FIVE MILLION DOLLAR PREACHERS' PENSION FUND RAISED BY BISHOP

New York, March 1—(United Press)—Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts, who sat himself right down in the midst of Wall street one year ago and started to collect a $5,000,000 pension fund from all over the country for superannuated Episcopal clergymen, completed his task today. He has the five million.

The pension list will provide not less than $600 annually for old age or disability; and from that up to half of the yearly salary. It will give widows of ministers not less than $500 annually; and orphans $100 annually up to 7 years, $200 from 7 to 14 and $300 from 14 to 21.

What gunpowder did for war, the printing-press has done for the mind; the statesman is no longer clad in the steel of special education, but every reading man is his judge.

—Wendell Phillips.

Worms Make Children Fretful.

Children suffering from worms are dull and irritable, puny and weak, often grind their teeth and cry out in sleep, being a constant source of worry to their parents. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a mild laxative remedy in candy tablet form that children like to take. Promptly effective, it kills and removes the worm from the system. Irregular appetite and bowel movement, lack of interest in play are sure signs of worms. Re lieve your child of this burden. At all druggists, 25c.—Adv.

Who Is More Conservative, China or America?

Dr. Subank, medical missionary of Huchow, in a lecture in the First Baptist church, Sedalia, Mo., exhibited a chart showing by figures of men of various sizes that China is as large as all the nations engaged in the present great war. Then he proceeded to show some surpassing achievements by the Chinese in the past. As to agriculture, they have farmed land for two thousand years and yet preserved the fertility as virgin soil. They achieved irrigation projects in our own country. Their great wall built centuries ago shows as good knowledge of mural architecture as we have today. Their achievements of antiquity mark them as a people of remarkable ability.

Our own country has as great resources for conserving waters and using them for irrigating purposes as any country in the world, but what have we done with it? Each year it is turned loose to drown out great cities of poor working people. This that is now waste, if confined, would be a great power to the United States, both for irrigation and manufacturing.

Why is it not used? Because we have two classes of idle people—one class because they have so much money they don't know what to do with it (which consists of a few) and another class who has so much muscle (and are many) they cannot find what needs to be done. Now, if the one class did not feel so puffed up and the other class so puffed down, they might get together and find out what to do to solve a problem which would benefit the whole nation and other nations also.

Now the scripture says that the harvest man who labors in the field must be the first to get a share of the crop. It recognizes the same right for the dumb beast. "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn." But here is what we have in America. "A recent report shows men drawing salaries of $100,000 a year from industries that pay respectively $1.53 per day for adult male workers and as low as $4.50 per week for girls. The income tax returns show that there are in the United States 1,598 fortunes yielding an income of $100,000 a year; that we have 44 families with incomes of $1,000,000 or more whose members perform little or no useful service but whose aggregate incomes total at the very least $50,000,000 per year, or equivalent to the earnings of 100,000 wage earners at the average rate of $500." Now, if these men were once to get the vision of the things that could be accomplished by using that money properly, I do not doubt but they would be willing and anxious to use it in the right way instead of making it into gun powder to blow up the human race. And I know right well that the majority of the unemployed would be willing to work if they were getting enough to keep them in "cats" and enough extra to keep a wife and family, to educate them and to go to the picture show and perhaps they would join the churches if they could afford it, and they might even subscribe for The Observer. Let us hope that some day this will be true.

JENNIE DISQUA.

The acquisition through the gift of the municipality of Tokyo of budwood from the famous Arkawa collection of flowering cherry trees and their propagation on introduced Japanese cherry stocks has put the department in a position to give a wide trial in the near future to the hardiness of these superbly beautiful trees as dooryard and park trees.

AMERICAN TOURISTS SPENT 100 MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR

Paris, Feb. 1.—(United Press by Mail)—While Americans have left an average of $100,000,000 annually in France seeking pleasure, they have only contributed about $12,000,000 since the war for the benefit of French wounded and homeless.

This statement is made today by the American Relief Clearing House in an appeal to Americans for more funds and necessities to carry on the work.

In a pamphlet just issued the relief organization harks back to the American revolution when money advanced by France practically saved the American government from disruption. At the beginning of 1789, in America, a Continental dollar was worth two cents, a bushel of corn $15 and a suit of clothes $2000.

Newspapers From Distant Lands— Oddities of the Foreign Press.

The Chamberlain Medicine company, Des Moines, Iowa, manufacturers of Chamberlain's cough remedy, advertise not only in this country but in foreign lands. A copy of each issue of every newspaper containing their advertisements is sent to the office of the Chamberlain Medicine company as a proof of the insertion of the advertisement. Some of the papers bear names of places which require one to recall forgotten geography or refer to the atlas to locate. Some of them are particularly curious as they are published in the vernacular or native languages which might be likened to the carefully written notes of a shorthand writer.

Here are the well known Chinese characters arranged in vertical lines reading from top to bottom, the lines arranged from right to left.

The Burmese language, as printed is composed principally of a combination of circles. Some one wittily suggested that for this reason circulars would be properly printed in this language.

Cingalese, the language of Ceylon, is also curvilinear. Javanese and Siamese are composed largely of vertical lines connected by loops at either top or bottom but rarely at both.

The four hundred million people of India have nearly fifty different dialects or vernaculars. The Chamberlain Medicine company advertises in ten of the principal ones as follows: Bengali, Gujarathi, Hindi, Kanarese, Malayalam, Marathi, Sindhi, Tamil, Telegu and Urdu. The Sindhi and Urdu are written from right to left in the Hebrew fashion. The Urdu is a sort of script and is so chaotic in shape that it is impossible to reduce it to the movable type form. Papers printed in the Urdu language are therefore first written out by hand and a plate made by the lithograph process. The "Oudh Akbar," a sixteen page daily published at Lucknow in this language, claims a circulation of about 5000. It is said that in order to handle this circulation it requires an office force of about 200. Fortunately for the managers, the wages paid to natives are only a few cents a day.

The Chamberlain Medicine company advertises in newspapers printed in 32 languages. Besides the vernaculars and the well known European languages, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, German, etc., the list embraces a number of languages which until comparatively recent times possessed no alphabet but for which the Roman alphabet has been adopted. There is also a modern form of the Malay language using Roman characters, known as Romanized Malay. This is used in Java and the East Indies.

It is difficult to conceive how the readers of some of the papers manage to handle them. Imagine a man on a crowded street car trying to read a paper whose pages are thirty-eight inches long and twenty-nine inches wide. This is the size of the "Hita-dabi," a Bengali weekly published in Calcutta, India.

To an American newspaper man it is interesting to note the manner in which the colonial English newspapers are made up. They still cling to the methods which were practiced in this country 50 years ago, the advertisements being upon the first pages, followed generally by the heavy editorials, then a few meager cable and telegraphic items, afterwards the local news. The local news consists principally of the proceedings of the legislative bodies, town council, school board, etc. Contributions by the readers are numerous and lengthy. The editorials are generally of a more dignified and serious nature than American productions. The daily papers devote more space to book reviews and detailed reports of scientific progress than American newspapers do. Humor is not so noticeable and cartoons are used more rarely than with us.

Very few, if any, of the colonial papers issue a "pink sheet," but they supply this omission by devoting a large proportion of every issue to the sporting news.

With few exceptions the advertising pages would give our "ad" writers the nightmare. They seem to have little conception of the value of space or of attractive methods of presenting either the text or the illustrations. A pleasing relief to this monotony is afforded by the "ads" of American advertisers which are rather numerous on their pages.
