"A CORNER IN COLLEENS" AT ARCADE TONIGHT.

This is a story of a young American millionaire who falls in love with a tom-boy Irish lass. The comedy and dramatic incidents of the story take place during the recent Sein Fain rebellion in Dublin. The little tom-boy has many reasons to hate the man in love with her and eventually she is the means of saving him from imprisonment and death. The action moves along rapidly and the scenes are replete with incidents of timely interest.

Bessie Barriscale and Charles Ray co-star in this Thomas H. Ince production. They give an unusual dramatic performance. Miss Barriscale as a hoyden, is fascinating and the trousers she wears add considerably to her charms. Charles Ray, as the young American millionaire, is as handsome and convincing as usual.

COLONIAL

5000 INDIANS AND TROOPS FIGHT IN BIG, ESSANAY FILM.

At the Colonial Saturday, "Adventures of Buffalo Bill," Thrilling Photodrama of Life Perils of Col. William F. Cody.

"Buffalo Bill's Wild West show is coming to town!"

Millions of children throughout the United States have uttered this shout of joy during the past decade; they have set their alarm clocks and gotten up at daylight to go down to the station and meet the train; to watch, wide-eyed and with open mouths as the bands of Indians, the cowboys, buffaloes and horses detrained and moved to the circus lot where the big tents were being erected. Later they saw the big parade, and then gathered in the tent to watch the famous plainsman and his show.

"Buffalo Bill" is dead now, and his show—the tented one—will never again be seen. But "Buffalo Bill" has left us a more thrilling show than was ever witnessed before. It is Essanay's current feature, "Adventures of Buffalo Bill," which is coming to the Colonial theatre Saturday.

A year or two before Col. Cody died, the picture was filmed by Essanay. It is an historically accurate account of the famous Indian fighter's life. It shows "Buffalo Bill"—the actual man—first in the early days of his career in the wilderness; it carries him on through his battles with the Indians—showing them just as they occurred—through his great hunting trips; and gives intimate glimpses of his life up until his death.

Five thousand Indians and United States troops were used in the filming of this stupendous picture. Major General Nelson A. Miles and other great leaders of the nation's pioneer army also are shown.

The picture requires one hour and 15 minutes to be exhibited. Its thrills make one forget the time.

Central station power is used to operate 3,000 looms in a Salem, Mass., cotton mill. Each loom is operated by a half of three quarter horse-G-E electric motor.

WALLACE REID AND MYRTLE STEDMAN IN "THE PRISON WITHOUT WALLS" AT ARCADE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

ARCADE

WALLACE REID IN "THE PRISON WITHOUT WALLS" AT THE ARCADE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"Ever since my celebrated conflict with the smoky sextette in 'The Birth of a Nation,' scenario writers have been lying awake nights trying to devise some method of killing me off," announced Wallace Reid, the popular Lasky star who will be seen with Myrtle Stedman at the Arcade on Friday and Saturday in the Lasky-Paramount production "The Prison Without Walls." Mr. Reid was in a gray prison uniform and was industriously planing away on a piece of lumber in the work shop in one of the well known penitentiaries, when he made this statement, and was still breathing a little heavily from a battle he had just finished with a drug-crazed prisoner.

"Of course," he remarked, referring to the fight he had just finished, "that doesn't amount to much, because there was only one man, but when they send four, or five, or six after me, and they all know there is a standing offer around the studio of a cash bonus if I can be licked, it makes it more difficult. Even though it is only for the camera, when five or six men start after you and you know that they are going to give you a beating if possible, you have to be on your guard. They don't care how much they hurt me, and naturally I can't be particular about them. I have had the habit of picking up one of my adversaries and using him as a club against the others and sometimes they are too quick for me and this can't be done.

"If I can get my back up against the wall so that they can not jump on me from behind, then I can take care of myself. Whenever it is possible to do so without having it show in the picture, I tape my wrists before going into the fight, because that seems to be the weakest portion of my anatomy and I am always straining them.

"But I love a good battle and I am sure everyone else does too. That's why I try to make them as realistic as possible."

This film will be seen at the Arcade Friday and Saturday.
