AVOID THE SHADOWS.

Don't cloud the present by the future. Do not destroy present happiness by a distant misery which may never come at all or you may never live to see. Every substantial grief has twenty shadows and most of them shadows of your own making.—Sydney Smith.

Starkey News Items

It Was 30 Below at B. P. Burnett's Place Tuesday Night—Girl Born to Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hagey, December 28.

Starkey, Ore., Jan. 23.—(Special)—Tom Loftus, formerly a stockman of this vicinity, is visiting here this week.

A. J. Sullivan has returned from the sugar beet ranch, near Hot Lake, where he has 250 head of horses and cattle being wintered. The stock is doing well.

Ellis Clapp, Madera business man, took a trip to Weiser, Idaho, the fore part of last week. He transacted business at the land office in Weiser.

W. W. Cryder, forest supervisor, and E. Horten, forest ranger, had business here this week, looking over the stock feeding situation.

W. H. Briggs has returned to his home from Michigan, where he spent about six weeks visiting his father and brother. He says everything here looks pretty good to him compared with Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Burnett and daughter, Florence, are visiting this week in La Grande and Island City with relatives and friends.

John Rogers from up the river is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Ward Smith.

Paul Hansen, our school teacher, and family, went to La Grande on Saturday of last week, returning on Sunday.

Born on December 28 to Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hagey, a girl.

A pleasant social afternoon was spent on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hagey by the members of Needlecraft.

Ralph Sullivan is quite busy these cold days chopping grain for some of his beef cattle which he expects to put on the market in June.

Last Tuesday night was the coldest of this winter it registering as low as 30 below at B. P. Burnett's, but it was not so cold further up the mountain.

All Facilities.

The aged admiral was well known for his powers of exaggeration. At supper one night he was describing a thrilling voyage.

"While cruising in the Mediterranean," he said, "we passed an island which was red with lobsters."

"But," said one of the politely incredulous guests, "lobsters are not red until boiled."

"Of course not," said the undaunted admiral, "but this was a volcanic island with boiling springs!"—New York Times.

C. C. CHAPMAN IN OREGON VOTER GIVES BARRETT AND ASHLEY ONCE-OVER

Portland Editor Says Committeemen Are Tightwads But That It Is Good They Are.

In the last issue of the Oregon Voter, C. C. Chapman editor, gives some legislative committeemen the once-over. Included in the article are Barrett, Ashley and W. Al Jones.

Senator Barrett of Umatilla is a hard-working student of state expenditures and administration. He was formerly a cowpuncher, having ridden the range when a young man in Umatilla county forty years ago. He was thrifty, and accumulated great wheat ranches, a big general store and a lot of bank stock. He is not a man to be faced lightly, for he always has facts and figures of record, and produces them in his most confounding manner at the most embarrassing time. He is the "great consolidator" of the legislature, having introduced the main bills for consolidation of state offices.

He has a delightful unsuspected strain of humor, in that he secretly enjoys pretending to listen to an argument for the expenditure of money, and while the lobbyist pleads tearfully, the good senator hears not a word. He is just deaf enough to miss all that you want him to hear, and hear all that you would rather he wouldn't. He is probably the best-posted man on the committee.

Fred S. Ashley of Wallowa county, the sixth member of the house ways and means committee, comes in well vouched for by Jay Dobbin, the big sheep man of northeastern Oregon, and Jay is a good judge of men as well as of livestock. Ashley has a quiet exterior and a rosy complexion. He is slow to show what he is made of, and his reserve indicates that there is something to him.

W. Al Jones of Marion county is also a livestock rancher of Wallowa county, and is a live one. He ran for the legislature in Marion county, where he was born and grew up, entirely to get square with Governor Withycombe, who had fired him from the secretaryship of the state fair board. He won the nomination and election, thus vindicating himself to his own satisfaction, and then he and the governor showed there was nothing small about either, for both are cooperating to make a success of the session.

Jones loves a scrap, and knows how to hold his own in one. He has a fund of information on the state institutions, both inside and outside of Marion county, and is certain to be one of the effective members both of the committee and the house. While he is of the build, proportions, size and appearance of a tailor clad cherub, he is older than he looks. And he can smile while he hits.

No recent legislature has had a joint ways and means committee that went to work more promptly and with better promise of efficiency. The appointments in both houses are excellent, viewed from every standpoint, taxpayer and humanitarian, for the committee is well balanced. While the tightwad element predominates, it is well that it is so, else the taxpayers of the state might be plunged into deeper depths of expense. But no one with a good cause need fear but that in some member of the committee he or she will find sympathetic, painstaking consideration and a champion if the cause is proved to be worthy.

Let's Have A Fued Funeral. The welfare of the town and of the county call for a settlement of the library controversy on an amicable basis if such a solution can be found. The fight has engendered much bitterness on both sides. There is plenty of unfairness, suspicion and distrust on the part of all concerned. To the East Oregonian this situation seems needless as it is unfortunate. Pendleton people have too much to do to bother with profitless feuds. We need our energies for constructive forces, not for internal strife and buckering. May the joint committee appointed by the council and the Commercial Club find a way to end the trouble. If they can do so the East Oregonian will stage a banquet in honor of the committee and will provide a memorial hatchet to be cast into the Umatilla river at high water.—endleton East Oregonian.

"I don't have to advertise," says Mr. Well Satisfied. "Every one knows me." That's true and the people don't have to patronize you. And lots of the new-comers who are coming here every day don't know you're on earth and what's more they don't care.

OLD PAPERS—For sale at The Observer office, 25 cents a bundle.

MODART CORSETS From Laced

SOLID COMFORT

Standing, Sitting or Lying Down

When you stop to think that you spend between five and six thousand hours every year in your corset, you must realize how important it is that you have a perfectly comfortable one. A poorly fitting corset frequently leads to severe nervous and organic troubles which cause years of suffering. In the MODART Corset we have a garment that always gives genuine comfort, sitting, standing or lying down.
