Japan Prepares To Gain Concessions

Tokio, Mar. 5.—(By mail)—(United Press)—Much conjecture is being made here today to how much Japan will add to her already large interests in China as a result of the war, but Baron Hayashi, Japanese Minister to Peking, here to confer with his government, does not hesitate to make it plain Japan is preparing to ask China for a large concession at Tsingtau, the colony seized from Germany.

"Japan can dispose of the Shantung Railway without waiting for the peace conference, and it is absurd to doubt that this railway line will not come under Japanese influence," Baron Hayashi told the newspaper men. "Japan will also ask China to agree to the establishment of a Japanese concession at Tsingtau," he continued, "but whether other foreign countries will be permitted to establish settlements at Tsingtau, as in other Chinese ports, is a question which I cannot discuss now."

PATRIOTISM IS SHOWN ALL OVER THE STATE

Portland, Ore., March 31.—(United Press)—Each day the national guard officers of the three northwest states receive dozens of offers from individuals, cities, villages and firms. Bend, Baker and other Washington, Idaho and Oregon towns which now have no militia units are offering to recruit companies. Many Spanish-American war veterans and ex-guard officers are offering to raise troops in their home districts. The Women's Cooperative league, of Portland, has offered to supply the soldiers with

"housewives," little sewing kits. College students are forming drill teams in a dozen towns. The Gearhart Park company has extended to the use of the national guard a large tract along the coast for troop purposes.

Then there are the offers of such men as Matt Farley, a Civil War veteran, who is willing to go into his country's services again.

Who can doubt our patriotism in the face of such facts as these.

It is a pleasing thing to see the way a small boy worships the American flag.

Baker's School Attendance.

Baker, March 31.—(Special)—Contagious diseases including measles, mumps and chickenpox have made perceptible inroads in the school attendance this month according to the report of City Superintendent A. C. Strange.

dismissal of the city schools has been avoided only through the diligent cooperation of the teachers in sending children home when they are believed to be infected or when members of their families are ill with contagious diseases.

Mr. Strange states that the total

"PAYING THE PRICE"

Gail Kane Heads a Strong Cast in a Well-Made Brady Subject with a Touch of the Sea.

Paragon's release through the World Film, "Paying the Price," is worth while. It will be shown at the Arcade Sunday only. It is a subject containing good situations and there are excellent players to interpret the roles, principal and subordinate. Gail Kane is at the top of the list, and with her are George Relph, Gladden James, George Majeroni and June Elvidge. The interest is well divided between all of these; in fact, the story has been told as a story, without any effort to build it around one to the exclusion of others.

Miss Kane is charming in the light or passages—she has marked magnetic quality—but it is in the sterner moments when she is at her best. Her role is that of the woman who picks from two men the wrong one for a husband—and very soon discovers her error. The dramatic interest is intensified by the decision of the wife after a battle with herself that she will adhere to the right. Mr. Relph is the naval officer who sees the woman he loved married to the army man to whom he had introduced her. Mr. James is the successful suitor who through his habits of spending gets into difficulties and attempts to recoup by selling government secrets. Mr. Majeroni is the foreign agent who seeks to obtain the formula of the explosive invented by the navy man.

Director Frank Crane received from the Navy Department valuable assistance in the staging of his subject. He had at his disposal a torpedo boat, of which we have many intimate views. One of the more interesting of these is the loading, aiming and launching of a torpedo. There is a thrill in the denouement when in testing the new explosive the torpedo tube is trained on the hulk on which are hiding the army officer and the foreign agent, that they may the better observe the result of the test.

To Discuss Tourist Fund.

Salem, Ore., March 31.—(United Press)—Representatives of the commercial clubs and county courts from all parts of Oregon will gather in Portland Saturday to form an advisory committee in connection with the expenditure of funds appropriated by the last legislature to promote tourist travel to Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. State officials are also interested in the session.

"The conferees will have no real power in expending the money," said Mark Woodruff, director of the Northwest Tourist Association, in explaining the nature of the meeting. "But it seems no more than right that the various sections of the state should have some voice in the spending of the money."

Viola Dana Found Many Admirers When Appearing in Mining Scenes for Play.

Many of the strongest scenes in "Threads of Fate," the new Metro feature with Viola Dana as star, which will be seen at the Sherry theatre on Sunday and Monday were taken in the famous coal mining district around Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The pictures taken there depict the life of the coal miners and their struggles with capital.

So enthusiastic were the Dana "fans" that the dainty little star had considerable trouble in going through with her work without being interrupted by a child with a bunch of flowers for her, or a man or woman who wanted to tell her how fine she was in her recent play, "The Gates of Eden."

But the Dana "fans" also proved of valuable assistance. They brought information as to the prettiest spot for scenic photography, and clamored for the privilege of appearing as "supers" in "Threads of Fate."
