Learn to Do Without Things Once in A While.

Doing without may be difficult at times but it gets you somewhere. All successful careers are built upon it. Saving money and doing without is a painful process, but the results are mighty pleasant. Sacrifices was never easy and self-denial never popular. But you can't have the big things of life if you insist upon having thousands of little things all the time. The boy who wants a bicycle must do without candy and soda and the like, but he knows his wheel will give him lasting pleasures that overbalance the little sacrifices. Saving for a purpose is not difficult, and self-denial for larger pleasures becomes a joy. It is easy to follow the line of least resistance—to do the easy thing; to follow the crowd. But following crowds brings you to no desirable goal.

It is a splendid achievement—this doing without—and few learn it. But the structure it builds is a lasting one and beautiful. And the pitiful fact is that if you do not learn to do without now, there may come a time when you have to do without, and then it will be too late.

Get the thrift habit now—and thrift is just doing without, until doing without becomes a habit that has untold blessings in store for those who practice it.—S. P. Bulletin.

ARCADE

SOLVES CRIME MYSTERY; WINS PLACE AT HUSBAND'S SIDE

Dorothy Dalton Appears as Woman Lawyer in New Play "The Weaker Sex."

"A play of particular interest to women" is a description given to "The Weaker Sex" in which three Triangle stars—Dorothy Dalton, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum—are presented in the leading roles.

It will be presented at the Arcade theater Sunday.

Miss Dalton has the part of a successful woman lawyer who, when she wins a verdict of acquittal for a girl charged with murder, wins also the admiration of the prosecuting attorney and later becomes his wife.

After marriage the wife wants to help her husband in his work, but he insists her place is in the home. But when her stepson (Charles Ray) is in peril of his life, charged with the murder of an evil woman (Louise Glaum), she proves that her trained mind has a very definite value. The boy is acquitted through her handling of the evidence, and thereafter she has her coveted place at her husband's side.

All three of the principals are said to be ideally cast for the roles allotted them, and Charles K. French as the husband, heads a strong supporting company.

Who Makes Terms Of Peace? Does the victor or the vanquished usually propose peace during a war?

Take America's wars and you will find that the loser was the one to suggest an end of the fighting.

England and not the United States was the power to request peace in the Revolution, and America was the winner.

Mexico and not the United States was the first to talk peace in that clash 70 years ago, and again America was the winner.

The Confederacy, whose cause was lost, made peace proposals during the Civil War long before Lee surrendered.

Napoleon tried in vain to make peace with Russia when he was at Moscow one hundred and four years ago, but Czar Alexander, then apparently the under dog, refused, and Napoleon's retreat followed, with the annihilation of his own army.

It was Napoleon who again sought peace before and after Leipzig, but the Allied powers refused, deposed him from his throne and sent him to Elba.

The French people cried for Peace in 1870, but Bismarck, the victor, didn't stop until all of his conditions had been met.

The war had been ended before Grant said, "Let us have Peace!"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

SHERRY'S SUNDAY

Ethel Barrymore Has Greatest Role of Her Career as Screen Star.

In "The Awakening of Helena Richie," which will be seen at the Sherry theater on Sunday and Monday Ethel Barrymore has the greatest play of her career as a motion picture star. The role of Helena Richie in this powerful screen version of Margaret Deland's novel, is admirably adapted to the talents of Miss Barrymore.

The acting calls for interpreting the disposition of a beautiful woman of wealth who has experienced deep tragedy as a wife, yet does not comprehend the real responsibilities of life until bitter experience has driven the lesson home to her. Then she is called upon to decide between the man she loves and the child she has adopted.

Here is where she experiences her "awakening." She finds that the man is unworthy of her love—and that realization comes only after she has decided to cling to the child. The situation is an unusually powerful one, and only an actress of Miss Barrymore's ability could successfully portray it on the screen.

Supporting the star are such actors of note as Robert Cummings, Robert Whittier, Hattie Delaro and little Maury Stuart. Mr. Cummings appeared in the speaking production of "The Awakening of Helena Richie" which scored a great triumph on Broadway. He is seen as Lloyd Pryor, Helena's selfish suitor. Robert Whittier plays the part of Frederick Richie, and Maury Stuart is the quaint little David who wins Helena's heart and leads to her "spiritual awakening."

The role of Sam Wright, the young poet, is played by Hassan Mussalli, who was one of the famous Ben Greet players.
