SHERRY'S

J. Warren Kerrigan, star of Bluebird photoplays, will be the hero in a stirring screen drama to be exhibited at the Sherry theater for the last time tonight under the title of "The Measure of a Man." Louise Lovely, lone star of earlier Bluebirds, will be his leading lady. The story relates the experiences of a young man who had studied for the ministry and had been expelled from divinity school because of his reckless habits. Going west to start all over again, the young man arrives at a lumber camp at a moment when he seems to come in answer to a girl's prayer that a person may be sent to give religious burial to her father's remains. Having fulfilled what he considered to be his duty, the young man is thereafter accepted as the "sky pilot" of the lumbermen, and there follow numerous exciting episodes that show how "The Fighting Parson" won the respect of his neighbors and captured the heart of the girl who had virtually appointed him to the position of minister to the spiritual needs of the lumbermen.

ALL FACTIONS MEET TO PLAN LOWER LIVING COST SYSTEM FOR NATION

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—(United Press)—Ready to pave all the side issues from the high cost of living and get down to a solution of the problem equitable to everyone concerned, producers, distributors and consumers met here today.

Railroad officials, express company experts, government officials of the department of agriculture and experts in marketing joined in the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National League of Commission Merchants. They will sift reasons for the maintenance of high prices on food-stuffs and attempt to ascertain where costs can be lowered.

"A co-ordinated effort is all that will accomplish anything," declared R. S. French of Chicago, secretary of the commission men's organization. "There has been too much working at cross purposes."

Of English invention is a triumph to be attached to a telephone receiver so its sounds can be magnified and heard without holding it to the ear.

Y. M. C. A. HUTS HUG SHELL TORN TRENCHES AT FRONT IN FRANCE

BY J. W. PECLER.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) London, Dec. 25.—(By Mail)—The fighting front holds no terrors for the Y. M. C. A. Its huts are built wherever soldiers go.

A. K. Yapp, general secretary, after a tour of the British sector, is back in London today with an account of the Y. M. C. A.'s work in housing soldiers and providing them with simple luxuries that do much to maintain the buoyant spirits of the Tommies.

"We have established huts in the catacombs of Ypres and Loos," he said "and one is placed in the grounds of a Trappist monastery where the monks may never speak. There are others in the Somme territory recovered from the Germans, forming little cheerposts for Tommies amid the awful desolation and knee-deep mud of the recent battlefields.

"From the camps at the base the hut lines extend way up to advanced positions of the front. We are even developing the dug-out idea for housing men temporarily and providing them with warm food and chocolate. In November we gave the soldiers on one twelve-mile line the first 161,230 cups of cocoa, tea and coffee. These were men going up for their turn in the attack or returning to the base camps after being relieved in the trenches."

Many of the Y. M. C. A. establishments are well within range of the German shell-fire but they usually are protected as well as possible by natural concealments.

ENGLAND'S GOVERNMENT NOW LIKE OUR COMMISSION FORM FOR CITIES

London, Dec. 25.—(United Press by Mail.)—The cataclysm of a world war has forced England to apply real American methods to her government. Lloyd George's reorganized cabinet is but a glorified American city council under a commission form of government.

England, as a nation, was faced with exactly the same problems that confronted hundreds of American cities before the advent of the Galveston and Des Moines plans for administering municipal affairs. Great Britain had a council that was unwieldy; its decisions were taken after ridiculously long debates and the mistakes it made could not be traced to any responsible source.

Such was the condition of affairs in Des Moines, Iowa and other American cities during the time they labored under the old ward-council governments.

English people for two years have watched the government pile one misadventure upon another but the cost to them was not represented in money but in the lives of the nation's best men.

In one short week Lloyd George, England's strong man, wiped out an inefficient, ward-council plan of government and substituted the commission of five men, who are held directly responsible for the conduct of the nation's affairs. Each controls certain portions of the country's business and each commissioner, or cabinet member, has been proved capable.

There also is a queer analogy between the origin of commission form of government in America and England. In the year 1878, there was a scourge of yellow fever in Memphis, Tenn., due to its poor sanitary system. The city had incurred a debt equal to its borrowing power and the legislature, in 1879, established a commission to take charge of its affairs. This was one of the first commission plans. In the year 1900, Galveston, Texas, was overwhelmed by a tidal wave which prostrated the city financially. It was placed under a commission government.

In the year 1916, England was on the verge of being overwhelmed by a world war and a commission plan of government was applied to its national affairs.

HOW ARCHBOLD ATTRACTED ATTENTION OF JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

John D. Archbold, for twenty years active head of the Standard Oil company, who just died at his home in Tarrytown, N. Y., after an attack of appendicitis, had a most remarkable career. Beginning as a $150 a week clerk in Salem, O., he died as head of the wealthiest and most powerful corporation in the world. An interesting story is told of the first meeting between Mr. Archbold and John D. Rockefeller.

It was about the year 1872 that Archbold met Rockefeller. Describing this meeting, Mr. Rockefeller has said: "One day there was a gathering of men somewhere near the oil regions in Pennsylvania, and when I came to the hotel I saw this name written large on the ledger, John D. Archbold, $4 a day."

"He was a young and enthusiastic fellow and so full of his subject that he wrote his slogan '$4 a day' for oil after his name."

It was not long before Mr. Rockefeller opened negotiations with the other John D., and in 1875 Mr. Archbold joined the Rockefeller interests. He was then president of the Acme Oil company. In the fall of that year he was elected a director of the Standard Oil company.

Soon afterward he was chosen its vice president and remained in that capacity until 1911, when he became its president.

News and Personals From City of Joseph

Work Begins on Southwestern Lumber Company's Large Retail Yard—Arthur Dodson Suffers Accident—New Year's Ball Given at Opera House.

Joseph, Ore., Jan. 7.—On Saturday work was begun on the Southwestern Lumber company's large retail lumber yard which is to be situated just north of the Hotel Jennings. In an interview with Manager J. W. Lowery, he said: "We expect big things from this yard and certainly are grateful for the hearty cooperation which the people of Joseph have been giving us. The Southwestern Lumber company owns mills and yards all over the country and are now starting this work in Oklahoma. The mill which will supply the Joseph yard is at Enterprise."

On Friday of this week Arthur Dodson, who was working on a ranch near Joseph, cut his foot clear to the bone with a very sharp axe. He was getting out wood at the time it happened and the axe blanced striking him in the foot. The injured foot is getting along nicely.

Roy McCully and wife returned home Friday from Portland.

Another of the season's most popular affairs was held Monday evening in the Joseph opera house in the form of a New Year's ball. Manager H. O. Woodson's dances in this hall are all very popular, in fact so popular that people come from Wallowa, Snake River and various other distant points to attend, for they know that they can depend on a good time. Mr. Woodson is trying a new "stunt" this season, that of turning his hall into a skating rink on certain evenings. This is something new for the younger generation as this is believed to be the second rink which has ever been used in Wallowa county. The first was done away with several years ago.

Vern Martin returned this week from Idaho where he has been visiting his father, who is very ill. Mr. Martin was formerly a Methodist minister here and his friends are all very sorry to hear of his illness. Vern will attend the Joseph high school.

On Friday Joseph was presented by a great change in weather. First, a cold wind, then a chinook, rain, sleet and a heavy snow.

J. W. McClain and family left Saturday for Caldwell, Idaho, where he will locate. This family was held in the highest regard by everyone and the members will be greatly missed.

Reita, the little daughter of William Needham, is quite ill.

Mitchell Hiemann of Portland is a Joseph visitor this week.

The month old child of Lum Marr died on Wednesday, January 3. The body was buried in Enterprise. The records of Joseph and vicinity (which include about 2500 people) show that only seven adults were buried in 1916. This is quite a decrease as 36 persons were buried in 1915. Good water and air certainly are a great blessing.

Albert Walker, son of W. L. Walker, returned home recently from a vacation trip in Idaho.

At the Tuesday meeting of the Joseph city council $206 was allowed for bills presented and several requests were considered.

A very delightful party was held Monday at the home of Arthur Dodson in honor of the Miller brothers who are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Swaggert. The friends and relatives of these young men enjoyed a bounteous repast which was followed by a social evening.

A party was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. McCully. This party was the result of a contest between two classes in the Methodist Sunday school. Games, songs and jokes preceded an excellent lunch prepared by Mrs. McCully, then toasts were made and all returned home tired but happy.

The basketball practice of our high school is progressing nicely under the efficient coaching of Paul Irvine. Mr. Irvine announces that he has better material to pick from than ever before, and the tryouts are very spirited. The recent snow and thaw completely ruined the skating on the lake, but a refreeze is expected soon.

Truly Stuber, who has been very ill at the Joseph hotel, is getting well rapidly.

As the result of a vacancy in our teaching force Mrs. Maggie Hamm of Monmouth will teach the first grade in our school. Mrs. Hamm arrived Sunday and will stay at the Murphy home.

Miss Grace Carpenter has been confined to her home this week with throat trouble.

MAN SHOULD NOT MARRY UNTIL HE'S 100, FLYNN SAYS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 10.—(United Press)—Because woman forgets to have birthdays she is wiser than man, W. Earl Flynn, health evangelist, told his followers ere.

"Any man who has a birthday after he is forty is a fool," Flynn declared. Flynn, who is 83, said the time is not far distant when men would not think of getting married until they were one hundred years old.

"If a man takes care of himself, he will still be a boy when he passes the century mark," the Billy Sunday of health said. "He'll at that age be old enough to get married."

ARCADE

TRIO OF TRIANGLE STARS SEEN IN "HONOR THY NAME"

Frank Keenan, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum Have Leading Roles in Drama of Southern Hot Blood and Family Pride.

Frank Keenan, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum are to be seen in "Honor Thy Name," Triangle-Ince play, to be seen at the Arcade theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

"Honor Thy Name" is the story of a father's sacrifice to save his son. Colonel Slocum Castleton (Frank Keenan) was a gay blade in his day, and one of his flames had been the celebrated opera singer Rosita. But, one night returning to his apartment, he had found her with another man and promptly dropped her.

Now he is a respected Southern gentleman, living quietly with his wife and son Rodney. Rodney (Charles Ray) is in love with Rosalee Carey, a distant cousin, and the prospective match is thoroughly acceptable to Rodney's parents. Then the colonel sends his son to New York to the university. There Rodney falls into bad company and presently is introduced to Viola Bretagne (Louise Glaum), a cabaret dancer. She, realizing he is a young man of considerable means, spreads her net to catch him, and very soon after Rodney writes home to his father that he is going to marry "the sweetest little girl in New York." The old man at once comes to New York and sprucing himself up, takes the girl away from Rodney just to show him how unworthy she is. Then it develops that Viola is the daughter of Rosita, and all of her mother's desire for revenge comes back. Viola wins Rodney back, and after a drunken spree he finds that he has married her. She makes him take her to his father's home. There she declines to accept the father's cash terms for final settlement, and the old man determines on a way to get rid of her that is one of the most terrible, but withal one of the most thrilling series of scenes ever shown upon the screen.
