FIRST DAY'S AUDIENCE BIG

SAME OLD VIM REPORTED TO RULE AT PENDLETON ROUND-UP THIS YEAR.

La Grande Rider Places Second Best in Important Contest on Opening Afternoon.

Round-Up Park, Pendleton, Sept. 21.
—Does the Round-Up still maintain its hold upon the popular fancy, in spite of its six years of age and its many imitations?

The answer is written plainly in human figures here this afternoon. It is told by the attendance at the opening day of the seventh annual exhibition, an attendance that is easily the largest for an opener in the past four years, if not since the Round-Up first began. The grandstand is a solid pack and the flanking bleachers are half filled.

It is estimated that there are between 10,000 and 12,000 watching the first show of the 1916 Round-Up.

Bands Welcome Visitors.

The gates were open at 12 o'clock and there were hundreds in the first rush through. The Round-Up, La Grande Elks, Milton, Athena and Weston bands began playing at 1 o'clock and the crowd kept pouring through the gates in a steady stream until the crack of a pistol announced that the Round-Up was under way.

Spectacle Is Superb.

The scene presented to the thousands of visitors is one that cannot but enrapture and thrill. Opposite the crowd and lined up just beyond the back stretch of track sit hundreds of cowboys and cowgirls on their ponies waiting for their turn in the grand western playday. Their gaudy shirts and chaps, their gay kerchiefs and bright trappings stand out in splashes of color against the background of green trees and white tepees of the Indian encampment.

The arena and track is so full of action that the eye scarcely has time to revel in the beauty of the scene. Man struggles with brute for supremacy, the brute as often the victor as the vanquished; whooping cowboys astride sinewy ponies, dash past in clouds of dust; Indians, their tawny bodies bedecked in barbaric splendor, dance or parade or race; stage coaches, clumsy old forerunners of the fast express, career and pitch along their course to exemplify the danger and hardship of travel in pioneer times; outlaw mustangs rear and plunge and snort in their maddened efforts to rid themselves of their human burdens; steers, shaking their long, menacing horns, race across the field, only to have their wild flight checked suddenly by a lariat that trips them up and brings them down crashing to earth; writhing ropes dance and sing in the air; cowboys yip, Indians whoop and the crowd gives vociferous vent to its varied emotions.

Bootleggers Working at Baker.

Baker, Or., Sept. 22.—That there are 15 "arch-bootleggers" in Baker, only a few of whom have so far been taken into custody, was the statement of J. S. Smith, United States internal revenue collector, speaking before the prohibition committee of 100 at its organization meeting. "Most of those now in jail, or under bonds, are only small fry," he declared.

How to Give Good Advice.

Building For The Future

The young business man measures the importance of his enterprise by the vision which he has of its ultimate growth.

The Officers of this Institution, in like manner, measure the importance of his bank account, not by the size of its initial deposit but by its possibilities for development.

We cordially invite the accounts of young men embarking in the business world.
