

If the Sentence of Death Were Pronounced on YOU, Would Your Face Betray Your Real Feelings?

REMARKABLE PHOTOGRAPHS OF GERALDINE FARRAR AT THE MOMENT WHEN, AS JOAN OF ARC, SHE HEARS THE WORDS GIVEN THAT MEAN DEATH AT THE STAKE.

An eminent French psychologist and student of criminology is authority for the statement that the supreme test for the mind of man comes at the moment of realization of death. This conclusion was reached after years of study of murderers when the capital sentence was passed on them.

WILL PLAY TENNIS ON ICE.

Well Known Players to Take Part in Match at Ice Palace.

Tennis on ice may become a popular sport if the idea of Fred Alexander, the noted tennis player, bears fruit. An exhibition game of doubles is planned by Mr. Alexander to occur some time in December at an ice skating rink in New York. Well known players will take part.

None but the best skaters could hope to play the game. It requires more prompt and decisive action even than hockey, and hockey is the most exacting of all ice sports so far as sure footed, quick turning and speedy skating is concerned. Further, the players must be expert at handling a racket, for unless they are familiar with the different strokes and the part the feet play in making these strokes they are certain to come a cropper.

Five or six years ago one tennis match on ice was played, and it aroused a great deal of interest. At the time there was much talk of forming ice tennis matches throughout the winter. But it was late in the season when Mr. Alexander conceived the idea, and it was probably because of this that the proposed tourney never materialized. Ever since Mr. Alexander has been nursing the idea. He is sanguine that the coming match will lead to the forming of a tennis tournament on ice this winter.

The same rules will govern the game as govern lawn tennis. The court will be laid out in black paint on the ice surface, but because of the additional height skates give a player it is probable that the net will be raised somewhat.

It may be figured that the ball would have a tendency to skid on the ice rather than bound, but this skidding does not obtain to any more pronounced degree. It is said, than in play on the board floors in the armories and clubs. The players are able to employ all the cuts known to the outdoor game.

How Tommy Spent Christmas Eve.

Tommy is a character in a story which the December Woman's Home Companion prints. The writer says: "Soon the house was still. The street was still, hushed by an evening of fast-falling snow. Everybody slept except Tommy. He lay awake in a sort of ecstasy. He did not know what he expected. Afterwards he was never able to define the nature of his joyful expectancy, but he lay awake in one of the transports of awaited happiness which do not come often in a lifetime. All the beautiful symbolism of Christmas was astir in him, like a strain of wonderful music. Little New England boy, who had never known a Yuletide, it may be that ancestral memory had been awakened in him, that the joy of his ancestors over the merry holy time of the year thrilled him.

"The storm clouds had passed. He could see a great star from his window. He gazed at it so steadily that its rays became multiplied. Finally the star, to his concentrated vision, seemed surrounded by a halo of rain-bows. He lay there waiting for the dawn, in such bliss as he might never again in his whole life attain."

GIFTS for BROTHER

THE harrowing holiday question of "what to give" is again the problem that vexes the feminine soul, the difficulty of which is increased rather than diminished by the embarrassment of riches in the way of charming things displayed in the shops. The first thing to be considered in the selection of a Christmas gift is fitness. A pair of calf boots with excellent skates to fit, like those in the cut, would warm a boy's heart. Or give brother a dress suit case if you would wish to be held in pleasant memory every time he takes a journey. Or a small silver tipped cardcase which can be slipped into his inner waistcoat pocket. Or if he is a university boy give him a huge red or blue silk muffler for his throat. Or a set of books you have heard him express a wish for, and see, first of all, that the edition is a readable one. Small boys like a watch, as suggested by the illustration, as well as pocket-knives, tool chests, a bowl of gold fish. Silk mufflers are from $1 to $12. For about $2.75 are imported mufflers in dark colors. If brother enjoys his clothes give him a pair of spats, fur gloves if he motors, a good cap if he skates, a magic lantern, a microscope, typewriter, sweater, camera and book for camera prints. Wall paper for his room or a Morris chair, a dog, ice cream freezer, leather sofa pillow, key ring, a desk, sleeve links, stickpin, watch chain or a motorboat, as a collective family gift, would also delight him. If brother is small an electrical heater for his room, which may also be enjoyed by small sister, would be a happy present, enjoyable on chilly mornings.

Commercial Congress Plans Post-Bellum Campaign. Norfolk, Va., Dec. 11.—United Press.—With the "changed outlook" produced by the European war, as its theme, the Southern Commercial Congress convenes here today will go thoroughly into the question of commercial preparedness to meet the anticipated cutthroat competition from across the waters with the return of peace. Economic, financial, agricultural and commercial phases of the problem will be discussed by experts from this country and abroad. A number of the most notable men of the country are scheduled to address the Congress.

Submarine Unrescued. Eureka, Cal., Dec. 18.—(United Press)—Coast guards are attempting to get another line aboard the submarine H-3. It is so close to shore it is feared the first storm may destroy it. The first efforts to pull it into deep water failed.

LAND CLASSIFICATION GIVES FORESTS PERMANENCE. As a result of land classification work, more than 8,000,000 acres were eliminated from the national forests in the last fiscal year and, in addition, over 1100 individual tracts within the forests were made available for homestead entry, according to the annual report of Henry S. Graves, chief of the forest service, which emphasizes the necessarily permanent character of the national forests, and points out the importance of definitely determining the status of the land which the forests contain.
