Relatively, It Cost More In The 14th

Seattle, Wash., Mar. 26—(United Press)—A carpenter in the fourteenth century received a wage of only 12 cents a day, against $4.50 today. Yet the cost of living was, relatively, higher than it is today.

The statement is that of Professor R. M. Garrett of the University of Washington, who also recites a list of food costs taken from the account of the expenditures of the Earl of Derby, latter King Henry IV of England, as he was about to embark in 1390 on a campaign against the Lithuanians.

A carpenter, in those days, for his daily wages of 12 cents could buy one pound of butter, two pounds of cheese, a pound of salt, two pounds of flour, one dozen and a half eggs, a chicken and a pound of rice. A carpenter of today would have to pay $2.60 cents for this bill of goods but it wouldn't eat up his entire daily wage, as it would that of the carpenter of 1390. The later carpenter would still have $1.90 left. So, argues Prof. Garrett, while the worker of today pays more for necessities, he gets much more, comparatively, for his labor. So the times are better.

In 1390 eggs were nine cents a gross. The Earl of Derby paid 30 cents for 300 eggs that today would cost him from $12.50 to $14.50. For 14 pounds of butter, that would now cost him $7, he paid a shilling, or 25 cents. Rice brought by way of Venice from the east cost 10 pounds for a shilling. It costs a dollar today.

The one shilling exception to the general rise in price that has occurred since that time is sugar. In 1390 it cost 36 cents a pound, and now it retails at 8 cents. Here are some other prices taken from the Earl of Derby's accounts:

A fine white horse, $25; ale, to 4 cents a gallon; best wine, 5 cents a quart; mutton, 65c a carcass; beef, $3.75 to $7.50 a carcass; vinegar, 10 cents a gallon; dates 7 cents a pound; blankets, 32 cents a yard.

Business and Industrial Officials, as Well as Trained Soldiers Are in Demand

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, March 27.—The U. S. War Department wants trained men for reserve officers in the event of war, and many of these same trained men may be equally desirous of ascertaining their status should they be called to arms. Every qualified man can have his status fixed by taking an examination for the position which he is best qualified to fill. This examination can be taken before Col. V. A. Colwell, commandant of the O. A. C. Cadet regiment, and Lieut. R. D. Johnson, who have been appointed examining officers by the War Department. Men proficient in any of the following lines are eligible, if not over age limit, to take the examinations:

Army service, either with U. S. Army of National Guards; graduates of institutions with prescribed military training such as the Oregon Agricultural College; where graduates are particularly desired, railway managers, superintendents of large supply and warehouse concerns, animal buyers, wholesale mercantile managers, and other highly trained specialists in similar lines; mechanical, mining

THE FORUM

What's the Use?

La Grande, Ore., March 27.—(To the Editor, Observer.)—The discussion in the Observer on "What must I do to be saved," like every one preceding it, runs into a labyrinth of winding passages and every one has about the same notion that he had before.

It matters not what thesis or hypothesis we may formulate as to the "origin and destiny" of men and things they all amount to the same thing on final analysis.

Assuming that God is eternal, infinite, "From everlasting to everlasting, without beginning of days or end of years," and that He has sounded the height and depth of all knowledge there is no difficulty in accepting Calvin's doctrine of predestination. Whatever is to be will be. The result is the same whether we assume that all phenomena proceeds from the action of a Divine Will or is the manifestation of a chain of efficient causes.

You cannot determine the Ultimate. You cannot circumscribe the Universe in its magnitudes nor its infinitesimals. You cannot conceive of Eternity. Beyond the very narrow margin of knowledge all is unknowable and unthinkable. The result is the same if borne away on the pinions of unbounded imagination. So what's the use?

J. B. STODDARD.

"Pa, I know which is the most warlike, nation."
"Well, my son, which is it?"
"Vaccination, pa. 'Cause it's always in arms, isn't it?"

Nobody on Earth Got More Fun Out of Life Than Jesus

An article entitled "My Silent Partner" in the April American Magazine gives a new and interesting interpretation of the life of Christ as applied to present day problems. In it the writer says:

"I don't know how this 'man of sorrows' idea came to get so strong a hold. Nobody ever lived on this earth who had a better time of it than he. The whole story about him is filled with references like this: 'A certain man besought him to dine with him.' He always seems to have accepted, and he wasn't very particular who it was that invited him, at that. In fact I don't think any man ever lived who had such a wide variety of friends: Straight-laced Pharisees, and rich men that slipped around to see him at night because it wasn't respectable to be seen with him in the daytime, and fishermen, and prostitutes, and publicans, and sinners. He knew them all, they all liked him—and to get him to the house for a meal was to score a social triumph.

"Why, the very first miracle he did wasn't done to point a moral or even to save a life. It was done just to save a poor hostess from embarrassment, to keep up. He was at a wedding (and, by the way, weddings in those days were about as care-free and boisterous affairs as you would want to see). He was enjoying it all,

It is possible to readily improve that condition if you will come to our corset department and get a trial fitting of the MODART front-laced corset.

See for yourself the youthful and graceful lines this famous corset will give you.

No expense to you—do not buy unless there is a decided improvement—then you should.
