loss of a two year old heifer during the past few days. The animal was a pet and stayed close to home and it was some days before the cow was missed. The animal was not branded and the owner fears that she has been stolen as he cannot find a trace of her.

The sale at the Law ranch was well attended in spite of the threatening weather. The cattle brought low prices but the high prices of the horses compensated for the low price of the cattle. Webb & MacMasters of Union sold eighteen head of horses and colts for fair prices at this sale. The owners are congratulating themselves on the sale and the prices they got when they consider the high prices of hay and grain.

Railroad 130 Miles in Alaska

Washington, Nov. 8.—(United Press)—One hundred thirty-six miles of the new Government Alaskan railroad to connect Seward with Fairbanks a distance of 466 miles is now in operation with daily trains running. On the 136 miles, 71 comprise the old Alaska-Northern railway line, which has been repaired and again put in operation. Sixty-five miles is entirely new. The Old Alaska-Northern line ran from Seward to Kern Creek, and was built in 1904, falling into practical disuse during 1908. The new section connects the town of Anchorage, on Cook Inlet, with Mantanuska Junction, where a branch line 29 miles long has been run to the Mantanuska coal fields. Coal is now being daily hauled from these fields. The next link in the road, which is not expected to be cut clear through until the Fall of 1917, will be the connecting section between Kern Creek to Anchorage, which, it is hoped by the Government engineers, will be complete next year. Work is also progressing in the vicinity of Fairbanks where rush work is being done to connect up the town with the adjacent Menana coal fields, Fairbanks now facing a fuel shortage. The estimated cost of the construction of the 466 miles of the main line (including the branch to the Mantanuska coal fields) is $25,642,000. Of this sum $11,000,000 will have been expended up to the close of the present fiscal year. A force of 4000 men is employed on the road, and is considered adequate to complete the line. Work will progress throughout the winter.

North Powder News.—North Powder, Ore., Nov. 8.—(Special)—Mrs. Herman White and Mrs. Oscar Pilcher entertained the Priscilla club ladies and their husbands at an old fashioned Halloween party on the evening of Oct. 30th. Card playing and dancing were indulged for a time when old Madame Witch appeared on her broom stick and dealt out the secrets of the future. Refreshments were served and with the numerous jack o'lanterns and black cats spooks seemed everywhere.

The friends in Council club met at the home of Mrs. Addie Weskly. Eight members were present. Mrs. Maud Riggs gave an interesting talk on a religious and Egyptian art. Miss Ethel Dalton played several selections on the piano and the afternoon closed with the serving of refreshments.

Mr. Gaylord of Halfway is a business visitor to North Powder and is looking after his property here.

Mr. Lenhart sold an organ to J. O. Miller and wife for the Riverdale Sunday School. This school has been newly organized and is getting along nicely.

Norman R. Hogan and Miss Clara Meyers were married in La Grande one Saturday.

Press Stimulates Interest in South America

Missoula, Mont., Nov. 8.—(United Press)—Increasing interest in South America, brought about partly by the United Press opening regular news channel with the southern republics, resulted here in an unprecedented number of students applying for admission to the Spanish language classes. The enrollment was a record-breaker, and it is steadily growing.

HARRY CAREY
EDITH JOHNSON AND MARL FENTON
IN "BEHIND THE LINES"

At Sherry's.

Do you want war with Mexico? The hitherto peaceful trend of Bluebird Photo plays will be disturbed when the military drama "Behind the Lines" is displayed as the attraction at the Sherry theatre tonight only with Harry Carey and Edith Johnson in the principal roles. The scene of action is located in faction-ridden Mexico where centers the present day martial spirit of our domestic policy.

Henry McRae, who produced the feature, took the numerous Bluebird company of players to Mexican soil where authentic "locations" were secured for the photographic equipment of the inspiring scenes of military conquest and foray. Mary Rider's story has had wide circulation and its gripping topic is visualized in photography with an increased advantage to its effectiveness.

There is a strong love interest in the tribulation of an American girl who is forced by relentless circumstances to become a Mexican spy; she meets an American army surgeon and amid the agonizing scenes in a military hospital their love grows until the fateful moment when the girl is to be executed because she is a spy. Then the whole force of the preliminary episodes centers in a quick succession of thrilling incidents through which the much desired happy ending is attained.

Apart from the "heart interest" which dominates the issue, there will be shown many stirring scenes of military encounter; sharp clashes between infantry and cavalry forces, and some of the most thrilling examples of horsemanship ever caught by the camera. In "Behind the Lines" there is an appeal to every emotion and a gripping interest for every type of "film fan" that motion pictures have created among seekers after wholesome and interesting amusement.
