SCHOOL ELEVEN GIVEN LESSON

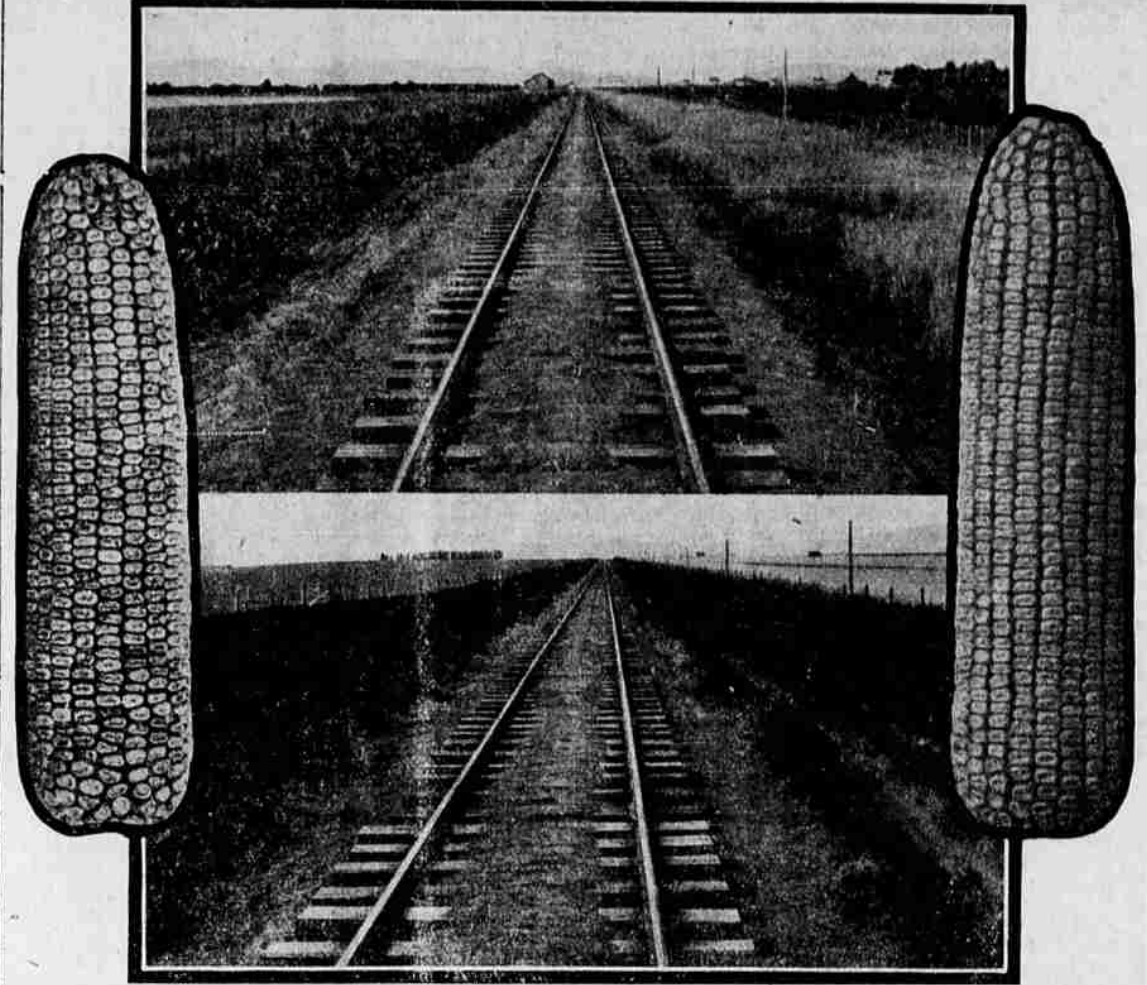

OLD-TIME COLLEGE STARS HELP DRIVE YOUNGSTERS INTO FIGHTING FORM.

Early, High School Team Without Vim But Finds Itself and Cheers Admirers on Sidelines.

Mighty valuable lessons in football were taught Coach Niles' squad of aspirants yesterday evening when a group of old ex-collegiate and high school stars of days gone by lined up against the scholastics and gave them a simon pure drubbing.

The old stars were not as dim as one might think, and the crowd which gathered for the practice game witnessed some great football. The fact that Coach Niles was to play with the opposition brought out many admirers of the former Whitman star and he repaid them by going 70 yards through the high's line on the first down for a touchdown. His old cunning, terrific plunging, dodging and running kept the spectators entertained and the players non-plussed. During the first half the high school boys were hopelessly up in the air, without vim, decision or purpose, but they got their stride eventually and then demonstrated that a powerful team is in the making. Whether Mentor Niles can drive 'em into shape for next week's game with Walla Walla is of course uncertain but the raw material is there, and by scoring on straight football against the huskies opposing them conclusively proved that the old La Grande fighting spirit still lives.

Union County Sets Pace for Right of Way Farming--Officials Encourage It

Scenes Taken Near Alicel, Showing Method of Farming Right of Way, the Practice of Which is Drawing Wide Attention

Union county has set the pace in farming rights of way along railroad tracks. The branchline right of way in the vicinity of Alicel and Imbler two years ago gained notoriety as having the longest potato patch in the world—it was over nine miles. This year diversified farming has been adopted by numerous abutting farmers and all are having so much success that the Semaphore, the official organ of the company, published at Portland, devotes considerable space to the fact and publishes a front-piece picture of the work done. The Semaphore is moved to say this: "The first page of this issue of the Semaphore contains an illustration which shows how land belonging to the O-W. R. & N. Co. is utilized by the owners of adjacent holdings. Corn oats and potatoes are being grown on the right of way and the men who planted the crops are going to get ample return for any labor performed. The scenes depicted are in Union county, Oregon, and are duplicated in many other localities where the O-W. R. & N. operates. The management of the company encourages farming operations on its right of way, and on its holdings in cities where ground is valuable. There is no charge for the use of the land. Many farmers whose fields border the railroad are glad to avail themselves of additional acreage, and a clean, cultivated crop results. This method of farming appeals to the men who needs more land, and who can secure it by simply filing a request for its use, and cultivating it as he may desire."

Power Line To Be Extended

Negotiations are under way by the Oregon Power Company to extend its transmission line from Coquille to oBandon, a distance of approximately 28 miles, furnishing electricity for this city and all intervening points, including the coal mines at Riverton, the towns of Riverton, Lampa, Parkersburg and Prosper, all of which are on the Coquille River.
