CHURCH-GOING A DUTY.

morning and afternoon services daily, as he found rest and recuperation in God's house, to enable him to endure the excessive strain of business cares and responsibilities which fell to his lot. Of how many a sudden and premature death, of which the medical certificate states that "heart" failure was the cause, would it be truer to say, "He kept no Sunday?"

In common with my brethren of the cloth, I hope that the effort to swell the attendance at church, will be successful. Certainly we shall feel encouraged, cheered and inspired to do our best, but whether we shall rise to the occasion or not, those who attend may be assured that their's will be the satisfaction of duty done and duty rewarded.

Preventable Diseases.

(Chicago Journal)

Some eminent local physicians and surgeons have been telling the public a number of unpleasant truths lately about diseases which ought to be as extinct as the dodo, yet which kill thousands of people every year. As a paper which has done and is doing its utmost to bring home the same truths to its readers, the Journal hopes the eminent doctors will continue their campaign of publicity. Diphtheria ought to be as rare as smallpox in every civilized community. Antitoxin is not only an almost perfect cure when given in time, but is likewise a sure preventive, yet diphtheria ranks fourth among causes of deaths of children under ten years of age. Puerperal sepsis, or child-bed fever, is almost unknown in any well managed maternity hospital, and ought to be a stranger everywhere, yet it kills almost as many women of child-bearing age as does cancer. Typhoid is a filth disease, to be banished by effective sanitation; tuberculosis is a disease of bad housing and poor nutrition, but up to date our knowledge of these facts has availed only to check these ailments, not to abolish them. Medical research is invaluable, but general use of medical facts already known would work a revolution in the health conditions of the world.

Fragments of Early History.

(Weston Leader)

Ben Walden, an Oregon pioneer of 1852, dropped in at The Leader office the other day and in discussing incidents of "auld lang syne" shed some additional light on the friendly controversy regarding the first white child born in Umatilla County. Mr. Walden says that this honor belongs to neither Sam Phillips of Dry Creek nor Dick Stewart of Pilot Rock, but to Sarah Olinger, who died in Portland a few years ago. She was the daughter of Abraham Olinger, and was born in 1843. Her parents crossed the plains at that early period with the train of Dan Waldo, father of Judge Waldo of Salem. He was sure he was correct.
