Typical American Best For Air Service

London, May 19.—(United Press)—America has the type of young man who will be most valuable for the air service, a high military authority said today, in suggesting ways in which the United States can help win the war.

Air battle increase in size and importance of effect daily, and England and France are mobilizing some of their finest fighters for this branch of the service.

The type of man best fitted for aerial warfare is typically American—young, aggressive, keen and healthy, and English military authorities look for the greatest assistance from an American air corps, once one gets into operation on the west front.

Fried corn meal mush, fried hominy, or corn meal pancakes made with very little wheat flour, will be found a pleasing variation from wheat cakes.

ADD NORTHWEST NEWS.

Helena, Mont., May 19.—(United Press)—A mule and a Ford have equal rights on a county road. So the district court has decided and now the supreme court of the state of Montana to which the case was appealed. "When a mule and Ford auto meet on a public highway and the Ford does not turn out and give half the road, the resulting damage should not be split, but should be charged up against the owner of the automobile," is the supreme court's decision, written into the court records today by Chief Justice Brantley. This decision ends the Savage-Boyle mule controversy which attracted wide attention. E. R. Savage, driving Maud, his mule, was badly hurt when B. F. Boyle filed a counter claim. The jury found for Savage and Boyle appealed.

Tacoma, Wash., May 19.—(United Press)—Taking the places left vacant by men, women today are working in the South Tacoma car shops of the Northern Pacific. Most of the women employed now are sorting bolts and spikes, but as fast as men quit, women are tried out in their places, is practical. Shop officials said today that all the women employed up to the present time are proving themselves capable, and will continue to be employed until the war is over and the men return from war. The women were big aprons and white cotton gloves.

Portland, Ore., May 19.—(United Press)—A hand with three black spots waved before Martin Matson eighteen months ago. He rubbed his eyes and spoke. A few months later the same black hand appeared. Last Friday night he has other dreams, and the other day while talking to a minister he had a vision. Today he figured out what it is all about.

Oregon, Washington and Idaho are going to be visited by an earthquake. Flames will follow the quake and the big cities of the northwest will be threatened with destruction. "When the disaster will come," he said, "I do not know, but I believe it will be delayed long enough for the public to be warned in a general way."

He asks that all northwest papers print an account of his vision, so that the public may be warned. Having thus given his measure, Matson assumes no further responsibility in the matter.

Tacoma, Wash., May 19.—(United Press)—Fifteen-cent bread is considered likely here within a short time unless the price of flour stops in its flight toward high Heaven. Restaurant proprietors say they must either raise the price of meals or go out of business.

Portland, Ore., May 19.—(United Press)—"Have a drink?" said the happy man, waving an almost empty bottle in front of a kind faced stranger on a street corner. "I'm a cop," said the stranger, grabbing the bottle in one hand and Jacob Lewis, the happy youth, in the other. "I know one cop, and he's a good fellow," explained Lewis the next morning court. "He wouldn't pinch a guy for offering him a drink. He'd take a shot himself." "Where did you get the whiskey?" asked Deputy District Attorney Deich. "I'll not be a stool-pigeon for anybody," replied Lewis. "Ninety days," said the court.
