Physical Training and Business Success

College life is looked at by the ordinary run of people as a soft snap, a sheltered, protected, leisurely life. It is thought of as a kind of intellectual Pullman car, in which professors and tutors pull their relaxed passengers over all the heavy grades of learning. Yet the college students can be strenuous enough for the causes that he holds dear. He may not burn much midnight electricity. But if he is playing on a 'varsity team he will submit to a code of rules that the ordinary boy would call barbarous.

Looking over the regulations for a college team, it was noted the other day that the boys must be in bed at 10 p. m. Sweets, fried foods, and many other commonplaces of the dinner table were cut out. Not many young men in business would thus limit themselves for the prize of business success. Business failures are very apt to be due to physical causes. People can't stand the strain of worries and rush times. Just on the point of gripping that slippery and elusive creature success, the coy and teacherous prize slips out of their weary grasp. The sanitariums are filled with business men taking baths and massage and osteopathy because their nerves went bad.

Of course people won't hold themselves down to strict rules of living. And a routine life with no breaks is not wholesome in the long run. But most young men are far too careless in these matters. They feed themselves as if they had the stomachs of a camel. They sit up to all hours of the night, taking pleasure in late hours, as making them out for gay sports and young bloods. But that game can be played only about so far. It has its sharp limits as they all find out. A little more of the spirit of the college training table would do them a lot of good.—Pendleton Tribune.

What the Poor Boy Condenses With

At many Lincoln day banquets the thought of the hour is Lincoln's democratic spirit, his rise from poverty to great fame, and the chance this country gives the poor boy. Yet as the poor man's son in our schools hears the Lincoln day thought expounded by the teacher, he sees very little chance for him to rise. He would trade his chance of being President, or even of acquiring a sizable bank account, for one clay marble. The boy in Lincoln's position 75 years ago suffered from adverse circumstances, there was little chance that genius would be fanned into flame. If the poor boy of today has good qualities of mind and heart, his teacher will discover it. Thousands of such rough diamonds are all the time being picked out from the dirtiest dust heaps and are winning their way. But in the bright boy's own heart there are too many seeds of decay. There are the corroding influences of the street, and the loafing hangouts. In many a home of poverty, high ideas have been preserved and the boy is kept from these corrupting influences and urged on to show what is in him. But if home poverty is due to vice and the boy runs wild in the street, the best school advantages can do little for him. So the poor boy should realize that it is all up to him. He has a good chance in our democratic America if he can but rise above the low level of the street. Let him do any honest work out of school hours, save his money, and before long he will have a good name in the business community. Then it is only a strong and steady pull and his future is secure.—Pendleton Tribune.

Knavery is the worst trade.
Modesty is a guard to virtue.
Much of the night restlessness of those who are ill with acute disease is due to insufficient oxygenation of the blood from lack of proper ventilation.
The man who hasn't time to care for his health is like the workman who hasn't time to sharpen his tools.

The Little "Want Ads" Bring Big Results--

The little ad has big power behind it.
It is the Want Ad that sells many things for the people.
After all, selling is merely getting in touch with the buyer.
And the little "Want Ad" in The Observer "Classified" columns is a quick and inexpensive introduction to the buyers of Union and Walla counties.
Don't forget to read The Observer's Classified Ads on Page 7.
Note how this page is growing.
That shows that The Observer Want Ads get results.

UNCLE SAM TELLS HOW YOU CAN GET STRONG!

The following exercise is for development of the leg, arm and back muscles. Quickness and snap are necessary to get results. Bend to squatting position, hands on the ground between the knees, as shown at left.
Extend legs backward to leaning-rest, as at right.
Straddle legs, close, straddle, close, for 16 counts.
Resume first position, then attention.
Length of stride in this exercise should be 28-inches between heels.
ROUND BACKS ARE THE BEGINNING OF WEAK LUNGS AND BAD HEART ACTION.

Astronomy Gains Favor Along the Coast

Interest Due to Large Number of Observatories Along Pacific Coast, Says Professor.

University of Washington, Feb. 15.—Astronomy, one of the oldest of science, is fast gaining a popular following, according to Samuel L. Boothroyd, associate professor of astronomy and mathematics at the University of Washington.

The increased public interest in astronomy is due in the West, Prof. Boothroyd believes, to the introduction of its study into high schools and to the erection of a large number of observatories along the Pacific coast. These agencies, he points out, are bringing universal attention to one of the most interesting sciences and one which has attracted man for thousands of years.

The university observatory, which houses some powerful telescopes, is visited every Friday night by about 200 persons bent on getting a "close up" view of the stars and the moon. Informal lectures and explanations are given by Prof. Boothroyd on the visiting nights.

THE THREE FISHERS

By Charles Kingsley
Three fishers went sailing out into the west,
Out into the west, as the sun went down,
Each thought on the woman who loved him the best,
And the children stood watching them out of the town;
For men must work, and women must weep,
And there's little to earn, and many to keep,
Though the harbor bar be moaning
Three wives sat up in the lighthouse tower,
And they trimmed the lamps as the sun went down,
They look'd at the squall, and they looked at the shower,
And the night-rack came rolling up ragged and brown;
But men must work, and women must weep,
Though storms be sudden, and waters deep,
And the harbor bar be moaning.
Three corpses lie out on the shining sands
In the morning gleam as the tide went down,
And the women are weeping and wringing their hands,
For those who will never come home to the town;
For men must work, and women must weep,
And the sooner it's over, the sooner to sleep,
And good-by to the bar and its moaning.
"Bad blood," as well as "poor circulation," practically always mean improper eating and lack of exercise.
Denying a fault doubles it.

Write Omar twice—up and down or straight across—you get Aroma. Smoke Omar—once, twice, many times—you get Aroma. You can't separate Omar from Aroma.

The reason for the Aroma in Omar is the happy blending of rich Turkish with ripe accentuating leaves—the result is silky-smooth aroma-tones delicately blended with ripe tang.

Omar—the perfect Turkish blend. Even the words blend.

Boston Transcript at Library
Through the kindness of one of the patrons of the public library, the institution is receiving the Saturday edition of the Boston Evening Transcript. The librarian will be glad to pass it on to anyone who wishes to read it.

A subscriber to the "Russian Review," while not willing to donate the magazine, will lend his copy through the public library. This is a comparatively new magazine, but has already an excellent literary reputation, publishing many translations of works heretofore inaccessible to English readers.

$100 Reward, $100
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
