Little Honey In a Company Mood

UNLINED, and therefore easily washable, is this adorable small gown of white net, trimmed with fine val lace and low girdled with pink ribbon. The fascinating bonnet is of white point d'esprit adorned with narrow ribbon the shade of the sash and a cluster of rosebuds.
Evening dress and wrap of pale blue faille silk, exquisitely embroidered in silver—the wrap lined with matching chiffon.
Somberness seems to be the tone of the color range in afternoon dresses, with dull gold, navy and black featured, but a pleasing touch of color is effected by embroidery in Persian tint. ANNA MAY.

recent operetta concert and some new ones which will give the visitors an enjoyable entertainment. Next in order will be that sumptuous banquet served the visiting delegates and their wives in the basement of the M. E. church at 6:30 p. m. All Modern Woodmen and their wives of the county and Royal Neighbors are welcome at the banquet but seats must be reserved before hand at 50 cents a plate. They can be secured through W. F. Ashman at the Y. M. C. A. by telephone.

At the banquet, Fred B. Currey of La Grande will be generalissimo and the program follows: "Old Friends So True," Charles R. Harding and Sextet; Toast by Hon. Senator Walter M. Pierce, silver-tongued orator, Union county's senator-farmer; Piano Selection, Miss Wilson, La Grande; Woodmen Pep, "Rube" Foster, Portland; Address, David Link, Eugene; Impressions of Woodcraft, Reverend Chas. Edwards, D. D., pastor of M. E. Church, La Grande; Royal Neighbors, Mrs. Bert Oakman, past deputy supreme orator; Solo, Chas. Harding; Address, Chas. R. M. H. Kendall, McMinnville. Short talks will close the convention. The Y. M. C. A. will be the headquarters and home of the delegates while present and the whole town is to be turned over to their amusement. Two special features that the general arrangements committee is especially desirous of having strikingly emphasized upon the public and lodge-men generally are that the reception is open to the public. The two-act moving picture attraction is drawing big crowds everywhere and is exceptionally good. No charge is attached to any of the evening's features. The other fact is that those desiring plates reserved should do it early. They will be reserved for 50 cents payable at the time of the banquet.
