America and Germany are the greatest eyeglass and spectacle wearing nations of the world. Five Americans wear glasses to one of any other nation.

Martha Mink of this county and Evert Larkin, a well known Union county man, were united in marriage Monday by Justice of the Peace Joe H. Parkes.—Pendleton Oregonian.

An event known to several La Grande people to be forthcoming this fall, occurred at Jefferson, Iowa, a week ago Thursday and united in marriage Miss Ivy Emily Head, for several years librarian of the La Grande public library, and E. D. Selder of the Blue Mountain Creamery company. Although Miss Head confided to a few the reason for resigning her post here, in which she had won universal praise and satisfaction, it was not entirely unknown that she was to be joined later by Mr. Selder, popular Commercial club, Y. M. C. A. and general civic betterment worker, and be married in Iowa. A Jefferson paper recites the details of the wedding thusly:

"A large company of relatives and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Head last Thursday evening to witness the nuptials of their daughter, Miss Ivy Emily Head, and Mr. Eugene D. Selder, who were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at 8 o'clock. The guests were received at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Head, and escorted to their places in the parlors by Mr. and Mrs. D. Brian. When all were seated Mrs. Brian played Mendelssohn's wedding march, to the music of which the marriage party descended the stairs and took their places. First came the bride's pastor, Rev. Charles W. Caldwell, who was followed by Master 'Billy' Brian, who bore the ring in a dear little basket, handsomely trimmed in flowers. Then came the bride and groom, unattended. The ceremony was a beautiful one, the simple ring form being used, and, at the close, the wealth of congratulations extended proved in a fitting way the love and esteem in which the young couple was held by Jefferson folks."

"The bride was gowned for the occasion in white crepe de chine over white satin, and her sister, Mrs. Brian, in white chiffon over pink satin. After congratulations had been spoken the company were seated and were served refreshments in three courses, the coffee urns being presided over by Mesdames J. M. Griser and Paul Osgood, who were assisted by Mesdames Brian and Fullam and Misses Verna Lawton, Vivian Wynkoop, Grace Bell and Maude Lovejoy. Mrs. Gertrude McCully and Mrs. Wynkoop directed the service."

"The bride is one of Jefferson's choicest young ladies, born and reared to sweet womanhood in this city. A couple of years ago she went to La Grande, Oregon, where, for some time, she has been in charge of that city's magnificent public library, one of the finest in the state. It was there she met the groom, who is one of La Grande's foremost young business men. He is proprietor of the Blue Mountain Creamery company, a concern which has offices in that part of the state and does a wholesale business in creamery products, as well as manufacturing ice. The young couple expect to visit hereabouts for a short time, and then go to their future home at La Grande. The sincere good wishes of countless Jefferson friends go with them in their new home making."

Mrs. Ivy Long-Culp and son, Edwin, of Portland, are guests at the W. D. Long home this week. Mrs. Culp is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Long. Her many La Grande friends are greeting her.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grady, well known theatrical top-liners, have opened a dancing academy in Portland and are having a splendid patronage, relates Mrs. H. C. Grady, erstwhile La Grande lady, now visiting friends in La Grande. Mr. and Mrs. Grady have been continually on the vaudeville stage with dancing acts since their marriage a few years ago, and both Conductor and Mrs. Grady and the younger family appreciate the pleasure of making their home constantly in Portland.

AMUSEMENTS ARE DISCUSSED

Evangelist Calls Gossip Verbal Assassination of Character

Evangelist Marshall spoke last night at the Baptist church on Amusements, using the theme "False Pride as an Amusement."

"It is merely selfishness and self-cultured living," he said. "Another is the life of compromise. Some people really amuse themselves by not having any convictions upon any subject. Don't amuse yourself by drifting. Get somewhere. Aim high. Another amusement is gossip. Gossip is verbal assassination."

"I would as quickly thrust a looking glass in the hands of a child and give it a hammer as to trust some people with a man or woman's reputation. Sin is measured at the very inception of it in the mind. How many of you men would be willing to have your recorded thoughts read aloud?"

The evangelist spoke out on card playing, social drinking and dancing, calling them evils not to be practiced or considered worthy of time and consideration of men and women of high character.

PAISLEY SHAWLS IN VOGUE AGAIN

Nation's Fashion Art League Declares Grandmother's Shawls Should Be Brought From Store Trunks.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Whatever did become of grandma's paisley shawl? Look in the attic trunk, search the closets upstairs—for, says the Fashion Art League, which held its semi-annual exhibition a day or two ago in the Congress Hotel, the old-fashioned, paisley shawl is the "latest thing" for trimming coats, hats purses—even the swaggar canes which the smart dresser will carry this winter.

One hundred Chicago society women passed on the exhibition. A corps of debutantes assisted Mme. Alla Ripley and Mme. Bailey. The morning was devoted to reception the afternoon to the display of exhibits, and the evening to prize winners and the exhibition of styles as presented by models of Chicago, New York, Boston and Louisville.

Girl Ends Long Journey.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 18.—Little Nanette Harvey, the 5-year-old niece of Mrs. Gerald J. Delaney of Spokane, has arrived safely in this city after a journey of nearly 7,000 miles by sea and land from her native city, Belfast, Ireland. Little Nanette's father, who served in the British navy, was killed on board his ship more than a year ago, and more recently her mother died, leaving Nanette and her sisters orphans. Mrs. Delaney decided to make a home for her little niece. The difficulty was to get her to Spokane when there was no one coming from Belfast to Spokane. Nanette crossed over to New York on the Cunard steamer Tuscania. All the passengers and crew were kind to the little orphan. On arrival at New York she was met by Walter W. Hook of Spokane, who placed her on board a westbound train, in charge of the train officials, all of whom, on every line she came over, paid every care

This broke the ice and made her feel at home, as the red cross is displayed on every street in Belfast. Arriving at her aunt's house, she was soon happily playing.
