Myself and the water superintendent visited Mr. Gekley and talked with him relative to the ditch carrying the overflow from the septic tank.

As a result of a conference with the ditch company held yesterday, we were granted permission to divert the water from the sewer for a limited time from the tank, and give the tank a thorough cleaning.

We found that the members of the ditch company were willing to meet the city half way in the matter of taking care of the sewerage, but that they expect the city to put forth every effort to remedy the condition.

They will present the commission with a written statement relative to their position, and asking that the tin sewer be freed from present sewer connections. In my opinion the city should see that all sewer connections which open into the tin sewer should be changed to the sanitary sewer; and the necessary corrections made in the construction at the Jefferson street crossing.

Respectfully submitted,
F. B. CURREY,
General Manager.

THE CHUBBY ONE.

Fashioned of any becoming color, this slip-on of satin is so easily made that any clever woman may copy it. The whole effect lies in a pair of ruffled pockets and the ruche and fichu of white tulle, prevalent in any good shop.

Dressy for afternoons is this delectable suit of tan gaberdine, cut with small side plaits and adorned with metal embroidery. Please note that a smart effect the belted jacket achieves and the straw tricorne.

Here's an interesting mode for chunky girls. It is put up in a ginger-snap brown pongee adorned with patches of hand-broidery done in ecru silk. The hat is a deep coffee color banded high with grosgrain ribbon.
