Hans Wagner, The Marvel of Baseball

By H. C. Hamilton
New York, March 20.—(United Press)—So much has been written of Hans Wagner, his record, his habits, and his all round sterling qualities, that it seems futile to add to the miles of columns that have been used in his favor. Wagner, however, is getting ready to enter his twenty-sixth season of baseball, and the marvel of it is, he is counted on to play a most important part in the hopes of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Wagner is a wonder. His remarkable ball playing isn't the only thing that holds him up to fandom on a pedestal few players ever have reached and none surpassed. Wagner began to be a ball player before many men now in the game were born. It was in 1891 that he did his first work for the Mansfield, Pa., club. He branched from there to Ohio, finally getting his name into the records for the first time in 1895 when he played with Steubenville as an outfielder. He hung up a mark of 402 for forty-four games.
Wagner spent a couple of seasons in the Atlantic league, playing with Patterson, and then went to Louisville, and then was taken with the club when it was transferred to Pittsburgh. He played first base, third base, and in the outfield for Louisville, hammering the ball each year for averages far ahead of .300, once attaining .379.
Wagner first dropped from the charmed circle of batsman when he hit only .252 in 1914, just after he had barely stuck in the class by hitting an even .300.

Wagner is failing. He isn't the same old ball player at all. He isn't through because he will not admit it, and his smartness in the field and at bat makes him to be desired over younger players, who probably would cover more ground. He admitted a year ago it was becoming hard for him to see the ball, and this probably means he will be on the bench a great deal of the time this summer.
Indications are he will not be used in his old position of shortstop but will take care of first base for Jimmy Callahan's entry.
TRACK STARS IN INDOOR MEET TONIGHT
By H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 20.—Track stars from every section of the country arrived here today for competition tonight in the annual senior indoor championship of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. The meet will be held in the armory of the Twenty-second regiment, New York National Guard.
For the first time in the history of the championships Cornell will be represented by a team of athletes. Ezra Wenz and Alma Richards, the latter the all-round star from the Ithaca college, will compete.
Sensational performances are expected to be recorded. Joie Ray, the distance running marvel, doubtless will take some more cracks at long established records, while the sprints are certain to develop some extraordinary performances.
Jack Eller, the local hurrier, probably will be barred from the meet. He was suspected of wearing shoes with spikes when the Metropolitan championships were held in the armory last month and Col. Vanderbilt, commanding the regiment, has asked that the athlete violating armory rules be barred from further competition in that building. Secretary Frederick W. Rubien, of the A. A. U., promised the action would be taken if the man could be found.
The following events make up the program for the national championships:
Sixty yards run, 300 yards run, 600 yards run, 1,000 yards run, two-mile run, two-mile walk, five-mile run, 70 yards hurdles, six hurdles 3 feet six inches high, placed ten yards apart; standing high jump, standing broad jump, sixteen-pound shot put, and a relay race for teams of four men each, first man to run 440 yards, second 220 yards, third 880, fourth one mile.
Gold medals will be given first place winners, silver for the second, and bronze for third. A silver cup will be given to the college or athletic club team scoring the highest number of points. Five points will be scored for first place, three for second, two for third, and one for fourth.
The man who is long on conviviality usually has a wife who is short on house money.—Old Man Sage.

MODART CORSETS
Front Laced
Why Look Older Than You Are?
It is astonishing how many women through lack of attention are wearing corsets that give a more mature appearance to the figure than it should have and consequently they appear to be five or ten years older than they are.
It is possible to readily improve that condition if you will come to our corset department and get a trial fitting of the MODART front-laced corset.
See for yourself the youthful and graceful lines this famous corset will give you.
No expense to you—do not buy unless there is a decided improvement—then you should.
