Mrs. George Kennedy, Wife of Union Pacific Brakeman Receives Fatal Injuries in Auto Accident.

Pendleton, May 1.—(Special)—Mrs. George Kennedy, wife of a Union Pacific passenger brakeman, and daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. T. J. Tweedy, was fatally injured Sunday afternoon when an automobile in which she was a passenger, was struck by a passenger engine on the O-W. track at the West Webb street crossing. She suffered a broken hip, broken ankle and compound fracture of the right elbow, in addition to probable injuries to the spine and internal injuries which caused her death at the hospital about 10 o'clock Sunday night.

Fred Bunn, driver of the car, sustained two fractured ribs and a bad cut on the head. Anton Gentress, who was riding on the pilot of the engine, was bruised and cut about the face. Neither of the men was seriously hurt. The machine a light runabout, was stripped as neatly as if it had been done by hand. Gentress, who was least injured, was pinned beneath the wreck of the car.

The engine was that which brought the Spokane train to the city and was on its way to the Y in the rear of the Roundup grounds, rolling along at about 15 miles an hour with Gentress on the pilot to throw the switch. The crossing is open for a long distance on either side of the street, the engine bell was ringing and the members of the engine crew made every effort to warn the automobilists and avoid the accident.

Mrs. Kennedy was returning from a visit to Pilot Rock. Her machine broke down on the road and she accepted the offer of a ride to town with Mr. Bunn who was on his way to the city from the Gudarian ranch where he has been feeding his stock this winter. Neither was able to give a coherent account of the cause of the accident and Mr. Bunn is at a loss to account for it.

Mrs. Kennedy was raised at Pilot Rock but has lived in Pendleton since she was about 14. She leaves her parents and one sister, Mrs. Frank Bonney of Oakland, Cal., and her husband, who is in Wyoming. No funeral arrangements will be made until word is received from him.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kennedy were residents of this city up to five or six weeks ago. Mr. Kennedy was employed as brakeman on the O-W. R. & N. Co., and upon a shortage of help was transferred to Pendleton, where they have made their home.

VISITING KNIGHTS ARE ABLE ORATORS

Among the brilliant orations at the Knights of Columbus banquet Sunday, which were omitted on account of lack of space yesterday were those of Mr. A. A. Smith, Past Grand Knight of Baker, and Frank J. Lonergan, District Deputy, of Portland.

Mr. Smith had been heard before in La Grande on the occasion of the patriotic celebration at the Merchants' luncheon and his reputation as an orator was well known. Mr. Smith took occasion to refer to the prevalence of atheism, and declared that no one could travel over hill or dale, over mountains and valleys, see the grain and the trees, the flowers and the birds and in a calm, sober, sensible mind deny the existence of the Deity. Mr. Smith declared that the Knights belonged to the oldest generation of the day, one that had survived the shocks of centuries and had witnessed the rise and fall of many nations. He said that the people of today had a duty to God and a duty to country, and that manhood and womanhood would be measured by their fulfilling their duty to both. Patriotism, he declared was the noblest quality and he expressed the hope and the firm belief that the people of America would measure up to their duties and responsibilities.

Frank J. Lonergan is also a spirited orator, and he delivered an excellent oration upon the present day problems.

He declared that the enemies of the country were the forces of anarchy which were attacking the vitals of the land. He urged steadfast and loyal support to the President and the nation, as had already been so willingly given, and commented upon the pride pared and can be put in proper shape to receive a hard surface at a cost of $500 per mile. There are some stretches where the cost of grading will be much more than that but the average cost the state over for preparing these roads for a hard surface will probably not exceed $1500 to $2000 per mile. Nearly all the counties are in shape to do that without bonding or even increasing their road tax.

"Then they add $18,000,000 to this budget by saying that it will cost $12,000 per mile to improve 1500 miles of post roads, and then say that 600 miles of forest roads will cost $10,000 per mile, or $6,000,000 more.

"These two latter statements fall of their own weight. While many miles of road appear upon the map as post roads, there are only small sections that require improvement as a post road, and out of the mileage marked forest roads, much is already completed. Therefore, their scare lines as to the large cost of improving this road system become merely erroneous and misleading statements.

"The facts are that with the use of this bond money for hard surfaces, plus the money from the Bean bonds and Federal government for work on post and forest roads, plus the surplus in the highway fund for use on still other roads, we will be able within a period of five years to fairly well complete in good shape all of the mileage designated in this bill without any further borrowing of money."

"On equal distribution of work throughout the state he said: "Bear in mind this, that no part of the state is to have its work taken up and completed before other parts of the state are considered, but every part of the state will be considered at the same time and work in all sections of the state will be under progress at the same time.

"As far as it is within the power of the Highway commission to spend these funds in that portion of the state from whence they will come, it will be done. Any other system would be unfair and prejudicial to all future work."
