PHILLIPS SMALLEY AND MARY MACLAREN IN "SAVING THE FAMILY NAME" PRODUCED BY THE SMALLEYS

Lois Weber, who created "Hypocrites," "Where Are My Children," "Jewel," "Shoes," and numerous other photoplays of uncommon merit, has prepared another Bluebird for presentation at the Sherry theatre today and tomorrow under the title of "Saving the Family Name." The leading lady will be Mary Mac Laren, the soulful and distressed heroine of "Shoes," who will be agreeably recalled as one of the prettiest girls in the Bluebird family of natural beauties. Phillips Smalley, husband of Lois Weber, will be the leading man. "Saving the Family Name" presents the question of the desirability of an actress as a wife and reflects the antipathy of some families toward women of the stage. That circumstance conspired against the heroine, had no effect upon the action of those opposed to her—and in presenting the girl's final victory over prejudice the plot holds interest and in the long run points a splendid moral.

ARCADE

H. B. Warner a Clergyman in Latest Triangle Play.

H. B. Warner, who already has been seen in "The Raiders" and "The Beggar of Cawnpore," soon will be offered for the third time on the Triangle program at the Arcade when he is presented Wednesday and Thursday as the star of a vividly dramatic narrative from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan, entitled "The Market of Vain Desire." The production is totally different from either of the young actor's previous vehicles, being a forceful sociological play, with a dominant love interest.

Warner appears as a young minister, who, called to the pastorate of a fashionable city edifice, finds the congregation composed of society leaders whose views of life's problems are far from being in accord with his own. The story concerns his efforts to show his congregation the iniquity of marriage without love. "What is the difference," he asks, "between the girl who peddles her pitiful body on the streets and the girl who barbers her beauty for gain in the market of vain desire?" The realization of the truth breaks with force upon the girl who is the subject of the minister's attack, and an unworthy marriage is prevented. Producer Ince has surrounded Warner with a splendid cast. His leading woman is Clara Williams, who has the role of the butterfly society girl suddenly brought to a realization of her contemplated folly. The others include Charles Miller, Gertrude Claire and Leona Hutton. The production was directed by Reginald Barker.

Lubricating the High-Speed Motor.

"In this day of the eight and twelve cylinder motors, we have motor speeds undreamed of a few years ago," said C. H. Hamilton, district sales manager of the Standard Oil company, in a recent interview. "More than ever lubricating oil becomes a most vital factor in the successful and economical operation of these motors."

"Power plants operating at these terrifically high speeds require a fluid, fast or high-speed oil." A western oil manufactured from selected asphaltic base crudes, due to its wonderful internal lubricating value, and natural zero cold test makes it the correct oil for these high speed multiple-cylinder motors.

"The question of carbon in these motors is a serious consideration. Here again a western oil scores because it burns up cleanly and passes out through the exhaust with the products of combustion."

Cream of Barley

is not just an excuse for eating cream and sugar. It is a food—delicious, appetizing, nourishing—easily prepared for the table.

It has in it every element necessary to build and nourish bone and muscle, nerve and brain.

Workers in mines and steel mills eat it, because it alone can replace the tissues worn out by their tremendous labor. Yet it is so easily digested that it is one of the first foods doctors recommended to "run-down" people.

By an exclusive process it is scientifically prepared from the finest barley.
