DETROIT TIGERS WILL BE IN THE RUNNING IN LEAGUE RACE

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 23.—(United Press)—The prediction is justified that Detroit will have the strongest team this year that has represented it in an American league race since the old championship days. There is, nevertheless, an atmosphere of uncertainty about the club that has local dopsters guessing.

The outlook is bright, but there is a calamity hunch prevalent. On form, the team should be exactly as strong on attack as it was in 1915 and again in 1916. In addition there should be an improved pitching staff.

Five outfielders will be taken to the training camp at Waxahachie, Texas. Of these, Cobb and Veach will play regularly. Whether Crawford will again appear in right is a question. Understudying him will be Harper and Nicholson, newcomers to the circuit, and possibly Harry Heilman, the hard-hitting first baseman who appeared to advantage early last season. Crawford couldn't play half the time in 1916, and he averaged barely a put-out a game for those in which he did appear. Wahoo Sam probably is through.

The old infield of Burns, Young, Bush and Vitt is expected to be as good as ever. Reinforcing the infield will be rookies Dyer, Ellison and Jones, all good batsmen. It is planned to carry them throughout the season as pinch hitters and emergency men. They will be developed to take regular berths two or three seasons hence.

Stanage and "Tub" Spencer will do the catching. Spencer came back to the majors last fall, and was able to break into a score or more games. He demonstrated that he could maul major league pitching. His average was .371 and his backstopping was of the highest order. Second string catchers will be McKee and Yelle, the latter a recruit from the International league.

There is no good reason to expect ill of this array of talent. It has the class. There is a weakness in right field, but it was there last season and wasn't disastrous.

The pitching as usual for the Tigers will prove the big problem, Harry Coveleskie always wins his twenty games or more, and will be the anchor man. Dubuc is gone, his place having been taken by Howard Ehmke, a young right hander who made a great record in the New York State league and then showed class in the majors during the closing weeks of the season. He is ranked as a first.

Bill James will get into shape this year or go hungry. He has a lot of ability. Willie Mitchell did some fine hurling last fall, after he had been transferred from Cleveland. Boland has lived out of doors all winter, playing jockey to a mail truck, and is in better shape than he ever was. Cunningham is a youngster who is developing nicely. Dauss had a horrible season in 1916. No one knows what he will do this year. They look good for the coming season, but as usual the Detroit critics are leary of the flingers.

Some new slab talent will be tried out. Chief among these recruits will be Couch, from Frisco; Watson, a southpaw Jennings has been farming out for development, and Jones, from the Central association.

BY H. C. HAMILTON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) New York, Feb. 23.—One of the most conspicuous and venerable figures in baseball passed when Tim Murnane died recently. The snow-white mustache and hair of the veteran baseball editor of the Boston Globe, his booming voice and his inspiring personality were points at baseball gatherings never to be forgotten.

Murnane's death will be mourned generally by baseball players—not only in the majors, but in the smaller circuits. From the days when he left his position on the field to take up the task of writing his views on the national game and heading a baseball league, Murnane valiantly fought for the players' cause. No cause was too deeply involved, nothing too strong for the veteran to undertake.

Murnane started as a famous ball player. He was a member of the Athletics, who toured Europe in 1874. Later he was a member of the Hartford team and at one time managed and played first base for the Boston Union team.

Murnane had the reputation of having discovered more players who made good as stars than any other man in baseball. Among his finds were:

Chick Stahl, Billy Nash, Ed Crane, Hugh Duffy, Tommy McCarty, Charlie Farrell, Mike Slattery and Martin Sullivan.

Murnane left the diamond in 1886 to become baseball editor of the Boston Globe and he never left his position there until death overtook him in a Boston theater.

He became famous as a writer through many notable "beats" he was able to land for his paper. His stories were conspicuous during the troublesome days of the Brotherhood, for their clarity and truthfulness.

Murnane organized and became president of the New England league and through his energetic work in that office became vice president of the National Association of Minor leagues and was a member of the National Board of Arbitration.
