SHERRY'S

At Sherry's Today. Every day the newspapers, somewhere in the country, give accounts of lives being saved by the transfusion of blood; how relatives or friends of the injured step forward in emergency with the proffer of their life blood. "The Unattainable," a Bluebird Photoplay to be exhibited at the Sherry theatre, last showing today, gives what is believed to be the first authentic and exact illustration of the process of blood-transfusion ever entering into a screen drama.

"THE PRIMAL LURE" TONIGHT.

William S. Hart in Romance of the Northwest. Reviewed by Thomas C. Kennedy in Motography.

"The Primal Lure" is a melodrama laid in the Northwest and dealing with a romance centering about the rugged factor, or manager of the post, a spirited Canadian girl and a smooth villain whose cowardice defeats his ambition to marry the girl for whose favor he has maliciously discredited the factor. Added to this and serving the purposes of melodramatic self-sacrifice, or the depiction of a willingness to suffer painful death on the part of the factor, there is an Indian incursion following their unheeded demand for the life of a white as an offering to the Great Spirit because a plague has been visited upon them.

William S. Hart makes his latest screen appearance as Angus McConnell, the factor. Mr. Hart makes McConnell a virile, strong characterized woodsman, with a determination that brooks no interference. His is a praiseworthy character sketch, and, like the acting of Margery Wilson, is deserving of a story of more depth than this melodrama by Vingie E. Roe and J. G. Hawks. "The Primal Lure" provides good entertainment from the beginning, but this is attributable to some striking outdoor scenes and the acting.

The story tells of the factor's resolve to detect the person who has stolen his account book. Lois Le Moyno, the daughter of an old trapper, has prepared a surprise for McConnell, for whom she has great admiration. One can only sympathize with her, therefore when the factor accuses her of the theft when she slips into his office to place the embroidered moccasins in his desk. She bitterly resents this and is too indignant to even plead with him. McConnell puts her in the lock-up and tells her she will remain there until she returns the book.

A representative of the Hudson's Bay company visits the post and because he is struck by the girl's beauty takes matters into his own hands and releases Lois. Then he has the factor discharged. McConnell does not leave, however, until he has administered a good beating to the cowardly Sylvester. To protect the trappers the former manager returns when the Indians threaten the post and his bravery, coupled with deliberateness, wins the girl's consent to marry him.

Margery Wilson is an exceedingly good Lois. She gives the part much natural spirit and appeal. Robert McKim is the cowardly Richard Sylvester and Jerome Storm is happily cast as Pierre Vernaise. The production has true atmosphere and any number of beautiful scenes.

This stirring romance of the Northwest will be at the Arcade today and tomorrow.

For a Muddy Complexion. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and adopt a diet of vegetables and cereals. Take outdoor exercise daily and your complexion will be greatly improved within a few months. Try it. Obtainable everywhere.

Despondency. When you feel discouraged and despondent do not give up but take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets and you are almost certain to feel all right within a day or two. Despondency is very often due to indigestion and biliousness, for which these tablets are especially valuable. Obtainable everywhere.

HUGHES FOR ARBITRATION.

He Would Be First to Accord to Labor All Rights Found Just After Consideration.

In his Maine speeches Mr. Hughes made it plain that he was not attacking labor or the equity of the proposed increase of wages for the railroad men. He was simply contending for the all important principle of arbitration as the right means of settlement of such questions. Speaking at different places in Maine Mr. Hughes dwelt upon this question, saying:

"I deeply deplore, in the name of labor, in the name of justice, in the name of American ideals, the surrender of the Executive and of Congress to force. Instead of permitting reason to reign.

"The measure to which I have alluded was not, properly speaking, an eight-hour measure. It was a wage measure. It was a plain proposition for a change in the wage scale. I do not speak of the equity of that. That is a matter to be fairly considered. I want what is just and right with respect to wages. I am for the arbitration and the peaceful settlement of these industrial controversies. We can settle everything in this country if we approach those matters with a fair and open mind and an examination of the facts.

"This particular measure shows on its face that it was legislation in advance of the investigation, instead of investigation in advance of legislation. It is said that there was in its favor the judgment of society. The judgment of society in this country has never been passed in favor of legislation without knowledge of the equity and regardless of the facts of the case. There was no judgment of society in favor of the roads which were excepted from its provisions. If there was a judgment of society, why not apply the rule to electric or other kinds of roads or roads less than 100 miles in length? I say, away with such pretense! It was a surrender to force instead of a clear, candid, faithful framed examination of the facts, and then action in accordance with American principles.

"Autocracy represents force; tyranny represents force. Democracy represents the rule of the common judgment after discussion, after an opportunity to know the facts."

It All Depends.

"If Hughes wins an Oregon town will get a new shingle mill employing fifty men," says the Olympia Recorder, "according to an announcement of the individual who took an option on timbered land. If Wilson wins the option will be allowed to lapse. That's the way with a thousand and one enterprises, all waiting to see which way the wind blows. The moment it is assured that Charles E. Hughes is elected, just watch the wheels of industry spin and listen to the hum of business."

EYES OF ALL NATIONS

America and Germany are the greatest eyeglass and spectacle wearing nations of the world. Five Americans wear glasses to one of any other nation.

Deplorable were it not a fact that blindness in America has decreased over 20 per cent since the advent of glasses, while in every other country of the globe there is an actual increase.
