If your dealer does not carry Morse's Seeds, send direct for our catalogue—Free. Your order will be promptly attended to. C. C. MORSE & CO. Seedsmen San Francisco

—If you must marry and run the chance of being called slacker, don't give your wife a "slacker ring," is the advice of members of the American Chemical society. The "slacker ring" is the platinum ring. If your sweetheart demands a diamond ring, see to it that even the prongs bear no platinum, and above all beware of the platinum wedding ring. Platinum is a necessary metal in many industries closely connected with the war. It is now five times more valuable than gold. Allen Rogers, speaking for the American Chemical society, declared today it is "shameful that personal vanity should prove such a handicap to the government, and that a mere frivolous fad should deprive chemists and manufacturers of the proper materials to meet the demands placed upon them." Fifty per cent of the platinum used in the United States is on fine jewelry, according to a report of the U. S. department of the interior.

Coal Scarce Dredging in Argentine Stops

Buenos Aires, May 8.—Coal is so scarce in Argentina that the dredging of the country's navigable rivers and of Buenos Aires harbor has practically been suspended. This is a particularly serious matter here, as it was necessary originally to deepen the local harbor to permit the entrance vessels and a constant continuation of dredging is required to prevent it from refilling. The newspapers are urging the government to keep the dredges working off Buenos Aires, at least, at almost any cost.

LORD RHONDDA SAYS AMERICAN BUSINESS NEED NOT FEAR WAR

BRITAIN'S EXPERIENCE, HE DECLARES, HAS BEEN BETTER FINANCIAL CONDITIONS

EXCESS PROFITS ARE LARGE

British Workmen Have Received Higher Wages and Spend More, He Says, Thus Helping Tradesmen. London, May 8.—(United Press)—American business has nothing to fear from the war. The profits in England have been above normal since the war began. Lord Rhondda, president of the local government board and a member of Lloyd George's cabinet, in making this statement today to the United Press declared the American business man—from the small tradesman up to the biggest capitalist—can look optimistically to the future. Lord Rhondda may be best known to Americans as D. A. Thomas—his name before elevation to a title. He is one of the world's captains of industry, with interests in not only England, but in France, Italy, Spain, Russia, Brazil and Argentina. He has made frequent visits to the United States—his latest being one undertaken at the request of Premier Lloyd George to arrange supplies for England and to obtain information as to American business conditions. Excess Profits Tax Great. "I have never been inclined to urge that America 'come in,'" Lord Rhondda told the United Press today, "and this notwithstanding the fact that I was aboard the Lusitania when the Germans torpedoed her. I have consistently believed that America would do the right thing—but that it was America's own problem. "Now that America has taken the step, I feel free to assure American business men—among whom I have a great number of friends—that possible fears for business disaster through the war are likely to prove unfounded. "Certainly it has not been that case in England, except in isolated instances in some lines. The government realized $700,000,000 from its excess profits tax last year. That means profits above the normal before the war profits. The profits last year were $1,160,000,000, since $700,000,000 represents the 60 percent tax. English Labor Has Profited. "Moreover, as year's profits were achieved with but little evidence of so-called profiteering. Labor obtained its due proportion in increased wages—as witnessed by ability of the workmen to meet the increased cost of living and at the same time spend more. "The latter fact is one of the reasons why tradesmen have not suffered as perhaps they anticipated. "Please don't misunderstand me—war isn't a business any truly civilized government should enter for the purpose of making profit, but it is one of the strange facts incidental to this war that such has been the case. Panic Need Not Be Feared. "America, like England, need not contemplate the wrecking of the fabric of its business life. "America knows what hard times periods are—though fortunately the wisdom of the new financial system instituted by President Wilson's administration has obviated a recurrence of such panics as those which once periodically afflicted business. A war such as America faces can't be compared for its effect on business with those former hard time periods. "Events have made it necessary that

English Girls Take Up Cigarette Smoking

BY J. W. PEGLER. (United Press Staff Correspondent.) London, April 20.—(By Mail)—English girls are smoking cigarettes. No man who knows enough to take his spoon out of his cup will think of passing up the ladies when he offers cigarettes with after-dinner coffee. He is bound to give them a chance to turn down the proffered pill, if any of them are non-smokers. Women smoke as much as men in the restaurants and in the lounge-rooms of hotels.
