sor of the recent legislature which tried to handle the "consolidation" of state commissions.

Mr. Scroggin said today that no organization of the board had been effected and as yet no announcement of meeting has been made. The other members of the board are:

A. J. Johnson, Corvallis; John H. Carlin, Medford; Austin T. Buxton, Forest Grove; Frank Patten, Astoria; Herman Van Borstel, Portland; Chas. Rudeen, Portland.

Necessity for the appointment of such a commission became apparent in the closing days of the last legislature after that body had wrestled with the consolidation problem from the beginning of the session.

While the legislature was practically a unit in the belief that some consolidation and elimination of commissions should be brought about, no conclusion could be arrived at to cover any general consolidation program.

company, Coast artillery, called Friday to guard bridges, is the only other unit of the Oregon militia under arms. Seven other companies of the coast artillery, troop cavalry, battery and artillery not yet called, but are expecting orders.

Ordered to Join Company.
Lawrence Dinneen, member of company L, Dallas, Third Regiment, Oregon national guard, received orders this morning to join his company in Dallas by Saturday of this week. "Squeak" McDonald, of the O.-W. R. and N. company here, member of the Oregon naval militia, has received unofficial notification to be ready to leave.

Marines Section Waiting.
The marine section of the Oregon naval militia, Portland, expects to be called at any time to help Eighth company of the coast artillery in guarding Portland bridges. This news came to La Grande through letters to friends of members of the marine section.

Salem, Ore., March 26.—(United Press)—Major Carle Abrams has received a report that all companies of the third battalion are far below required strength. Major Abrams said, "we want minimum of a hundred men for each company, and we must have 60 before company can be moved. We have been given three or four days to recruit to strength."

Are You Aware?

That Eighth company and Fifth company, coast artillery corps, Oregon national guard hold first and second place, respectively, in the United States for militia coast artillery work? It is seldom that two companies from one state hold such an honor. The places were won by both companies with the same big gun at Fort Stevens, Ore.

That Baker has been invited to form a national guard company by the state's national guard officers? The officers and men of the national guard are now paid and this, together with the establishment of an armory building means money brought into the city each month in salaries and maintenance. Some national guard men have hinted that sooner or later, and in the present state of affairs, "sooner," some Eastern Oregon city will be headquarters for the national guard east of the Cascades.
