts that the observer was a woman; yet he worked steadily on. Presently the observer spoke.

"A charming landscape," she said. "Ah, you flatter me," said the artist modestly. "Compared with the original landscape it is very poor stuff." "I meant the original," said the observer.—New York Times.

A Puzzled Student. Little Ethel had just returned from Sunday school and was looking very puzzled.

"Mamma," she said, "did they have very large beds in Bible days?" "I don't know, dear," said her mother. "Why do you ask?" "Because," said the little girl, "our teacher said today that Abraham slept with his four fathers."

Gave Warning. Wife—Well, dear, I shall have to do the cooking now. Cook left without warning this afternoon. Husband—Not exactly without warning. She told me this morning I had better bring home some dyspepsia tablets tonight, but I didn't quite understand what she meant.—London Tit-Bits.

One Thing Always Handy. Husband (rummaging through a drawer)—Well, it's very strange I can never find anything. Wife—You can always find fault, it seems to me.

Defined. First Girl—What's biology mean? Second Girl—Why, it's the science of shopping. I suppose.—Boston Transcript.

Why destroy present happiness by a distant misery that may never come at all?—Sydney Smith.

Fired at Dead Man.

London, Aug. 28.—Firing point blank at a German gunner, a British Tommy now invalided home, was amazed that the Teuton didn't fall. He grappled with the German and found the man dead but held upright by a chain binding him to the machine.
