Cove's Cherry Fair.

The Annual Cherry Fair will occur this year around the 19th of June and it is proposed to make it one of the most successful yet held. These fairs have given Cove a good deal of prominence in the past but the town has not been able to attract strangers from a distance as it would like to do. There is a disposition upon the part of some of those connected with this annual event to change its nature and perhaps widen its scope so as to take in other agricultural and industrial lines. It is also claimed by some that the interests of cherry growers might be better conserved by placing the date of the fair a little earlier or a little later, so as not to bring it in the very height of the cherry season when every moment is valuable in picking and marketing the crop. This will be looked after by those interested and they will no doubt do the wise thing.—Cove Sentinel.

FIVE YOUNG AMERICANS AND WHAT EACH NEEDS

Member of Vigilantes Prescribes
For Men She Has Met Since
Outbreak of War.

By ABBIE FARWELL BROWN of the Vigilantes.

I love peace, but this is a good war! Like all women, I hate war. But now I will talk enlistment, urge service, shout war for the sake of peace!

I wish I could fight for the honor and safety of my country, to help bring back peace and justice to the world and confound brutal wickedness!

I have talked with five strong young men who have been bawling eagerly for war ever since the sinking of the Lusitania.

(With a pacifist I will not talk. He is a man of straw, a scarecrow.)

The first young man is a six foot minister, and he said: "Well, I would have hustled to serve, if only they had made war sooner upon a larger issue. I must wait now till I see my duty clearer. After all, I'm not quite sure."

That young man needs imagination. The second man is a round shouldered artist, and he said: "But look, I can serve my country best with my brain. Let the brawny common chaps get busy and defend us. Perhaps after that we shan't need!"

That young man needs exercise.

The third is a new-rich man growing stout. And he said: "Too bad! I've had no training, you know, or I'd make a good officer. But, of course, I can't grab in the ranks with those fellows. However, I'll pay for!"

That young man needs discipline.

The fourth is a poor man of foreign extraction. And he said: "You see, I can't afford to risk my job. There must be plenty other fellows who like fighting and haven't any other jobs. Sure they can get along without me. But, of course, if I have to go!"

That young man needs the American spirit.

The fifth man is a hearty, virile fellow whose ancestors fought to build up the state. And he said: "Oh, yes! I'm off! It's up to me to do my bit right now for my country, and the women and children, and you. I'm sick of those brute Prussians! They're a murdering, treacherous bunch. And suppose they get over here! O Lord! Hand me a gun, quick!"

That young man needs applause!

Yes, I could love that last young man. It will be dull here till he comes back.

WANTED, A BATTLE SONG; ONE WITH A PUNCH IN IT

Chance For Some Writer to "Put Over" Anthem That Will Stir
United States Troops.

In the cabarets the yodelers are working their larynxes to death trying to "put a real one over." The critical patriots draped about the cafe tables hearken and remain unmoved. They rise for "The Star Spangled Banner," cheer for "Dixie" and put their forks down for "America." But the whimsies about the assorted hearts of Maryland, Michigan, Oshkosh, Arkansas and Illinois leave them cold. The big song is still unborn, the song that will make the feet of the army tingle and the heart of it grow strong.

It is "Tipperary" that is credited with winning as many battles for the English as any of their generals. The French likewise have walked through the hail across No Man's Land with boulevard refrains on their lips.

"Something with a swing," said Captain F. R. Kenney of the regular army recruiting station in Chicago. "If I knew what I'd write myself. There won't be any mistaking it when it comes, though. Everybody will know it's the song."

"Now is the time for every brass band hero to come to the aid of his country," said another officer at the station. "We don't want any classical stuff or any old stuff. The old airs are still great, but this is a new war, and we want a new song."

Our Bargain

Is all our world upon a counter laid?
That is their taunt who say they know us well.

Then, like true merchants, let us to our trade:
What wares has God to sell?

A world at liberty, a path made clear
For steadfast justice and enduring peace,
Nations released forever from the fear
Of evil days like these—

A sound investment, but . . . the price is high.
Long hoarded wealth in ruin, flame and ice.

Death lurking in the sea and in the sky—
What say you? Shall we deny?

Shall we know terror; shall our strong ones fall
That others' children, fearless in the sun,

May see our visions and accomplish all
That we must leave undone?

We take thy bargain, Master of the Mart.
Though we may flinch we cannot turn away.

Send thy restless fire upon our heart
And make us strong to pay.
—Amelia Josephine Burr of the Vigilantes.
