Johnnie Bull Will Start Wearing Wooden Shoes

England, Facing Acute Leather Shortage, Is Adopting Clogs—Demand Is So Great That One Firm Declines Order For 100,000 Pairs.

London, Feb. 20.—(By Mail)—(United Press)—England, faced with an acute leather shortage, is adopting wooden shoes, commonly known in the Netherlands as clogs.

This situation, which before the war would have been hooted by John Bull, today is faced calmly. Measures have been taken looking toward the development of the already established business of making clogs.

To quote the Textile Mercury, of Manchester, on the subject:

"Hundreds of London school children are now wearing clogs, which cost about 3 shillings a pair (73 cents) and London County Council school-teachers have been providing clogs for ill-shod pupils, who have been paying for them by weekly installments of 3 pence."

The price of leather, states a writer in the paper mentioned, suggests that the city man of the future will clatter to business in his clogs. "For country wear one can buy an elegant pair of lace-up clogs at a quarter the price of equally efficient boots." Apart from the attention that they would attract, there is no reason why these should not be worn in "town." There is nothing undignified in the clog worn by the Lancashire or Yorkshire textile worker. Not a few of the captains of the textile industry have themselves worn clogs, and some at least would not be ashamed to wear them again.

The present home demand is so great that an order for 100,000 pairs of sabots for the Belgian government has just had to be declined by a British clog-making firm.

Lang Floating Railroad Bridge Across Canal.

At Paraiso, a point about two miles northwest of Miraflores, a swinging pontoon bridge carries the Panama Railway across Gailard Cut to the west side of the canal where military posts are situated. So that they would not infringe upon the width of the channel, the abutments for the approaches were established in pockets excavated in the sides of the waterway, while on the east bank a long recess was dug to receive the bridge when open. This harbor extends south of the abutments. Since the bridge is pivoted at the northeast corner, it can thus be swung entirely out of the channel when opened. The pontoon is 378 feet in length and has a width of 55 feet. It is constructed of heavy timbers fitted with six longitudinal bulkheads, and supplied with a pumping system for discharging bilge water.—From the March Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Tire Vulcanizing Taught In Public Schools.

Some of the pupils enrolled in the vocational-training classes of the Cincinnati public schools are being taught to repair the tires of their father's motor cars, according to the March Popular Mechanics Magazine. Not long ago an automobile concern loaned some of its equipment to the schools with the result that a thorough course in tire vulcanizing and repairing has been established. The work, as one might imagine, appeals to a large percentage of the boys and therefore the course is a popular one.

Cornell is more famed for turning out orsmen than statesmen, yet it can point to one member of the new British cabinet as well as to the president of Cuba.

In these days of high prices and extravagant tastes, it is natural for the entire contents of the pay envelope to slip away unless a careful plan of regular savings has been adopted.
